State Board Cracks Down On Trade School Students

By SAM HANNA

Political Editor

BATON ROUGE — The State Board of Education cracked down Friday on trade schools that depend on high school students to fill their classes at a cost to the state.

W. E. Whetstone of Monroe rammed a motion past the board 6-3 to take high school students out of vocational school classes effective September 1, 1964.

"This is a dual cost to the state, since we have reached the point that we have almost as many high school students in the trade schools as we do regular students," Whetstone said.

The Fifth District board member provided in his motion however that high school students presently enrolled in a trade school class could complete the course.

Whetstone's motion touched off a heated debate at the end of a daylong board session as three of his fellow members spoke out against it.

"You passed a motion at the last meeting instructing the trade school directors to get at least 10 students in every class or either lose their jobs," protested Robert Curry of Shreveport. "Let us see how that works before we pass this. You are trying to ruin the trade schools."

"Let the directors get out and contact potential students without going to the high schools," Whetstone argued. "I'm trying to restore the trade school program to its rightful purpose."

Curry offered a substitute motion for the board to study the results of the previous Whetstone Resolution, but it failed to get a second.

"Mr. Curry wants us to go back and restudy the old motion," cracked Marshall Brown of New Orleans.

Jack Frue of Ville Platte, contending that the board owed an obligation to providing a "way of life" for youngsters, suggested that the Department of Education reduce state revenues in parishes where high school students attend trade schools too.

"Perhaps we can work this out since Mr. Whetstone wants to ec-nomy," Frue said.

But F. E. Cole of Many argued that the motion would ruin the trade schools, especially his trade school at Resgold.

"Mr. Cole do you want the taxpayers to pay double for these teachers?" Whetstone asked.

Whetstone said in the last fiscal year some 2,373 high school students attended the 27 vocational schools in the state along with 2,521 fulltime students.

He said 51 of the 208 classes taught in the trade schools had an enrollment of less than 10 students.

"My motion last month gave the directors six months to put at least 10 students in their classrooms," Whetstone said.

"Don't tell me they can not get out and hustle up enough students."

He said the practice of high (Continued on Page Five-A)

Trade School Approved For New Monroe Southside High

BATON ROUGE (Staff Special) — Preliminary plans for a new dormitory plus a dining hall at Northeast State College and a study for a proposed high school on the southside of Monroe were approved Friday by the State Board of Education.

Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, with the board's approval, said he would send a team from the Department of Education to Monroe for a study on a southside high school.

STUDY REQUIRED

W. E. Whetstone, the fifth district member of Monroe, advised the board that the study was required by law before the city school board could proceed.

"We have received a petition from groups of residents on the southside of Monroe seeking a high school in that area," Whetstone explained.

Jackson said the study would be conducted by his department as soon as possible.

Meantime the board approved preliminary plans for a new men's dormitory and a new dining hall to be located across Bayou deSiard at Northeast.

Dr. George T. Walker, college president attending the meeting, explained that the dorm would cost about $1.2 million while the dining hall cost is estimated at $370,000.

Architects Howard Rivers and Lon Heuer of Monroe explained that the dormitory completely air conditioned would house 408 students.

Dr. Walker said the dining hall would seat about 600 students.

Architects Cimini and Meric & Associates of New Orleans designed the dining hall.

With plans approved, the board now will seek bids for construction.

The board also approved the purchase of equipment for a dormitory under construction at Northeast for a cost of about $50,000.

In addition the board moved to call for bids on furniture and equipment for Harper Hall and Hutehouse Hall, both under construction at Louisiana Tech at (Continued on Page Five-A)

2 Cubans Fly To U.S. With Hijacked 'Copter

Wage Bloody Air Battle With Pilot

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)

Two Cubans hijacked a Castro military helicopter, killed its pilot in a bloody gun battle over the Atlantic Ocean on Friday and flew to Key West where they asked for political asylum.

The pilot of the copter—of the type used to keep Cubans from fleeing Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime in boats—was shot seven times. His body and his gunner, Sergio Cuba, 17, will be returned to Cuba, Sheriff Henry Haskins said.

NO CHARGES

No charges will be filed against the defectors, Haskins said. They asked to go to Miami. Although there was no word on whether asylum would be granted, it has been in similar instances in the past.

The defectors told police they had guided out their plans carefully.

Guillermo Santos, 20, said he was regularly assigned to the helicopter as a pilot. Andres Izaguirre, also 20, was assigned to another copter at the same field in Havana.

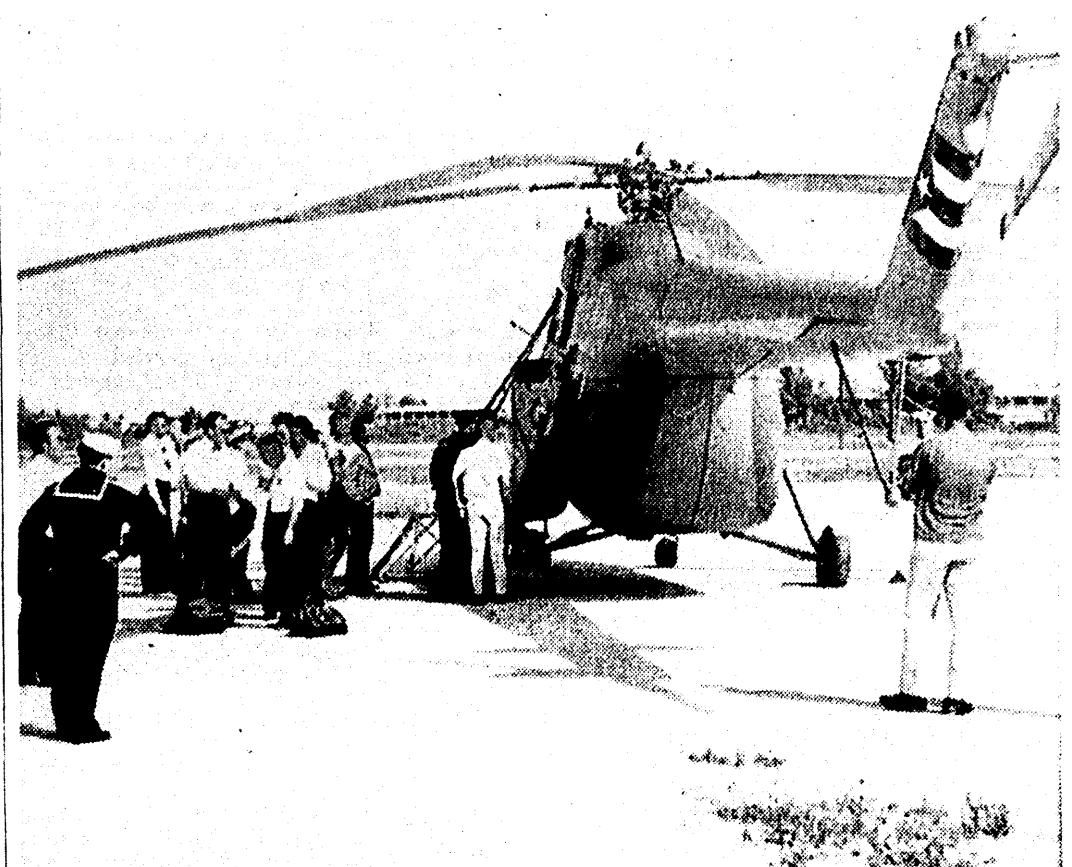

Just as Santos' craft was about to take off, Izaguirre sprinted across the field and climbed aboard with Santos' help.

They directed the pilot, Jose Marcia, 20, to fly to Florida. He refused and a gun battle followed. Besides the seven shots pumped into the pilot's body, at least two other shots cracked the copter's windshield.

Santos took over the controls and flew low into Key West. He said he wanted to fly on to Miami, but was afraid that radar would catch him.

"It was the copter — came in downwind and caught everybody off guard," said Dick Agnew, a newsman who happened to be at the airport. "It almost landed on top of another plane. As soon as it stopped, the Negro man—Rogue—started running across the field toward a motel. But he was chased down."

George Faraldo, the airport manager, said he saw the copter land from his front office. "I recognized it as Cuban immediately," he said. He said he ran out and saw Rogue start (Continued on Page Five-A)

2 Parish Rabies Cases Reported

By MARY ANNE CORPIN

Staff Writer

Two cases of rabid animals—a dog and a fox—were reported in west Ouachita Parish Friday, bringing to 15 the number of rabies cases which have occurred in northeast Louisiana so far this year.

The total for less than three months compares sharply with the 20 cases which occurred in the 14-parish area in 1963.

MAJOR OUTBREAK

Authorities said majority of the cases in 1963 occurred since last fall — indicating the possibility a major outbreak is underway.

Miss Florence Drach, administrator of the Monroe Regional Laboratory, 2915 DeSiard St., diagnosed the latest cases as rabid.

The dog died outside a residence on White's Ferry Road, West Monroe. The fox was run over on a road near Calhoun High School.

This makes six cases of rabies reported in Union and Ouachita parishes during the past eight days. Four rabid foxes were killed in Union parish.

All of the cases so far this year have been west of the Ouachita River.

A teacher enroute to Calhoun High ran over the fox Friday morning. He reported to school Principal James Walker that the animal had acted oddly, running back and forth across the highway.

Improvement

Officials report that the Ouachita Junior High campus has a new look, now that shrubbery and trees have been added to their new school building on Nutland Road.

This reportedly adds a great deal to the appearance, from a motorist's point of view.

Scout Plans

Planning for spring and summer activities will be the business Sunday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's Comanche Lodge, Order of the Arrow.

It's set for 2 p.m. in the Louis Locke Room at the main Ouachita Parish public library, according to Lodge Chief Larry Wade.

Invitations have been extended all executive committee and activities committee members.

Librarians

Librarians from the Ouachita Parish school system formed a large part of the local delegation Friday to Shreveport and the convention of the Louisiana Library Association.

Among them were Robert Hurst, West Monroe High School; Mrs. Gene Hardin, Lenoir; Mrs. Ethel Sprague, Loggown-Shady Grove; Mrs. Anne Creel, Ouachita Junior High School; Miss Judy Reagan, Drew; Swartz; and Miss Drucilla Motley, West (Continued on Page Five-A)

Moise L. Peters Enters In Race For City Mayor

Moise L. Peters, former chief of police for Monroe, announced Friday he will be a candidate for the office of mayor in the May 16 First Democratic Primary.

Peters, 47, lives at 302 Cole Avenue. His statement follows:

"I am announcing as a candidate for the position of Mayor of the City of Monroe. I promise that I will conduct a vigorous campaign in seeking this office. I will present definite and positive ideas that will show the people of Monroe that they need a change in this office to build a bigger, better and more progressive City of Monroe."

I promise that I will endeavor to reduce city taxes in one way, form or another; our city taxes today are much more than those of other cities of comparable size. Why? Only positive administrative action is necessary to reduce them.

I promise to either eliminate or readjust the garbage tax. This tax was imposed some eight years ago as a temporary emergency measure on each and every household to eliminate deficiencies that existed at that time in City Hall. Does this deficiency still exist? Is this tax necessary? Why, can't it be eliminated?

I promise a reduction in the city's utilities, water and light; the Utilities Commission operates as a non-entity of the city, as a private company, however, the rates charged are much higher than those of a private company. Why? I promise to bring the rates down.

I promise and favor a full support of a uniform and equal sewer and street improvement program. The existing open ditches on our main thoroughfares and residential areas are constant cess-pools and breeding areas for mosquitoes and vermin. Why? I propose to cover these ditches and improve our streets without additional taxes to the people.

I pledge to you, the citizens of the City of Monroe, that I will take a firm and positive stand in preserving state rights for our city and state.

I promise to insure fairness and impartiality in the law enforcement of our city ordinances so as to create an atmosphere that will increase the desire for people in the outlying areas to come to Monroe as a place for business and recreational enjoyment.

I promise to bring about an improvement and reorganization program of the City Planning Commission to encourage new business and industry to locate in Monroe. In my opinion, and in the opinion of other citizens with whom I have had contact the matter of creating and (Continued on Page Five-A)

Spring Brings Snow, Wind To U.S. Midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A blizzard raked the nation's central region as spring began Friday. Heavy snow, high winds and cold stopped travelers, closed schools and disrupted communications in the Great Plains and Midwest.

Spring began at 9:10 a.m. The storm lifted during the day in eastern Colorado where hundreds of motorists were stranded, but slugged the northern Midwest area with heavy new snow accumulations including 10 inches at Winner, S.D.; 9 inches at Hull, Iowa, and 5 inches at Sioux City, Iowa, and Superior, Wis.

It froze highway freezing, and dropped sleet and freezing rain along its southern edge through Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, posing perils to highway travelers and causing many accidents.

Ice-laden telephone lines were snapped by 40-mile winds in southwestern Minnesota, cutting communications of seven towns and knocking out phone service for 1,500 rural subscribers.

Chilly Spring
Day Forecast

The second day of Spring is forecast to bring plenty of sunshine and high temperatures of 54 to 58 today but a cold front moving eastward across the nation will send cold air in tonight with temperatures expected to drop to 33 to 38 degrees.

Skies will be fair with 90 percent or more sunshine forecast but northerly winds at 12 to 22 mph will keep a chilly edge on temperatures.

The high reading Friday was 71 with a low of 49. Sunday is expected to bring a slight increase in temperatures with a high of 66 to 70 forecast.

Winds over the Twin Cities will change from northerly today becoming easterly at 8 to 16 miles per hour through Sunday.

Ten Democrats Qualify In City Election Races

Ten Monroe Democrats qualified Friday for city races in a first primary slated May 16. Republican qualification opens today, with both parties due to close the books on candidates at 5 p.m. next Thursday.

Leading Democratic qualifiers Friday, the first day for signing up, was incumbent Mayor W. L. Howard, followed by Bill Jackson, seeking the post of finance commissioner held by H. W. McSherry.

Monroe businessman A. T. Whitte became the first qualified opposition to three incumbent city school board members who are seeking re-election.

The incumbents—J. H. Scogin Jr., Frank C. Breese Jr. and W. S. Gannaway—also qualified Friday.

Rounding out the present school board, W. E. Whetstone and Grayson Guthrie Jr. have indicated they will not run.

Others qualifying Friday included all four of the city's current Democratic executive committee members: H. Austine Miller, chairman; A. E. Anzalone; Simon A. Johnson; and D. C. Bernhardt.

Miller predicted an active day Monday as several expected candidates for the school board may come forward, along with at least one for mayor and street commissioner.

Incumbent street commissioner, W. D. H. Rodriguez, and McSherry also have announced plans to run and are expected to qualify Monday.

Meantime, would-be Republican candidates should begin qualifying today in the office, 603 Bernhardt Building, of the party's city executive committee chairman L. H. Fox.

The Republican first primary also has been set for May 16.

Democratic qualification is through Bernhardt's office, 707 Bernhardt Building, or with Miller in the city hall office of Monroe Judge W. M. Harper.

CRISIS MAY WORSEN

Cambodia Shoots Down U.S. Plane

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk charged Friday that U.S. military advisers were involved in an air and ground attack by South Vietnamese forces that killed 16 persons and wounded 14 others in a Cambodian border village.

The new Southeast Asia crisis was sure to worsen relations between the United States and Sihanouk who recently renounced U.S. aid and ordered American advisers and aid officials out of the country. It also came when Phnom Penh and Saigon were engaged in a bitter border dispute.

CAMBODIAN FIGHTERS

Sihanouk said a Vietnamese Air Force F-109 observation plane was shot down by Cambodian fighters during the reported attack Thursday on Chantrea, four miles inside the ill-defined border with South Viet Nam.

(In Saigon, official sources said a U.S. Air Force pilot was critically wounded when an unarmed F-109 Vietnamese observation plane he was piloting was shot down by two Cambodian fighters over Vietnamese territory Thursday. A South Vietnamese air force observer aboard the plane was killed, Saigon reports said.)

(The South Vietnamese government, in a formal protest, accused Cambodia of provocation and aggression in the shooting down of the U.S.-piloted plane and charged that Cambodian fighters intruded into Vietnamese air space to attack it.)

Laser Beams
Blitz Cancers
In Test Mice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Powerful concentrated light beams have destroyed certain types of cancers in mice, the Army disclosed Friday.

Dr. John Peter Minton of the National Cancer Institute used an infra-red type of "laser" ray, supplied by the Army Missile Command, in the successful experiments, the announcement said.

"Laser" stands for "light amplification through stimulated electro-magnetic radiation." Such beams have been used to bore holes through steel and even diamonds.

The Army said Minton's experiments were successful in destroying "two uniformly fatal tumor strains" in pure-bred mice.

The Army said Minton "considers it premature to make any correlation between the experiments and the potential treatment of cancer in humans."

PLAYWRIGHT SUCCUMBS

Behan Ceases Rage Upon 'Dying Light'

DUBLIN (AP)—Brendan Behan, the boisterous, bibulous Irish playwright-patriot, anti-British terrorist and incorrigible rebel against authority, died Friday night. He was 41.

At the end he was a burned-out tippler, leaving a relatively small body of published and dramatized works and ending what had promised to be a brilliant rather than merely spectacular career. He spent some of his earlier years in reformatories and prisons.

The chubby, pear-shaped little Irishman with the twisted grin and the puckish rebound from ever-imminent disaster long had suffered from diabetes and other infirmities that either arose from excesses or dictated a more austere life for survival.

Behan would periodically go on a bender with often spectacular results. His last major collapse in a diabetic seizure with complications of jaundice began a week before St. Patrick's Day.

The evening of St. Patrick's Day and the doctors began a desultory series of bulletins—condition very grave, extremely grave.

The end came at 8:40 p.m. for the former boy revolutionary, reformatory inmate and Irish prison convict. He had been in a coma for five days in Meath Hospital, with his wife at his side. One of his latest binges began with the birth last December of their first child, a daughter.

Behan's excesses were as fabulous as and even more widely publicized than the escapades of the late Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, who died in New York in 1953 at age 39 after prolonged bouts in Greenwich Village bars.

It was often said that Behan might have equalled the literary output of the prolific, brooding Eugene O'Neill, another handy man with the bottle in the early Greenwich Village.

U.S. Blames Soviets For Fliers' Fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States held Friday that the Soviet Union not East Germany, is "fully responsible" for three downed U.S. fliers. But it hinted that Western travel restrictions against East Germany might be eased if the airman are released.

The State Department set forth the U.S. position while the Russians remained silent on U.S. demands for freedom of the fliers shot down in Communist East Germany on March 10.

NO COMMUNICATION

Press officer Richard I. Phillips said no communication has been received from the Kremlin since Secretary of State Dean Rusk pressed the matter with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin on Thursday.

The department declined comment, pending receipt of the text, on Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's statement in Stockholm on Friday that the fate of the three fliers is "a matter for the East German Democratic Republic."

But Phillips promptly rejected the apparent Soviet bid to use the fliers to gain some sort of Western recognition of the East German regime.

"We hold the Soviets fully responsible for this matter," Phillips said. "We hold the Soviets responsible for return of the fliers and the wreckage of the plane," an RB66 jet reconnaissance craft.

The State Department spokesman obliquely linked the fliers' release to the East German travel ban issue, saying, "This is certainly not an appropriate time for any relaxation of travel restrictions."

He declined to say directly that the travel curbs would be softened upon return of the airman. At the same time he said the Western Allies have been discussing easing the travel restrictions but have not reached a decision.

The travel curb is one bargaining weapon the West has against East Germany which wants to ease the restrictions.

(In Saigon, official sources said a U.S. Air Force pilot was critically wounded when an unarmed Li9 Vietnamese observation plane he was piloting was shot down by two Cambodian fighters over Vietnamese territory Thursday. A South Vietnamese air force observer aboard the plane was killed, Saigon reports said.)

(The South Vietnamese government, in a formal protest, accused Cambodia of provocation and aggression in the shooting down of the U.S.-piloted plane and charged that Cambodian fighters intruded into Vietnamese air space to attack it.)

Behan Ceases Rage Upon 'Dying Light'

DUBLIN (AP)—Brendan Behan, the boisterous, bibulous Irish playwright-patriot, anti-British terrorist and incorrigible rebel against authority, died Friday night. He was 41.

At the end he was a burned-out tippler, leaving a relatively small body of published and dramatized works and ending what had promised to be a brilliant rather than merely spectacular career. He spent some of his earlier years in reformatories and prisons.

The chubby, pear-shaped little Irishman with the twisted grin and the puckish rebound from ever-imminent disaster long had suffered from diabetes and other infirmities that either arose from excesses or dictated a more austere life for survival.

Behan would periodically ignore the cautions and go on a bender with often spectacular results. His last major collapse in a diabetic seizure with complications of jaundice began a week before St. Patrick's Day.

Laser Beams Blitz Cancers In Test Mice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Powerful concentrated light beams have destroyed certain types of cancers in mice, the Army disclosed Friday.

Dr. John Peter Minton of the National Cancer Institute used an infra-red type of "laser" ray, supplied by the Army Missile Command, in the successful experiments, the announcement said.

"Laser" stands for "light amplification through stimulated electro-magnetic radiation." Such beams have been used to bore holes through steel and even diamonds.

The Army said Minton's experiments were successful in destroying "two uniformly fatal tumor strains" in purebred mice.

The Army said Minton "considers it premature to make any correlation between the experiments and the potential treatment of cancer in humans."

U.S. Blames Soviets For Fliers' Fate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States held Friday that the Soviet Union not East Germany, is "fully responsible" for three downed U.S. fliers. But it hinted that Western travel restrictions against East Germany might be eased if the air-men are released.

The State Department set forth the U.S. position while the Russians remained silent on U.S. demands for freedom of the fliers shot down in Communist East Germany on March 10.

NO COMMUNICATION

Press officer Richard I. Phillips said no communication has been received from the Kremlin since Secretary of State Dean Rusk pressed the matter with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin on Thursday.

The department declined comment, pending receipt of the text, on Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's statement in Stockholm on Friday that the fate of the three fliers is "a matter for the East German Democratic Republic." But Phillips promptly rejected the apparent Soviet bid to use the fliers to gain some sort of Western recognition of the East German regime.

"We hold the Soviets fully responsible for this matter," Phillips said. "We hold the Soviets responsible for return of the fliers and the wreckage of the plane," an RB66 jet reconnaissance craft.

The State Department spokesman obliquely linked the fliers' release to the East German travel ban issue, saying, "This is certainly not an appropriate time for any such relaxation of travel restrictions."

He declined to say directly that the travel curbs would be softened upon return of the air-men. At the same time he said the Western Allies have been discussing easing the travel restrictions but have not reached a decision.

The travel curb is one bargaining weapon the West has against East Germany which wants to ease the restrictions.

2 Parish Rabies Cases Reported

By MARY ANNE CORPIN

Two cases of rabid animals—a dog and a fox—were reported in west Ouachita Parish Friday, bringing to 15 the number of rabies cases which have occurred in northeast Louisiana so far this year.

Parish Youths To Canvass For ALSAC Funds

Ouachita Parish youngsters have been enlisted to canvass the parish in search for contributions for Aid to Leukemia Stricken American Children (ALSAC) which provides funds for the St. Jude Research Hospital at Memphis, Tenn., according to Al Dohmann of Monroe, drive chairman.

Dohmann said Friday that hundreds of youngsters will ring doorbells beginning at noon Sunday in an attempt to collect $5,000 in one day for the center at Memphis, which was constructed through the efforts of Danny Thomas.

Dohmann, who said the drive was being sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus, noted that the Memphis institution is the only one of its kind in the world. The center is for the treatment of leukemia and other catastrophic diseases of children.

The drive chairman emphasized the accessibility of the hospital at Memphis. He said that parents of stricken children could make arrangements through their physicians, and that the hospital is free to all races and creeds.

Dohmann listed these teenage groups which will take part in the drive Sunday:

—Students from Ouachita Parish High School, Neville, St. Matthews and Sterlington.

—For the colored drive, students from Carroll High School, Richwood High School and the colored school at Sterlington.

—On the adult level, the Circle K Club at Northeast State College, the Women's Credit Club and several others.

In addition, Dohmann said, the Knights of Columbus Hall will open at 10 a.m. Sunday and remain open until the drive is completed. This way, he said, persons who otherwise would not have a chance to contribute may call at the hall or come by with their donations.

Teenagers will work the towns of Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington. "This is the American way—American teen-agers

Lawyers Seek Garrote Appeal

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI)—The prosecution Friday asked the Spanish Supreme Court to reverse a lower court decision and order execution by garrote for an accused U. S. Army deserter and his Spanish mistress convicted of murder.

The lower court last Monday spared James Bell Wagner, 22, of Union Beach, N. J., and Mrs. Maria Pilar Alfaro, 32, from the death penalty but sentenced them to long prison terms for the robbery - slaying of a Barcelona businessman.

The garrote is a metal collar which breaks the neck of condemned persons as the executioner tightens a hand screw. It has been used for executions in Spain since the 16th century.

Improvement

Officials report that the Ouachita Junior High campus has a new look, now that shrubbery and trees have been added to their new school building on Nutland Road.

This reportedly adds a great deal to the appearance, from a motorist's point of view.

Scout Plans

Planning for spring and summer activities will be the business Sunday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Ouachita Valley Boy Scout Council's Comanche Lodge, Order of the Arrow.

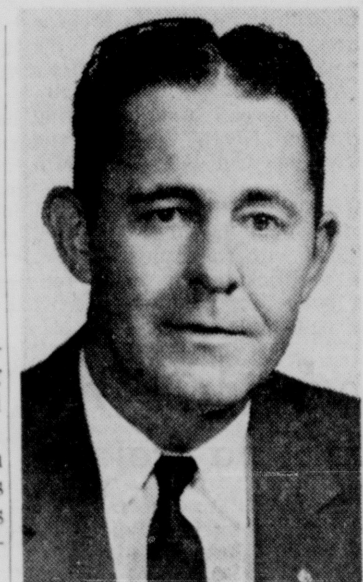

It's set for 2 p.m. in the Louis Locke Room at the main Ouachita Parish public library, according to Lodge Chief Larry Wade.

Invitations have been extended all executive committee and activities committee members.

Librarians

Librarians from the Ouachita Parish school system formed a large part of the local delegation Friday to Shreveport and the convention of the Louisiana Library Association.

Among them were: Robert Hurst, West Monroe High School; Mrs. Gene Hardin, Leavelle; Mrs. Ethel Sprague, Logtown-Shady Grove; Mrs. Anne Creel, Ouachita Junior High School; Miss Judy Reagan, Drew Swartz; and Miss Drucilla Motley, West

Moise L. Peters Enters In Race For City Mayor

Moise L. Peters, former chief of police for Monroe, announced Friday he will be a candidate for the office of mayor in the May 16 First Democratic Primary.

Peters, 47, lives at 302 Cole Avenue. His statement follows: "I am announcing as a candidate for the position of Mayor of the City of Monroe. I promise that I will conduct a vigorous campaign in seeking this office. I will present definite and positive issues that will show the people of Monroe that they need a change in this office to build a bigger, better and more progressive City of Monroe."

I promise that I will endeavor to reduce city taxes in one way, form or another; our city taxes today are much more than those of other cities of comparable size. Why? Only positive administrative action is necessary to reduce them.

I promise to either eliminate or readjust the garbage tax. This tax was imposed some eight years ago as a temporary emergency measure on each and every household to eliminate deficiencies that existed at that time in City Hall. Does this deficiency still exist? Is this tax necessary? Why, can't it be eliminated?

I promise a reduction in the city's utilities, water and light; the Utilities Commission operates as a non-entity of the city, as a private company, however, the rates charged are much higher than those of a private company. Why? I promise to bring the rates down.

I promise and favor a full support of a uniform and equal sewer and street improvement program. The existing open ditches on our main thoroughfares and residential areas are constant cess-pools and breeding areas for mosquitoes and vermin. Why? I propose to cover these ditches and improve our streets without additional taxes to the people.

I pledge to you, the citizens of the City of Monroe, that I will take a firm and positive stand in preserving states rights for our city and state.

I promise to insure fairness and impartiality in the law enforcement of our city ordinances so as to create an atmosphere that will increase the desire for people in the outlying areas to come to Monroe to trade and enjoy Monroe as a place for business and recreational enjoyment.

I promise to bring about an improvement and reorganization program of the City Planning Commission to encourage new business and industry to locate in Monroe. In my opinion, and in the opinion of other citizens with whom I have had contact the matter of creating and

Is a birth certificate necessary to sign up for Social Security benefits?

A birth certificate is not necessary, although it is the surest and easiest proof of age. You can obtain a lengthy list of proofs acceptable to the Social Security Administration by calling at the local office on North Third Street in Monroe.

Where do you write to get a birth certificate?

You do not state whether or not you were born in Louisiana. However, if you were born in Louisiana, in any parish other than Orleans, write to the Louisiana State Board of Health, Division of Vital Statistics, New Orleans, 60, La. If you were born in Orleans Parish, write to the New Orleans City Health Department, 1300 Perdido St., New Orleans.

Is there a law which says a husband and wife cannot teach in the same school?

Quachita Parish Supt. of Schools Milton Hall says there is no state law to this effect. He did say, however, that some local school boards have such a provision.

What do the words "on dit" mean which are used as the title for the society column which runs in the Morning World on Sunday. How are they pronounced? From what language do they come?

On dit (pronounced on dee - long e) means literally "they are saying". It is French.

Why should it be necessary to have a maintenance tax for Glenwood Hospital, considering the cost of patient care there?

Judge Jesse S. Heard, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, hospital Service District Number One (Glenwood Hospital) replies:

"The maintenance tax was voted only for a period of five years, and expired Jan. 1, 1964. A new maintenance tax is not proposed. The revenues from the hospital are sufficient to pay its operating costs."

Why is it that a state truck is allowed to park on a street when it is a $25 fine for anyone else?

The Monroe police department states that there is no such fine as $25 for parking on any street within the City of Monroe, and wonders if this question is not meant for some other city.

As an editor of a newspaper that publishes current events what would you consider the modern day pressures concerning community law, crime, health and safety? Do you see any evidence of concern about these pressures, if so what is being done?

In checking with local law enforcement officials, we uncovered a wide range of possible "pressures" that might apply to this question, but are at a loss to determine what type of pressures the questioner has in mind. If the writer would care to write back referring to this question and elaborate further, we will do all in our power to answer it.

Is Glenwood Hospital a non-profit or profit making organization? If it is profit making, who benefits?

Judge Jesse S. Heard, chairman of the board of commissioners of the hospital service district, said:

Glenwood Hospital is a non-profit organization operated by a board of trustees appointed by the Methodist church under a lease from the board of commissioners. Paragraph 10 of the lease provides: "Leasee agrees that all net income realized from the operation of the hospital shall be used for the sole use and benefit of the hospital."

Why are airplane crash fatalities given more publicity than automobile accident fatalities since about 100 persons are killed in automobile accidents daily, many more than die in plane crashes?

We're not sure that airplane fatalities are given more publicity. It is true, that a single air tragedy, which kills, say 50 persons or more would draw bigger headlines than 50 separate automobile fatalities. However, ever, each of these automobile fatalities would be given space in newspapers in different parts of the country.

For instance, this newspaper probably would not be interested in carrying a story on a single auto fatality in San Francisco, unless there was something unusual about the accident, or the person involved was well-known. But, when 50 persons die in a single accident, that draws widespread interest in any given part of the nation. Now, if 50 persons were killed in an auto accident, the headlines would be just as big, bigger in fact, because this would be highly unusual.

Just as there is no wrapup story carried on all auto fatalities in the U.S. each day, you must also remember there is no wrapup carried of all single-fatality plane crashes.

There would be very little difference, then, in the coverage of a plane accident and an auto accident - if it were not for the fact that mass death occurs more often in airplanes than in cars.

How many former vice presidents are still living? Who are they and when did they serve?

There are five former vice presidents still living. Their names and terms served as vice president are John Nance Garner, 1933-41; Henry Agard Wallace, 1941-45; Harry S. Truman, 1945-45 (Roosevelt died); Richard Nixon, 1953-61; Lyndon B. Johnson, 1961-63.

Is Lake Pontchartrain a fresh water or salt water lake?

Lake Pontchartrain along with Lakes Maruap, Borgne and Sabine, are not actually lakes, but landlocked salt-water bays. Currents are controlled by the tides which make the waters rise and fall.

Why does the horse run backward on the arm patch of mailmen?

A check with Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn failed to reveal any known reason for this. Hathorn said the patch, with the horse, is merely to symbolize the pony express, which is the first known form of mail service in the United States, and the direction in which the horse is running has no meaning whatsoever, to his knowledge.

drawing Social Security benefits on your own earnings, the weekly amount of your payments will be deducted from your unemployment compensation payments.

Please give a rundown on the Presidents for the last 100 years giving time served, party affiliation and mention any depressions in that time and when.

Abraham Lincoln was President 100 years ago. He was the first Republican President. Andrew Johnson, a Democrat, succeeded to the presidency when Lincoln was assassinated. He was nominated for the vice presidency by the Republicans even though he was a Democrat. U. S. Grant, a Republican followed him. Following are the other Presidents by year and party: Rutherford B. Hayes, 1872, Republican; James A. Garfield, 1881, Republican; Chester A. Arthur, 1881, Rep.; Grover Cleveland, Democrat, 1885; Benjamin Harrison, 1889, Republican; Grover Cleveland, 1893, Democrat; William McKinley, 1897, Republican; Theodore Roosevelt, 1901, Republican; William Howard Taft, 1909, Republican; Woodrow Wilson, 1913, Democrat; Warren G. Harding, 1921, Republican; Calvin Coolidge, 1923, Republican; Herbert Hoover, 1929, Republican; Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1933, Democrat; Harry S. Truman, 1945, Democrat; Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1952, Republican; John F. Kennedy, 1960, Democrat; Lyndon B. Johnson, Democrat, 1963.

There have been a number of economic depressions in the period covered since the end of the Civil War. The first was followed by the panic of 1873 and lasted three or four years. The next one was in 1893 but it wasn't bad - a panic followed by a short depression.

The next really serious depression was in 1893 and lasted until 1896. This was during the second Cleveland administration and followed the Sherman Silver Purchase Act. Although largely blamed on the free silver controversy, this was not the only cause of the depression.

There was a slight depression in 1903-1904 but it was confined mostly to the railroads. The country was headed for a depression in 1913 but World War I halted it. There was another depression in 1920-21. At the end of the Wilson administration it was confined mostly to agriculture.

Then came the market crash of October, 1929, followed by the depressions of the 1930's. The real economic low point of this period was in the winter of 1932-33. This depression brought on the social-economic legislation and administration of Roosevelt's New Deal.

The final correction of the 30's was in 1937 and 1938 but it was not serious. Then came the advent of World War II and there have been no real economic depressions since. There have been a number of corrections since, but nothing really serious in comparison with past depressions.

The 1873 panic occurred during the administration of U. S. Grant. Arthur was President in 1883. Theodore Roosevelt in 1903-04. Hoover in 1929.

Is anything being done to control rabies in Monroe and Ouachita Parish? Is there any law to control dogs in the city? If not, is there any possibility for a dog-control ordinance?

Monroe and Ouachita parish officials at the Parish Health Unit reply:

All stray dogs not wearing tags are picked up and placed in the parish dog pound, where they are held for five days. During this time, the owner may redeem the dog, by paying a $3 pound fee and by promising to have the dog vaccinated against rabies immediately. The pound is open from 2 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Anyone may redeem a dog after the five days are up.

In connection with rabies control, health unit officials also investigate all cases of dogbite which are reported to a physician or to authorities.

The City of Monroe Code, adopted in 1958, says that it is unlawful for the owner of any dog to permit it to run at large within the city unless the dog has been vaccinated against rabies within the last 12 months by a veterinarian. The dog must wear a tag showing proof of the

Man Sentenced To Six Years In Burglary Case

A Denver, Colo. man was sentenced to six years in the state penitentiary for simple burglary by Judge Mack E. Barham in Fourth District Court Friday.

Harry J. Adler, 29, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing the Littleton Truck Service office earlier this month.

Remanded for sentencing until March 26 was Wesley Welch, 407 S. 7th St., who pleaded guilty to theft of a sewing machine valued at $30.

May 5 was set as trial date for two persons charged with simple burglary of a building on the Fink's Hide-Away Road north of Monroe. They are Ruby Josephine Bryant, 1000 N. 5th St., Monroe, and Rose Marie Rocca, who lives over the levee from Monroe.

Two West Monroe men charged with disturbing the peace by burning a cross in the middle of the street were found guilty after a brief trial. Thad A. Wilcockson, 85 Johnson St., and Robert D. Lowery, 806 Johnson St., were fined $100 and costs and 90 days in jail. The jail term was suspended and the pair placed on probation for three years.

A Sterlingling Negro, Curtis Neal, was fined $500 and costs or six months in jail, plus a six-month jail term for peeping tom.

Given a six-month suspended sentence for beating a board bill was R. G. Antrim, Maplewood. James H. Redmond Jr., 3708 Jackson St., Monroe, was fined $400 and costs for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, second offender. Fined $300 and costs for DWI were Elisha W. Lewis, Rt. 1, Box 183 1/2, West Monroe; and Raymond Woodall, Bastrop.

Other cases were for minor infractions.

vaccination. Any dog found running at large without such a tag is to be caught and placed in the dog pound for 72 hours, during which time the owner may redeem the dog by paying for vaccination.

At the end of that time, the dog is to be put to death unless someone wishes to take the animal and pay for its vaccination. Whenever a dog is found running at large without a tag, or with a tag issued more than 12 months beforehand, if the dog cannot be caught by reasonable efforts, it is to be destroyed immediately.

Woman Injured In West Monroe Auto Collision

A two-car collision at the intersection of North Seventh Street and McMillan Road in West Monroe shortly before 3 p.m. Friday resulted in slight injuries to a West Monroe woman.

Mrs. Margaret B. Edmiston, 29, 408 Campbell St., was taken to Glenwood Hospital by a Kilpatrick ambulance, where she is being held for observation. Mrs. Edmiston, who is expecting a baby, complained of neck and back injuries.

According to West Monroe police who investigated the wreck, an auto driven by Jean E. Aulds, 24, 3902 Cypress St., West Monroe, was traveling north on North Seventh and started to turn left on McMillan.

Mrs. Edmiston, driving east on McMillan, failed to stop and collided with the Aulds vehicle. She was ticketed by West Monroe police for reckless driving and causing a wreck.

'SOFTEADS' HARM

Goldwater Builds 'Protector' Image

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Campaigning Sen. Barry Goldwater, describing himself as a peacemaker, said Friday he wants a chance to protect America from softheads who don't understand the menace of communism.

Hunting primary election votes in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Goldwater toured the Southern California coast in an open convertible, sound trucks blaring. From the back seat of his campaign convertible, the Arizona senator carried his conservative message through a dozen main streets and town squares.

"I want to protect you against the softheads in this country," he said at Palomar College in San Marcos. "We're up against people who want to kill us, who want to destroy us," he said. He said people who don't understand that are bringing the nation closer to war.

"Goldwater is not a warmonger, he is a peacemaker," the senator said. In Oceanside, he denounced a new U.S. disarmament proposal, under which this country would destroy 480 B47 bombers if the Soviet Union agreed to destroy a like number of its TU16 Badger bombers.

"We'll still have our missiles and they'll still have theirs, and I think there are a little more reliable than ours," he said. He told a news conference at Escondido he thinks that is true because the Russians conducted more thorough nuclear tests than did the United States before signing of the treaty which bans all but underground explosions.

Goldwater also said there is strong evidence the Soviet Union is developing an antimissile missile in the Leningrad area.

"It's colder here than in New Hampshire," one sign read. Goldwater was defeated in New Hampshire's presidential primary March 10 by Henry Cabot Lodge.

"Brother, you've never been to New Hampshire," Goldwater told the sign-waving student. While the senator told a crowd of some 500 in Escondido he thinks the government should get out of agriculture, a line of anti-Goldwater pickets waved through the standing crowd.

A man in a gray sweater started moving around to block the pickets' path, and a girl in a white dress bumped into him and fell on her face. She dropped her "Bury Goldwater" sign and a white haired old lady picked it up and threw it in a gully.

There was no more trouble.

Farmer In 'Fair Condition' After Leg Amputation

Earl McAlpine, who suffered a crushed right leg in an accident Thursday, was reported in "fair" condition at the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital in Monroe Friday night.

McAlpine's leg was amputated in Monroe. The 56-year-old Kilbourne farmer was pinned between a car bumper and a tractor wheel for about an hour before freed by a winch truck. According to investigating officers, McAlpine's tractor collided with an auto driven by Lawrence H. Russell, 27, four miles west of here on La. Hwy. 585 about 8 p.m. Thursday. The impact ripped the right rear wheel off the tractor, pinning McAlpine against the car.

Russell and his 19-year-old wife sustained minor injuries in the accident.

Why are airplane crash fatalities given more publicity than automobile accident fatalities since about 100 persons are killed in automobile accidents daily, many more than die in plane crashes?

We're not sure that airplane fatalities are given more publicity. It is true, that a single air tragedy, which kills, say 50 persons or more would draw bigger headlines than 50 separate automobile fatalities. However, if you are drawing Social Security benefits on your own earnings, the weekly amount of your payments will be deducted from your unemployment compensation payments.

Please give a rundown on the Presidents for the last 100 years giving time served, party affiliation and mention any depressions in that time and when.

Abraham Lincoln was President 100 years ago. He was the first Republican President. Andrew Johnson, a Democrat, succeeded to the presidency when Lincoln was assassinated. He was nominated for the vice presidency by the Republicans even though he was a Democrat. U. S. Grant, a Republican followed him. Following are the other Presidents by year and party: Rutherford B. Hayes, 1872, Republican; James A. Garfield, 1881, Republican; Chester A. Arthur, 1881, Rep.; Grover Cleveland, Democrat, 1885; Benjamin Harrison, 1889, Republican; Grover Cleveland, 1893, Democrat; William McKinley, 1897, Republican; Theodore Roosevelt, 1901, Republican; William Howard Taft, 1909, Republican; Woodrow Wilson, 1913, Democrat; Warren G. Harding, 1921, Republican; Calvin Coolidge, 1923, Republican; Herbert Hoover, 1929, Republican; Franklin D. Roosevelt, 1933, Democrat; Harry S. Truman, 1945, Democrat; Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1952, Republican; John F. Kennedy, 1960, Democrat; Lyndon B. Johnson, Democrat, 1963.

There have been a number of economic depressions in the period covered since the end of the Civil War. The first was followed by the panic of 1873 and lasted three or four years. The next one was in 1883 but it wasn't bad — a panic followed by a short depression.

The next really serious depression was in 1893 and lasted until 1896. This was during the second Cleveland administration and followed the Sherman Silver Purchase Act. Although largely blamed on the free silver controversy, this was not the only cause of the depression.

There was a slight depression in 1903-1904 but it was confined mostly to the railroads. The country was headed for a depression in 1913 but World War I halted it. There was another depression in 1920-21. At the end of the Wilson administration but it was confined mostly to agriculture.

Then came the market crash of October, 1929, followed by the depressions of the 1930's. The real economic low point of this period was in the winter of 1932-33. This depression brought on the social-economic legislation and administration of Roosevelt's New Deal.

The final correction of the 30's was in 1937 and 1938 but it was not serious. Then came the advent of World War II and there have been no real economic depressions since. There have been a number of corrections since, but nothing really serious in comparison with past depressions.

The 1873 panic occurred during the administration of U. S. Grant. Arthur was President in 1883. Theodore Roosevelt in 1903-04. Hoover in 1929.

Is anything being done to control rabies in Monroe and Ouachita Parish? Is there any law to control dogs in the city? If not, is there any possibility for a dog-control ordinance?

Monroe and Ouachita parish officials at the Parish Health Unit reply:

All stray dogs not wearing tags are picked up and placed in the parish dog pound, where they are held for five days. During this time, the owner may redeem the dog, by paying a $3 pound fee and by promising to have the dog vaccinated against rabies immediately. The pound is open from 2 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Anyone may redeem a dog after the five days are up.

In connection with rabies control, health unit officials also investigate all cases of dogbite which are reported to a physician or to authorities.

The City of Monroe Code, adopted in 1958, says that it is unlawful for the owner of any dog to permit it to run at large within the city unless the dog has been vaccinated against rabies within the last 12 months by a veterinarian. The dog must wear a tag showing proof of the

Man Sentenced To Six Years In Burglary Case

A Denver, Colo. man was sentenced to six years in the state penitentiary for simple burglary by Judge Mack E. Barham in Fourth District Court Friday.

Harry J. Adler, 29, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglarizing the Littleton Truck Service office earlier this month.

Remanded for sentencing until March 26 was Wesley Welch, 407 S. 7th St., who pleaded guilty to theft of a sewing machine valued at $30.

May 5 was set as trial date for two persons charged with simple burglary of a building on the Fink's Hide-Away Road north of Monroe. They are Ruby Josephine Bryant, 1000 N. 5th St., Monroe, and Rose Marie Rocca, who lives over the levee from Monroe.

Two West Monroe men charged with disturbing the peace by burning a cross in the middle of the street were found guilty after a brief trial. Thad A. Wilcockson, 85 Johnson St., and Robert D. Lowery, 806 Johnson St., were fined $100 and costs and 90 days in jail. The jail term was suspended and the pair placed on probation for three years.

A Sterling Negro, Curtis Neal, was fined $500 and costs or six months in jail, plus a six-month jail term for peeping tom.

Given a six-month suspended sentence for beating a board bill was R. G. Antrim, Maplewood. James H. Redmond Jr., 3708 Jackson St., Monroe, was fined $400 and costs for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, second offender.

Fined $300 and costs for DWI were Elisha W. Lewis, Rt. 1, Box 183½, West Monroe; and Raymond Woodall, Bastrop. Other cases were for minor infractions.

vaccination. Any dog found running at large without such a tag is to be caught and placed in the dog pound for 72 hours, during which time the owner may redeem the dog by paying for vaccination.

At the end of that time, the dog is to be put to death unless someone wishes to take the animal and pay for its vaccination. Whenever a dog is found running at large without a tag, or with a tag issued more than 12 months beforehand, if the dog cannot be caught by reasonable efforts, it is to be destroyed immediately.

Woman Injured In West Monroe Auto Collision

A two-car collision at the intersection of North Seventh Street and McMillan Road in West Monroe shortly before 3 p.m. Friday resulted in slight injuries to a West Monroe woman.

Mrs. Margaret B. Edmiston, 29, 408 Campbell St., was taken to Glenwood Hospital by a Kilpatrick ambulance, where she is being held for observation. Mrs. Edmiston, who is expecting a baby, complained of neck and back injuries.

According to West Monroe police who investigated the wreck, an auto driven by Jean E. Aulds, 24, 3902 Cypress St., West Monroe, was traveling north on North Seventh and started to turn left on McMillan.

Mrs. Edmiston, driving east on McMillan, failed to stop and collided with the Aulds vehicle. She was ticketed by West Monroe police for reckless driving and causing a wreck.

'SOFTHEADS' HARM

Goldwater Builds 'Protector' Image

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Campaigning Sen. Barry Goldwater, describing himself as a peacemaker, said Friday he wants a chance to protect America from softheads who don't understand the menace of communism.

Hunting primary election votes in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Goldwater toured the Southern California coast in an open convertible, sound trucks blaring.

From the back seat of his campaign convertible, the Arizona senator carried his conservative message through a dozen main streets and town squares.

"I want to protect you against the softheads in this country," he said at Palomar College in San Marcos.

"We're up against people who want to kill us, who want to destroy us," he said.

He said people who don't understand that are bringing the nation closer to war.

"Goldwater is not a warmonger, he is a peacemaker," the senator said.

In Oceanside, he denounced a new U.S. disarmament proposal, under which this country would destroy 480 B47 bombers if the Soviet Union agreed to destroy a like number of its TU16 Badger bombers.

"We'll still have our missiles and they'll still have theirs, and I think theirs are a little more reliable than ours," he said.

He told a news conference at Escondido he thinks that is true because the Russians conducted more thorough nuclear tests than did the United States before signing of the treaty which bans all but underground explosions.

Goldwater also said there is strong evidence the Soviet Union is developing an antimissile missile in the Leningrad area.

Farmer In 'Fair Condition' After Leg Amputation

Earl McAlpine, who suffered a crushed right leg in an accident Thursday, was reported in "fair" condition at the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital in Monroe Friday night.

McAlpine's leg was amputated in Monroe. The 56-year-old Kilbourne farmer was pinned between a car bumper and a tractor wheel for about an hour before freed by a winch truck.

According to investigating officers, McAlpine's tractor collided with an auto driven by Lawrence H. Russell, 27, four miles west of here on La. Hwy. 585 about 8 p.m. Thursday. The impact ripped the right rear wheel off the tractor, pinning McAlpine against the car.

Russell and his 19-year-old wife sustained minor injuries in the accident.

disarmament proposal are not "even capable of being stupid. I think it's highly dangerous."

"I make the flat charge that Secretary of Defense McNamara and the State Department are engaged in unilateral disarmament at the expense of peace and at the expense of freedom," he said.

The senator, a major general in the Air Force reserve, said the B47 is a better weapon than the Badger.

"Now the Badger would have a hard time bombing Moscow, let alone bombing the United States," he said.

The disarmament plan, Goldwater said at San Marcos, "makes me sick to my stomach because it brings war that much closer."

Goldwater, who drove past miles of sunny Pacific beaches, found some unfriendly sign wavers waiting at Paloma College.

"It's colder here than in New Hampshire," one sign read. Goldwater was defeated in New Hampshire's presidential primary March 10 by Henry Cabot Lodge.

"Brother, you've never been to New Hampshire," Goldwater told the sign-waving student.

While the senator told a crowd of some 500 in Escondido he thinks the government should get out of agriculture, a line of anti-Goldwater pickets wove through the standing crowd.

A man in a gray sweater started moving around to block the pickets' path, and a girl in a white dress bumped into him and fell on her face. She dropped her "Bury Goldwater" sign and a white haired old lady picked it up and threw it in a gully.

There was no more trouble.

Two Senators Charge Rusk With Smears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Friday of resorting to "McCarthy smear tactics" against opponents of his policies and said the country could get along without him.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., assailed Rusk for a speech at Salt Lake City on Thursday night in which the secretary said that if the country's "quitters" had their way, the United States would be playing into the hands of its adversaries. Morse said this was the equivalent of accusing the critics of treason.

A critic of the U.S. foreign aid program and an advocate of the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam, Morse called Rusk's speech "disgraceful and disreputable" and "one of the most unfortunate by a responsible government official in many years."

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said he associates himself fully with Morse's remarks and added he hopes that Rusk, on reflection, will realize he "went off half-cocked."

"Does he think that by leveling a charge of treason against those opposed to his policy in South Viet Nam he can gag us?" Gruening asked. He added that Rusk should apologize to him and Morse.

Gruening said that in his opinion Rusk "is pushing us along the path to war, not to peace" by what Gruening called talk of escalating the war in South Viet Nam.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, praised Morse's Senate speech as "one of the most forceful" on foreign policy matters that he had ever heard.

Morse said Rusk used "the tactics of McCarthyism" in his speech.

Morse continued: "If McCarthyism is the new public relations program of the State Department, the most helpful quitting the secretary of state could do would be to just quit being secretary of state. The country can well afford to get along without him."

"The political tactic of equating every dissident with communism does not sound any better coming from the secretary of state than it did when it came from the late unlamented Sen. McCarthy," Morse said.

This was a reference to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., who was condemned by the Senate for the tactics he employed in his anti-Communist investigations.

Morse said Rusk will be given an opportunity to tell those who want to cut President Johnson's request for a new $3.4-billion foreign aid program that "we are, in effect, traitors" when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee starts hearings on the bill shortly after Easter.

Morse asserted also that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara talked about U.S. policies in Viet Nam "as though he was president of the United States."

"We are wasting millions of dollars in South Viet Nam and killing American boys in what I consider to be an operation of folly," Morse declared.

He said of Rusk: "He should quit trying to mislead the American people into believing that the United States has some vital interest in South Viet Nam."

"He should quit trying to fool the American people into believing that we are defending freedom in South Viet Nam. What we are doing is involving ourselves in a family war between two factions of South Viet Nam."

Ruby's Lawyers Make 1st Steps Toward Appeal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's lawyers took their first steps Friday on the long appeals route in an effort to save him from the electric chair.

They claimed Judge Joe B. Brown made 36 errors in rulings and asked a new trial. The new trial motion is a technical preliminary to taking the case to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

A Dallas jury convicted Ruby, 52, of murder with malice last Saturday and set his punishment at death.

The defense claimed during the month-long trial that the girl club operator shot Lee Harvey Oswald during a mental blackout triggered by grief over the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald, shot down 47 hours after the Nov. 22 presidential assassination, had been charged with murdering the president.

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson filed Friday's motion with the clerk of Judge Brown's court. Brown, who presided at the trial, was out of town. He has 50 days from the time of the verdict to rule on the defense motion.

Burleson said Percy Foreman, newly appointed chief defense counsel, authorized the filing of the motion.

The names of Foreman, Burleson and Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., were on the document.

Tonahill and Burleson were two of the original Ruby lawyers. Melvin M. Bell of San Francisco, who headed the defense during the trial, was replaced Thursday by Foreman.

"THE MIKADO," an ever-popular Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, winds up a two-night stand at Brown Auditorium on the Northeast State College campus tonight at 8. Among the entertainers in the musical comedy with an oriental setting are Claude Fuller, left, of the college speech faculty, who plays the role of Pooh Bah, and Bill Haddad of Monroe, as Ko Ko. The public is invited to attend. Admission prices are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. (NLSC Photo by Jerry Harp)

LIGHT COMEDY, TUNES

College Stages 'Mikado' Revival

World Staff Writer

A two-evening run of Northeast State's revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado," opened in Brown Hall auditorium on the campus Friday, and the first night audience welcomed the light comedy and familiar tunes.

Faculty directors included George Brian for the stage, Dr. Eloy Fominaya with the orchestra, and Gertrude Sandrock, rehearsal pianist and vocal adviser. The second and final performance is set for 8 p.m. today.

Since "The Mikado" is a revival of an operetta of the late 19th century, it represents a departure from the Broadway musical fad which has gained popularity with student groups for the past several years.

So since the idiom of Gilbert and Sullivan is not current, it presented directors and members of the cast with several challenges.

Some were met, others were not. Fortunately, things began to jell during the second of the two acts, a fact of sequence which holds the piece together better than its reverse.

In fact, the old Gilbert-Sullivan favorite, "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring," serves as a keystone from which we can make a critical point of departure.

This was a group number in Act II featuring Sidney Martin, Bill Haddad, Claude Fuller, Marian Mann, and Donna Barber in the roles of Nanki Poo, the Executioner, Pooh - Bah, Yum Yum, and Petti Sing, respectively.

Haddad's comedy came through well in this one, and his singing was adequate. Martin's tenor voice has good quality, and in this particular number, he showed more feeling than in other portions of the play, his spoken lines lacking most in varied inflection. He was paired with Marian Mann, who as the lead soprano, Yum Yum, showed good vocal quality except in her highest register.

Donna Barber, as Petti-Sing, another of the Executioner's wards, came through with a very pleasant voice and excellent stage presence. Claude Fuller as "The Lord High Everything Else" managed to lose himself in some of the comedy scenes opposite Haddad, a fact which might prove helpful to those unable to get out of a set groove. When he laughed at himself, he fell right in with the spirit of the thing.

Frank Swindle, as Pish-Tush, came through with a top quality baritone, and also made use of a wide range of inflection in his speaking voice which was unfortunately lacking in some of the other roles.

Then there was the Courtesan, sung by Barbara Addison, which is a challenging role for a contralto. When she first entered, guarded by the way, by a fellow who spoke not and got with the play as would an occidental from outer space, we thought she had eluded a Verdi opera playing elsewhere in the city. Her vocal quality was good, but there was something a little too regal in her stage manner.

She finally settled down to Gilbert and Sullivan, however, in the patter preceding the old favorite, "Tit Willow."

Dr. John Goorley was a thoroughly adequate Mikado in the number, "Let the Punishment Fit the Crime."

Generally speaking, the revival of a Gilbert and Sullivan work on the local campus was a refreshing step, one we hope will be duplicated in the future. Both orchestra and chorus were large and furnished good support. The chorus was particularly good in the finale.

Group stage movements generally, stiff, although much of this is a matter of style. The settings were unfortunate in that they clashed in color and texture with the better designed costumes.

Still the Gilbert and Sullivan

U.S. Officials Trying To Save Wright Creation Concert Tonight To End District Choral Clinic

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of government officials headed by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall will journey out to Falls Church, Va., on Saturday to see if anything can be done to save a Frank Lloyd Wright house from being ground into a new superhighway.

The house is a modest L-shaped, four-room structure built in 1940 on a lot that now stands directly in the path of Interstate Route 66 through the northern Virginia suburbs.

It is one of several small budget homes Wright designed in an effort to dispel the legend that only the rich could afford a famous architect.

Built for Loren Pope, a newspaperman, the house has been visited by architects from all over the world. It is now owned by Mrs. Robert A. Leighy, a widow, who is trying to save it.

Mrs. Leighy, who has occupied the house for more than 15 years, wrote Udall offering to deed it to the National Park Service for designation as a national monument. She proposed that she retain lifetime occupancy rights, and said she would make the house available to architecture students and others.

Udall decided Friday, his office said, that a visit should be made to the scene by interested federal officials and a representative of the Virginia Highway Department. He also sent invitations to the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the American Institute of Architects, both of which have expressed interest in preserving the house.

Among those expected to accompany Udall are George B. Hartog Jr., director of the National Park Service; Rex M. Whitton, the federal highway administrator; and William Walton, chairman of the Federal Fine Arts Commission.

Prof. R. Wayne Hugoboom, vocal clinician from Tampa, Fla., will direct the 400-voice All-District High School Chorus in a free public concert at 7:30 p.m. today in Neville auditorium.

The event concludes a two-day choral clinic sponsored by District One choral directors of the Louisiana Music Educators' Association.

Students from 32 area schools, grades nine through 12, will sing under Hugoboom's direction.

Accompanists for the concert will be Miss Suzanne Walter, student of Mrs. Bea Moore of Winnsboro, and Linda Callender of Monroe.

Miss Walter will serve as accompanist for E. T. McClung of Winnsboro High School, while Miss Callender will accompany the Ouachita Parish High School singers, Bill Herring, director.

Recently retired as director of choral organizations at the University of South Florida, Prof. Hugoboom is editor and manager of the Choral Journal, official publication of the American Choral Directors' Association.

The program for the evening will include: "I Will Lift Mine Eyes — Glaram." "Cantate Domino — Pitoni." "Let Thy Holy Presence — Tschesnokoff-Cain." "Reach Down Dat Hand — Davenport." "I Sat Down Under His Shadow — Bairtown." "Now Look Away — Merrifield." "The Snow — Elgar." "Tinga Laya — Clark." "This Still Room — Davenport." "My Bonnie — Simone." "Country Style."

FLORIDAN FIRST ARRIVAL Mothers To Flock Here For Weekend

A Florida mother claims title to being the first guest to arrive for Northeast State women residents' annual Mothers Weekend.

Mrs. Robert F. Beckner of Sarasota, Fla., arrived here Friday afternoon to be guest of her daughter, Barbara, in Cospir Hall. Barbara is a freshman at Northeast State.

Hundreds of other mothers will arrive on the scene this morning and early afternoon. Some of the girls expect their grandmothers, too.

Two entertainment-filled days have been planned for the campus guests by the Council of Women Resident Students, beginning with a book review this afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Marcus Mapp will review Maude Files Zimmer's novel with a North Louisiana setting, "A Day to Remember." Mrs. Zimmer is a native of Oak Ridge and has a niece in school at NLSC at the present time.

Entertaining with musical selections from the Broadway hit musical, "My Fair Lady," will be Dawn Taylor Gandy, soprano, accompanied by Eloise Calhoun Stanhope at the piano.

The book review and musical entertainment will be in Gunby Dining Hall. Afterwards, a reception will be held for the visiting mothers in Breard Hall.

Mothers and daughters plan to attend the final performance of the varsity musical, "The Mikado," at Brown Auditorium tonight.

Out-of-town mothers and their daughters will convene in Gunby Dining Hall for a special breakfast session on Sunday morning. Addressing the gathering will be Miss Peggy Osborne, president of the new NLSC chapter of the National Collegiate Association for Secretaries.

Approximately 150 overnight guests are expected at the residence halls, said Miss Alma Lufcy, counselor to women students. Several hundred more mothers of local women students will join them for the activities.

LBJ Gives Posts To 2 Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson chose two more women Friday to fill high-salary government jobs previously held by men and said Katharine Elkus White of Red Bank, N.J., will be ambassador to Denmark.

Mrs. White, 58, a grandmother who is chief of the New Jersey Garden State Parkway, was among 10 women Johnson announced on March 5 would fill top federal jobs. He said then she would be an ambassador but did not designate the country.

The appointments are part of the President's campaign to put more women—at least 50 is his goal—in key government jobs for which they qualify.

Dorothy Jacobson, 56, a former teacher from Herman, Minn., was named by Johnson to be assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs, a $20,000-a-year job and the highest any woman will have held in the department.

She will replace Roland Rennie, who has resigned. Ruth G. Van Cleve, 38, a career attorney in the Interior Department who came from Minneapolis, was promoted to the $18,000-a-year post of director of the office of territories. She will administer the affairs of island territories — including the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa and thousands of other large and small islands where the United States has interests. Mrs. Van Cleve succeeds Richard F. Taitano who asked to be relieved to accept another government assignment. The nominations of Mrs. White and Mrs. Jacobson are subject to Senate confirmation. Mrs. Van Cleve's appointment is not.

Ruby's Lawyers Make 1st Steps Toward Appeal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's lawyers took their first steps Friday on the long appeals route in an effort to save him from the electric chair.

They claimed Judge Joe B. Brown made 36 errors in rulings and asked a new trial. The new trial motion is a technical preliminary to taking the case to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

A Dallas jury convicted Ruby, 52, of murder with malice last Saturday and set his punishment at death.

The defense claimed during the month-long trial that the girl club operator shot Lee Harvey Oswald during a mental blackout triggered by grief over the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald, shot down 47 hours after the Nov. 22 presidential assassination, had been charged with murdering the president.

Defense lawyer Phil Burleson filed Friday's motion with the clerk of Judge Brown's court. Brown, who presided at the trial, was out of town. He has 50 days from the time of the verdict to rule on the defense motion.

Burleson said Percy Foreman, newly appointed chief defense counsel, authorized the filing of the motion.

The names of Foreman, Burleson and Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., were on the document.

Tonahill and Burleson were two of the original Ruby lawyers. Melvin M. Belli of San Francisco, who headed the defense during the trial, was replaced Thursday by Foreman.

"THE MIKADO," an ever-popular Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, winds up a two-night stand at Brown Auditorium on the Northeast State College campus tonight at 8. Among the entertainers in the musical comedy with an oriental setting are Claude Fuller, left, of the college speech faculty, who plays the role of Pooh Bah, and Bill Haddad of Monroe, as Ko Ko. The public is invited to attend. Admission prices are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. (NLSC Photo by Jerry Harp)

LIGHT COMEDY, TUNES

College Stages 'Mikado' Revival

World Staff Writer

A two-evening run of Northeast State's revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Mikado," opened in Brown Hall auditorium on the campus Friday, and the first night audience welcomed the light comedy and familiar tunes.

Faculty directors included George Brian for the stage, Dr. Eloy Fominaya with the orchestra, and Gertrude Sandrock, rehearsal pianist and vocal adviser. The second and final performance is set for 8 p.m. today.

Since "The Mikado" is a revival of an operetta of the late 19th century, it represents a departure from the Broadway musical fad which has gained popularity with student groups for the past several years.

So since the idiom of Gilbert and Sullivan is not current, it presented directors and members of the cast with several challenges.

Some were met, others were not. Fortunately, things began to jell during the second of the two acts, a fact of sequence which holds the piece together better than its reverse.

In fact, the old Gilbert-Sullivan favorite, "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring," serves as a keystone from which we can make a critical point of departure.

This was a group number in Act II featuring Sidney Martin, Bill Haddad, Claude Fuller, Marian Mann, and Donna Barber in the roles of Nanki Poo, the Executioner, Pooh - Bah, Yum Yum, and Petti Sing, respectively.

Haddad's comedy came through well in this one, and his singing was adequate. Martin's tenor voice has good quality, and in this particular number, he showed more feeling than in other portions of the play, his spoken lines lacking most in varied inflection. He was paired with Marian Mann, who as the lead soprano, Yum Yum, showed good vocal quality except in her highest register.

Donna Barber, as Petti-Sing, another of the Executioner's wards, came through with a very pleasant voice and excellent stage presence. Claude Fuller as "The Lord High Everything Else" managed to lose himself in some of the comedy scenes opposite Haddad, a fact which might prove helpful to those unable to get out of a set groove. When he laughed at himself, he fell right in with the spirit of the thing.

Frank Swindle, as Pish-Tush, came through with a top quality baritone, and also made use of a wide range of inflection in his speaking voice which was unfortunately lacking in some of the other roles.

Then there was the Courtesan, sung by Barbara Addison, which is a challenging role for a contralto. When she first entered, guarded by the way, by a fellow who spoke not and got with the play as would an accidental from outer space, we thought she had eluded a Verdi opera playing elsewhere in the city. Her vocal quality was good, but there was something a little too regal in her stage manner.

She finally settled down to Gilbert and Sullivan, however, in the patter preceding the old favorite, "Tit Willow."

Dr. John Goorley was a thoroughly adequate Mikado in the number, "Let the Punishment Fit the Crime."

Generally speaking, the revival of a Gilbert and Sullivan work on the local campus was a refreshing step, one we hope will be duplicated in the future. Both orchestra and chorus were large and furnished good support. The chorus was particularly good in the finale.

Group stage movements generally, stiff, although much of this is a matter of style. The settings were unfortunate in that they clashed in color and texture with the better designed costumes.

U.S. Officials Trying To Save Wright Creation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of government officials headed by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall will journey out to Falls Church, Va., on Saturday to see if anything can be done to save a Frank Lloyd Wright house from being ground into a new superhighway.

The house is a modest L-shaped, four-room structure built in 1940 on a lot that now stands directly in the path of Interstate Route 66 through northern Virginia suburbs.

It is one of several small budget homes Wright designed in an effort to dispel the legend that only the rich could afford a famous architect.

Built for Loren Pope, a newspaperman, the house has been visited by architects from all over the world. It is now owned by Mrs. Robert A. Leighy, a widow, who is trying to save it.

Mrs. Leighy, who has occupied the house for more than 15 years, wrote Udall offering to deed it to the National Park Service for designation as a national monument. She proposed that she retain lifetime occupancy rights, and said she would make the house available to architecture students and others.

Udall decided Friday, his office said, that a visit should be made to the scene by interested federal officials and a representative of the Virginia Highway Department. He also sent invitations to the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the American Institute of Architects, both of which have expressed interest in preserving the house.

Among those expected to accompany Udall are George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service; Rex M. Whitton, the federal highway administrator, and William Walton, chairman of the Federal Fine Arts Commission.

Concert Tonight To End District Choral Clinic

Prof. R. Wayne Hugoboom, vocal clinician from Tampa, Fla., will direct the 400-voice All-District High School Chorus in a free public concert at 7:30 p.m. today in Neville auditorium.

The event concludes a two-day choral clinic sponsored by District One choral directors of the Louisiana Music Educators' Association.

Students from 32 area schools, grades nine through 12, will sing under Hugoboom's direction.

Accompanists for the concert will be Miss Suzanne Walter, student of Mrs. Bea Moore of Winnsboro, and Linda Callender of Monroe.

Miss Walter will serve as accompanist for E. T. McClung of Winnsboro High School, while Miss Callender will accompany the Ouachita Parish High School singers, Bill Herring, director.

Recently retired as director of choral organizations at the University of South Florida, Prof. Hugoboom is editor and manager of the Choral Journal, official publication of the American Choral Directors' Association.

The program for the evening will include:

I Will Lift Mine Eyes — Glaurum.

Cantate Domino — Pitoni.

Let Thy Holy Presence — Tchesnokoff-Cain.

Reach Down That Hand — Dav-enport.

I Sat Down Under His Shadow — Bairstow.

Now Look Away — Merrifield.

The Snow — Elgar.

Tinga Layo — Clark.

This Still Room — Davenport.

My Bonnie — Simeone.

Country Style.

FLORIDAN FIRST ARRIVAL

Mothers To Flock Here For Weekend

A Florida mother claims title to being the first guest to arrive for Northeast State women residents' annual Mothers Weekend.

Mrs. Robert F. Beckner of Sarasota, Fla., arrived here Friday afternoon to be guest of her daughter, Barbara, in Cosper Hall. Barbara is a freshman at Northeast State.

Hundreds of other mothers will arrive on the scene this morning and early afternoon. Some of the girls expect their grandmothers, too.

Two entertainment-filled days have been planned for the campus guests by the Council of Women Resident Students, beginning with a book review this afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Marcus Mapp will review Maude Files Zimmer's novel with a North Louisiana setting, "A Day to Remember." Mrs. Zimmer is a niece in school at NLSC at the present time.

Entertaining with musical selections from the Broadway hit musical, "My Fair Lady," will be Dawn Taylor Gandy, soprano, accompanied by Eloise Calhoun Stanhope at the piano.

The book review and musical entertainment will be in Gunby Dining Hall. Afterwards, a reception will be held for the visiting mothers in Beard Hall.

Mothers and daughters plan to attend the final performance of the varsity musical, "The Mikado," at Brown Auditorium tonight.

Out of town mothers and their daughters will convene in Gunby Dining Hall for a special breakfast session on Sunday morning. Addressing the gathering will be Miss Peggy Osborne, president of the new NLSC chapter of the National Collegiate Association for Secretaries.

Approximately 150 overnight guests are expected at the residence halls, said Miss Alma Lufcy, counselor to women students. Several hundred more mothers of local women students will join them for the activities.

LBJ Gives Posts To 2 Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson chose two more women Friday to fill high-salary government jobs previously held by men and said Katharine Elkus White of Red Bank, N.J., will be ambassador to Denmark.

Mrs. White, 58, a grandmother who is chief of the New Jersey Garden State Parkway, was among 10 women Johnson announced on March 5 would fill top federal jobs. He said then she would be an ambassador but did not designate the country.

The appointments are part of the President's campaign to put more women—at least 50 is his goal—in key government jobs for which they qualify.

Dorothy Jacobson, 56, a former teacher from Herman, Minn., was named by Johnson to be assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs, a $20,000-a-year job and the highest any woman will have held in the department.

She will replace Roland Rennie, who has resigned.

Ruth G. Van Cleve, 38, a career attorney in the Interior Department who came from Minneapolis, was promoted to the $18,000-a-year post of director of the office of territories. She will administer the affairs of island territories — including the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa and thousands of other large and small islands where the United States has interests.

Mrs. Van Cleve succeeds Richard F. Taitano who asked to be relieved to accept another government assignment.

The nominations of Mrs. White and Mrs. Jacobson are subject to Senate confirmation. Mrs. Van Cleve's appointment is not.

Tolerance And Anarchy

Fifty years ago, the following statement would have been unnecessary and out of place, so different were standards of school discipline in those days. Though made on the defensive now, the recent statement by Calvin Gross, superintendent of the New York school system, "We will not tolerate any student who assaults a teacher in our schools," is a timely one.

There are those who might seize on the words "not tolerate" and equate them with intolerance. But the word "tolerance" has been used in too many cases to break down order and discipline.

In matters now concerning Gross and other officials in the field of education, particularly in the large northern and eastern school systems, tolerance of outright criminality has resulted in impossible classroom situations.

One wire service news report counted 13 incidents of violence in New York schools over a nine-day period. The weekly National Observer reported a disclosure by Charles Cogen, president of the United Federation of Teachers in New York, that there is an average of one attack per day by pupils against public school instructors.

He further described the situation as follows:

"In many cases, incidents are not reported, the teachers are intimidated, and the principals are likewise discouraged from making reports."

This condition may rest on the consciences of public officials, educators and highly influential sociologists. But the brunt of the burden must be borne by the many students whose will to learn is jeopardized and by their teachers who must now devote full time to disciplinary problems.

The insurgent lawlessness of some public school students stems directly from school boycotts and demonstrations whipped up in the name of "civil rights." One teacher, attacked and beaten to the floor said, "The two girls who attacked me wouldn't have done so before the boycott."

Though the agitators themselves protest such reports, their actions can hardly be seen as helpful toward good order in the schools. In fact, classroom disorder fits the spirit of street demonstrations.

Adding to the weakness of discipline in New York classrooms has been the tenet voiced by sociologists that "problem" children or those crowded into overcrowded rooms could do no real wrong—that their misbehavior is the fault of society at large.

Such a tenet worked into policy has caused too many children to lack all respect for law, discipline and education. The teachers in New York and several other states are the immediate victims. But the larger effect is being felt throughout the nation.

It is regrettable that state and community leadership has been so silent and complacent in this crisis. Men of the clergy, for example, have broken the law to show that they sympathize with the agitators.

Judge William E. Ringel of the Criminal Court of New York pointed this out in handing out suspended sentences to eight ministers who had joined in blocking traffic during a racial demonstration:

"If you respect the law, gentlemen, you just cannot decide what laws to obey and what laws not to obey. Ours is a rule by law. We are all under its protective and restrictive provisions, and if we don't like the law the remedy is not to take it into your hands, gentlemen, but to go to the Legislature, to your trade unions, go to your city fathers and try to get the change. But doing things the way you have decided they should be done can only result in anarchy. . ."

Eton's Solution

In England, graduation from Eton is a status symbol of the first order. One of the best English schools, Eton would be known in this country as a private preparatory school, though it is called a public school over there.

The school is a very old one and has several long-standing traditions. Among the beliefs still put into practice at Eton is one that holds that any violation of the rules shall be punished by a few licks from the cane. Some of the senior students may administer the punishment, but as a rule, floggings are judiciously administered by teachers.

The school's newspaper recently took a poll among students and found that out of 100 questioned, only 23 said they would like to see the cane banned.

This is a point of view not widely popular in this country, so far as we know. We might venture a guess that many teachers would go along with the Eton majority, maybe even some parents.

We are not advocating corporal punishment for the youngsters if any other sort of persuasion will work. But now and then there are cases in which a paddling, spanking or caning does wonders. Eton thinks that students should learn in their early years that wrongdoing has painful consequences and we think that school's method of demonstrating this moral — and physical — lesson is a good one.

Space Age Mules

It seems that Schirra along with several other astronauts made the training session, the second group to make the trip. There are geological formations in the canyon which might furnish knowledge for men in the space program assigned to the proposed moon flight. This undertaking is scheduled to take place around 1970.

This brings us around to the lighter side of the astronauts' Grand Canyon study tour. If the moon is some 240,000 miles up in space, why should the trainees go down into one of the world's deepest natural holes to take geological "moon" samplings? Perhaps this follows the pattern of taking one step downward prior to going two steps upward.

We understand that there are many types of rock formations available in the Grand Canyon, even meteorite substances. So this gives every reason why the astronauts should make use of the canyon as a sort of familiarization course. The rugged terrain along the walls and at the base of the canyon should also serve to accustom the men to the crater-pocked surface of the moon.

The reliable canyon vehicles, the mules, afford a market contrast to the great speed and power of the space boosters and orbiting capsules. It requires a wealth of electronics gear to launch and track any effort into outer space. With the Grand Canyon mule, one has only to nudge his sides and all systems are "go."

This change of pace is apt to make the astronauts "jack-of-all-trades," when it comes to moving fast or slow, high or low. As for the mules, they rely more upon surefootedness for survival rather than speed, and all who have taken the ride into the canyon appreciate this. Even such a space age nickname as "jackastronauts" wouldn't change their philosophy.

Internal Revenue Service Quietly Checks On Baker

While the Senate is noisily embroiled in bitter partisan wrangling over the continuance of the sensational Bobby Baker investigation, the Internal Revenue Service is quietly expanding its probing of his multifarious financial operations.

At IRS request, the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee has turned over its files on campaign contributions and disbursements for the years 1956-63, when Baker was secretary of the majority.

During this seven-year period, he played an important backstage role in the committee's far-flung political operations. It was common knowledge in Democratic circles, especially among senatorial candidates, that Baker received and disbursed large sums of campaign contributions.

FOR EXAMPLE: At the height of the tense 1962 congressional elections, he visited a number of states as the campaign committee's representative to determine how much financial aid would be given the Democratic senatorial candidates.

Senator George Smathers, Fla., who the investigation has disclosed had business ties with Baker, was then committee chairman.

The decision to make the committee's records available to the Revenue Service was made by Senator Warren Magnuson, Wash., current chairman. He reached this determination in response to the IRS' explanation that it wanted these financial files to check them against Baker's income tax returns.

It was the IRS angle that brought to the Senate Rules Committee the dynamite-loaded affidavit from accountant Milton Hautt charging his name had been forged on some of Baker's returns.

THE IRS probe is particularly significant, as the Democratic members of the investigating committee have hotly opposed Republican demands for a full airing of Baker's tax reports. The Democrats have contended this is outside the committee's scope — an interpretation strenuously challenged by the GOP.

Meanwhile, Senator John Williams, R-Del., veteran "one-man investigating committee," whose charges precipitated the Baker probe, is conducting his own inquiry into the latter's handling of campaign funds.

Williams has an affidavit that Baker conferred with a top Teamster official during the 1960 pre-convention contest. From other sources, Williams has information that Baker received sizable Teamster contributions during this period — when Baker was very active for then-Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson.

Also in Senator Williams' possession are documented reports that Baker conferred with New York City with the late President Kennedy at the height of his fall campaign for the White House, and allegedly turned over a large amount of money.

If the investigating committee refuses to go into these matters, it is Williams' intention to air them in detail in a Senate speech.

A KEY issue behind the stormy partisan clashing over continuance of the probe is the strong Republican suspicion that a number of high-placed officials made big profits by buying shares of the Mortgage & Guaranty Insurance Co., Milwaukee, at bargain basement prices. The probe has disclosed that Baker made a killing in "MAGIC" speculation.

Potentially reinforcing the GOP belief is the vehemence of the Democrats' hostility to digging into the affairs of "MAGIC." They have violently fought that.

The Republicans have unavailingly sought the list of the company's stockholders. The Democrats contend this is not pertinent to an investigation of Baker's activities.

The GOP has information that at least four senators and certain high administration officials were let in on the lush "MAGIC" melon.

Neither side has mentioned any names. But a significant discussion of this backstage bombshell occurred during one of the hot Senate clashes over the investigation. Highlights of this unpublicized exchange are as follows:

Senator Frank Lausche, D-O.: "As I understand it, some members of the committee want the records (of 'MAGIC') brought in so as to be able to trace the orders issuing stock and the source of such stock."

Senator Hugh Scott, R-Pa.: "That is correct."

Lausche: "Is it the belief of some members of the committee that stock was issued to others than those identified in testimony before the committee?"

Scott: "Yes. There is evidence in the testimony which indicates that this company was to issue some $700,000 worth of stock to persons who could be helpful in its development, and that this stock would be issued at less than the market value. The committee has been able to unearth the issuance of between $100,000 and $200,000 of the stock, but as to more than $500,000 worth of the stock we know nothing. We believe it was issued, but we have no proof. We have not had the opportunity to learn the facts."

Lausche: "What request was made to find out whether the stock was issued, the price and to whom it went?"

Scott: "We submitted a list of 14 witnesses, but the majority has shown no interest in subpoenaing them or the records of the company. . . It appears to be the firm intention of the majority to terminate the investigation, despite the fact that it is confronted by demands for witnesses and for records in accordance with the rules of the committee."

THREE IMPOSING legal organizations gave a reception for the Supreme Court, but that didn't seem to cut much ice with the justices. Only Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Hugo Black, accompanied by their wives, showed up. The other "Seven Old Men" ignored the party by the District of Columbia Bar Association, the National Lawyers' Club and the District Chapter of the Federal Bar Association. There was no explanation for the cold shoulder; even Warren and Black couldn't account for it. . . Jordan's King Hussein is expected to bring his blonde English wife with him when he visits Washington April 14. President and Mrs. Johnson have invited her, and the General Federation of Women's Clubs has asked her to address them. Jordan's Ambassador says he confidently anticipates that Princess Muna, as Hussein's wife is known, will be with him.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Number Two Spot Holds Traditions

"You don't run for the Vice Presidency," is one of the oldest political maxims.

It has been cited by men who really felt that way about it, by breath while they were running for it as hard as they could, and by men who if they were not actually running for it were carefully placing themselves in a position to be available if by chance the party looked in their direction.

THIRTY-SEVEN men have been elected Vice President of the United States and a much larger number have been nominated for that office and failed in the election. Different reasons have dictated different Vice Presidential nominations.

Some Presidential candidates have not been greatly entranced with the man in the second spot on the ticket with him. But it is doubtful that since the beginning of nominating conventions and the two party system, any candidate for Vice President ever found a place on the ticket without the consent of the head of that ticket. Sometimes, however, that consent has been reluctant.

It can be put down as certain that the man who becomes the 38th Vice President of the United States will be a man recommended for the place by the Presidential candidate. At San Francisco the Republican chosen likely will be one of those now being discussed as a Presidential candidate and who is saying he cannot be had as a Vice Presidential nominee.

President Johnson, assured of nomination at Atlantic City, will have a month after the Republicans have chosen their national slate to discuss with party leaders their views on his running mate and to carefully consider the recommendation he will make to the national convention. There are at least a half dozen men, carefully nursing Vice Presidential bees, who will be hoping to be the recommended one.

New Hampshire twice has been the scene of big write-ins on the Vice Presidential line. In 1956 there was uncertainty about whether President Eisenhower would again take Richard M. Nixon as his running mate. The late Senator Styles Bridges organized a Nixon-write-in, which yielded 20,000 votes. The write-in for Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy on the Vice Presidential line in New Hampshire this year was more than 25,000.

EFFORTS to help a Presidential or prospective Presidential candidate make up his mind about his ticket mate are not new. As early as January, 1960, with Nixon practically assured of the Presidential nomination, Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts began to plug Henry Cabot Lodge for Vice President.

The Washington State Democratic Convention in 1960 recommended Senator Henry M. Jackson for Vice President and a brochure pushing for Jackson's nomination was circulated among delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles. Jackson, in fact, was considered a leading candidate for the place which went to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Perhaps the most intensive drum beating for a Vice Presidential nominee was for Governor Theodore Roosevelt of New York in 1900. Garrett A. Hobart, McKinley's first Vice President, had died. McKinley and his campaign manager, Mark Hanna, had decided on Secretary of the Navy John D. Long of Massachusetts for second place on the ticket. A movement for Roosevelt which began in Texas, where TR had recruited his Rough Riders for the Spanish-American war, spread through the West.

THE WESTERN boom for Governor Roosevelt fitted into the plans of Senator Thomas Platt, Empire State Republican boss, who wanted Roosevelt out of the State House at Albany, and to "bury him in the Vice Presidency." Platt had as his ally, powerful Senator Matthew S. Quay of Pennsylvania.

When it became certain that an alliance of western progressives and eastern stalwarts would sweep Roosevelt into the nomination McKinley sent a message to Hanna to withdraw his opposition. Roosevelt was nominated and 15 months later was President.

The only Vice Presidential candidate who can be said to have been forced on a convention was Henry A. Wallace, who shared the ticket with Franklin D. Roosevelt when he won his third nomination. Wallace was nominated in what was close to a convention riot by his opponents. Wallace was dropped four years later and this time his supporters were near to riot.

IN 1901 the Vice Presidency was so little regarded by the Democrats that they nominated 81-year-old Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia as the running mate for Alton B. Parker. The Parker-Davis ticket was clobbered and Davis lived to the age of 93.

Comparatively youthful men will be chosen for Vice President on both tickets this year. Of the Democrats presently most discussed Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota is approaching 53 and Attorney General Kennedy is 38.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Goldwater Should Make Points Clear

It would be safe to say that Senator Barry Goldwater is more than a little puzzled by the reaction of voters and press to his current campaign techniques. For the past years, he has spoken to large audiences in much the same manner as he employs today. The response has been uniformly enthusiastic in the past.

What then has gone wrong? Have the old rules changed? Are the sentiments once so loudly applauded gone stale? The answer is, of course, that both these questions can be answered in the negative. Senator Goldwater could today return to the scenes of his former triumphs and receive the same kind of glowing approbation.

WHAT HE has not learned is this: As a Presidential candidate — or rather, as a candidate for a Presidential nomination — he is no longer addressing the same groups that came out to hear and cheer. He is speaking to another kind of audience. The content of his speeches should be the same, but not the approach.

By this I mean that Barry Goldwater must remember every time he opens his mouth that he is speaking to people who have not in the past traveled down the road of conservatism with him. To the other audiences, he could speak in a kind of short-hand. Ideas and concepts were already familiar to those who turned out to hear him. He had merely to apply these ideas and concepts to the developing problems of the day.

In his New Hampshire speeches, Senator Goldwater used the same short-hand technique among voters who had not been exposed to it before. He thought he was communicating his ideas but he left many who came to cheer in a puzzled mood. They did not understand what he was saying and accepted the hostile interpretations of the opposition.

If Barry Goldwater is to make it in California, he must turn himself to spell things out, to explain his position more carefully and in sufficient detail to be understood. True, he will be dealing with a more sophisticated electorate. California voters have been exposed far more than most to the intricacies of the conservative-liberal conflict. They are no strangers to ideology.

EVEN SO, Senator Goldwater

must be explicit and take nothing for granted. If he wishes to discuss Social Security, he cannot rely on the simple statement that he wishes to improve it, to make it actuarially sound. He must say how he intends to do this — and make the point quickly, before those who oppose him have convinced the voters that he intends to deprive them of whatever benefits they are now deriving from the present set-up. He must explain why the present administration of Social Security is bad.

If he does not, then he will spend his time between now and June 2nd answering the attacks of his critics and overlooking the major thrust of any political campaign.

Senator Goldwater would have done far better for himself in New Hampshire had he ignored the misrepresentations of his position on various issues and gone on the offensive. His critics would have been too busy trying to catch up with him to be able to harp continually on previous statements.

IT IS being said by some here in Washington that the mood in the country is one of escapism, that President Johnson's method of talking in pleasant generalities will win him the election next November. I do not believe this. From what I have seen, Americans are too bothered and bewildered to be bewitched by slogans. If Senator Goldwater decides to get to the core of matters, as he did in the days when he was earning his personal following, the country will listen attentively and demand the same kind of political dialogue from his opponents within and without the Republican Party.

Though made on the defensive now, the recent statement by Calvin Gross, superintendent of the New York school system, "We will not tolerate any student who assaults a teacher in our schools," is a timely one.

There are those who might seize on the words "not tolerate" and equate them with intolerance. But the word "tolerance" has been used in too many cases to break down order and discipline.

In matters now concerning Gross and other officials in the field of education, particularly in the large northern and eastern school systems, tolerance of outright criminality has resulted in impossible classroom situations.

One wire service news report counted 13 incidents of violence in New York schools over a nine-day period. The weekly National Observer reported a disclosure by Charles Cogen, president of the United Federation of Teachers in New York, that there is an average of one attack per day by pupils against public school instructors.

He further described the situation as follows:

"In many cases, incidents are not reported, the teachers are intimidated, and the principals are likewise discouraged from making reports."

This condition may rest on the consciences of public officials, educators and highly influential sociologists. But the brunt of the burden must be borne by the many students whose will to learn is jeopardized and by their teachers who must now devote full time to disciplinary problems.

The insurgent lawlessness of some public school students stems directly from school boycotts and demonstrations whipped up in the name of "civil rights." One teacher, attacked and beaten to the floor said, "The two girls who attacked me wouldn't have done so before the boycott."

Though the agitators themselves protest such reports, their actions can hardly be seen as helpful toward good order in the schools. In fact, classroom disorder fits the spirit of street demonstrations.

Adding to the weakness of discipline in New York classrooms has been the tenet voiced by sociologists that "problem" children or those crowded into overcrowded rooms could do no real wrong—that their misbehavior is the fault of society at large.

Such a tenet worked into policy has caused too many children to lack all respect for law, discipline and education. The teachers in New York and several other states are the immediate victims. But the larger effect is being felt throughout the nation.

It is regrettable that state and community leadership has been so silent and complacent in this crisis. Men of the clergy, for example, have broken the law to show that they sympathize with the agitators.

Judge William E. Ringel of the Criminal Court of New York pointed this out in handing out suspended sentences to eight ministers who had joined in blocking traffic during a racial demonstration:

"If you respect the law, gentlemen, you just cannot decide what laws to obey and what laws not to obey. Ours is a rule by law. We are all under its protective and restrictive provisions, and if we don't like the law the remedy is not to take it into your hands, gentlemen, but to go to the Legislature, to your trade unions, go to your city fathers and try to get the change. But doing things the way you have decided they should be done can only result in anarchy. . . ."

Eton's Solution

In England, graduation from Eton is a status symbol of the first order. One of the best English schools, Eton would be known in this country as a private preparatory school, though it is called a public school over there.

The school is a very old one and has several long-standing traditions. Among the beliefs still put into practice at Eton is one that holds that any violation of the rules shall be punished by a few licks from the cane. Some of the senior students may administer the punishment, but as a rule, floggings are judiciously administered by teachers.

The school's newspaper recently took a poll among students and found that out of 100 questioned, only 23 said they would like to see the cane banned.

This is a point of view not widely popular in this country, so far as we know. We might venture a guess that many teachers would go along with the Eton majority, maybe even some parents.

We are not advocating corporal punishment for the youngsters if any other sort of persuasion will work. But now and then there are cases in which a paddling, spanking or caning does wonders. Eton thinks that students should learn in their early years that wrongdoing has painful consequences and we think that school's method of demonstrating this moral — and physical — lesson is a good one.

Space Age Mules

It seems that Schirra along with several other astronauts made the training session, the second group to make the trip. There are geological formations in the canyon which might furnish knowledge for men in the space program assigned to the proposed moon flight. This undertaking is scheduled to take place around 1970.

This brings us around to the lighter side of the astronauts' Grand Canyon study tour. If the moon is some 240,000 miles up in space, why should the trainees go down into one of the world's deepest natural holes to take geological "moon" samplings? Perhaps this follows the pattern of taking one step downward prior to going two steps upward.

We understand that there are many types of rock formations available in the Grand Canyon, even meteorite substances. So this gives every reason why the astronauts should make use of the canyon as a sort of familiarization course. The rugged terrain along the walls and at the base of the canyon should also serve to accustom the men to the crater-pocked surface of the moon.

The reliable canyon vehicles, the mules, afford a market contrast to the great speed and power of the space boosters and orbiting capsules. It requires a wealth of electronics gear to launch and track any effort into outer space. With the Grand Canyon mule, one has only to nudge his sides and all systems are "go."

This change of pace is apt to make the astronauts "jack-of-all-trades," when it comes to moving fast or slow, high or low. As for the mules, they rely more upon surefootedness for survival rather than speed, and all who have taken the ride into the canyon appreciate this. Even such a space age nickname as "jackastronauts" wouldn't change their philosophy.

Internal Revenue Service Quietly Checks On Baker

While the Senate is noisily embroiled in bitter partisan wrangling over the continuance of the sensational Bobby Baker investigation, the Internal Revenue Service is quietly expanding its probing of his multifarious financial operations.

At IRS request, the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee has turned over its files on campaign contributions and disbursements for the years 1956-63, when Baker was secretary of the majority.

During this seven-year period, he played an important backstage role in the committee's far-flung political operations. It was common knowledge in Democratic circles, especially among senatorial candidates, that Baker received and disbursed large sums of campaign contributions.

FOR EXAMPLE: At the height of the tense 1962 congressional elections, he visited a number of states as the campaign committee's representative to determine how much financial aid would be given the Democratic senatorial candidates.

Senator George Smathers, Fla., who the investigation has disclosed had business ties with Baker, was then committee chairman. The decision to make the committee's records available to the Revenue Service was made by Senator Warren Magnuson, Wash., current chairman. He reached this determination in response to the IRS' explanation that it wanted these financial files to check them against Baker's income tax returns.

It was the IRS angle that brought to the Senate Rules Committee the dynamite - loaded affidavit from accountant Milton Hauff charging his name had been forged on some of Baker's returns.

THE IRS probe is particularly significant, as the Democratic members of the investigating committee have hotly opposed Republican demands for a full airing of Baker's tax reports. The Democrats have contended this is outside the committee's scope — an interpretation strenuously challenged by the GOP.

Meanwhile, Senator John Williams, R-Del., veteran "one-man investigating committee," whose charges precipitated the Baker probe, is conducting his own inquiry into the latter's handling of campaign funds.

Williams has an affidavit that Baker conferred with a top Teamster official during the 1960 pre-convention contest. From other sources, Williams has information that Baker received sizable Teamster contributions during this period — when Baker was very active for then-Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson.

Also in Senator Williams' possession are documented reports that Baker conferred in New York City with the late President Kennedy at the height of his fall campaign for the White House, and allegedly turned over a large amount of money.

If the investigating committee

refuses to go into these matters, it is Williams' intention to air them in detail in a Senate speech.

A KEY issue behind the stormy partisan clashing over continuance of the probe is the strong Republican suspicion that a number of high-placed officials made big profits by buying shares of the Mortgage & Guaranty Insurance Co., Milwaukee, at bargain basement prices. The probe has disclosed that Baker made a killing in "MAGIC" speculation.

Potentially reinforcing the GOP belief is the vehemence of the Democrats' hostility to digging into the affairs of "MAGIC." They have violently fought that the Republicans have unavailingly sought the list of the company's stockholders. The Democrats contend this is not pertinent to an investigation of Baker's activities.

The GOP has information that at least four senators and certain high administration officials were let in on the lush "MAGIC" melon.

Neither side has mentioned any names. But a significant discussion of this backstage bombshell occurred during one of the hot Senate clashes over the investigation. Highlights of this unnoticed exchange are as follows:

Senator Frank Lausche, D-O.: "As I understand it, some members of the committee want the records of 'MAGIC' brought in so as to be able to trace the orders issuing stock and the source of such stock."

Senator Hugh Scott, R-Pa.: "That is correct."

Lausche: "Is it the belief of some members of the committee that stock was issued to others than those identified in testimony before the committee?"

Scott: "Yes. There is evidence in the testimony which indicates that this company was to issue some $700,000 worth of stock to persons who could be helpful in its development, and that this stock would be issued at less than the market value. The committee has been able to unearth the issuance of between $100,000 and $200,000 of the stock, but as to more than $500,000 worth of the stock we know nothing. We believe it was issued, but we have no proof. We have not had the opportunity to learn the facts."

Lausche: "What request was made to find out whether the stock was issued, the price and to whom it went?"

Scott: "We submitted a list of 14 witnesses, but the majority has shown no interest in subpoenaing them or the records of the company. . . . It appears to be the firm intention of the majority to terminate the investigation, despite the fact that it is confronted by demands for witnesses and for records in accordance with the rules of the committee."

THREE IMPOSING legal organizations gave a reception for the Supreme Court, but that didn't seem to cut much ice with the justices. Only Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Hugo Black, accompanied by their wives, showed up. The other "Seven Old Men" ignored the party by the District of Columbia Bar Association, the National Lawyers' Club and the District Chapter of the Federal Bar Association. There was no explanation for the cold shoulder; even Warren and Black couldn't account for it. . . . Jordan's King Hussein is expected to bring his blonde English wife with him when he visits Washington April 14. President and Mrs. Johnson have invited her, and the General Federation of Women's Clubs has asked her to address them. Jordan's Ambassador says he confidently anticipates that Princess Muna, as Hussein's wife is known, will be with him.

Number Two Spot Holds Traditions

"You don't run for the Vice Presidency," is one of the oldest political maxims.

It has been cited by men who really felt that way about it, by breath while they were running for it as hard as they could, and by men who if they were not actually running for it were carefully placing themselves in a position to be available if by chance the party looked in their direction.

THIRTY-SEVEN men have been elected Vice President of the United States and a much larger number have been nominated for that office and failed in the election. Different reasons have dictated different Vice Presidential nominations.

Some Presidential candidates have not been greatly entranced with the man in the second spot on the ticket with him. But it is doubtful that since the beginning of nominating conventions and the two party system, any candidate for Vice President ever found a place on the ticket without the consent of the head of that ticket. Sometimes, however, that consent has been reluctant.

It can be put down as certain that the man who becomes the 38th Vice President of the United States will be a man recommended for the place by the Presidential candidate. At San Francisco the Republican chosen likely will be one of those now being discussed as a Presidential candidate and who is saying he cannot be had as a Vice Presidential nominee.

President Johnson, assured of nomination at Atlantic City, will have a month after the Republicans have chosen their national slate to discuss with party leaders their views on his running mate and to carefully consider the recommendation he will make to the national convention. There are at least a half dozen men, carefully nursing Vice Presidential bees, who will be hoping to be the recommended one.

New Hampshire twice has been the scene of big write-ins on the Vice Presidential line. In 1956 there was uncertainty about whether President Eisenhower would again take Richard M. Nixon as his running mate. The late Senator Styles Bridges organized a Nixon-write-in, which yielded 20,000 votes. The write-in for Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy on the Vice Presidential line in New Hampshire this year was more than 25,000.

EFFORTS TO help a Presidential or prospective Presidential candidate make up his mind about his ticket mate are not new. As early as January, 1960, with Nixon practically assured of the Presidential nomination,

Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts began to plug Henry Cabot Lodge for Vice President.

The Washington State Democratic Convention in 1960 recommended Senator Henry M. Jackson for Vice President and a brochure pushing for Jackson's nomination was circulated among delegates to the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles. Jackson, in fact, was considered a leading candidate for the place which went to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

Perhaps the most intensive drum beating for a Vice Presidential nomination was for Governor Theodore Roosevelt of New York in 1900. Garrett A. Hobart, McKinley's first Vice President, had died. McKinley and his campaign manager, Mark Hanna, had decided on Secretary of the Navy John D. Long of Massachusetts for second place on the ticket. A movement for Roosevelt which began in Texas, where TR had recruited his Rough Riders for the Spanish-American war, spread through the West.

THE WESTERN boom for Governor Roosevelt fitted in to the plans of Senator Thomas Platt, Empire State Republican boss, who wanted Roosevelt out of the State House at Albany, and to "bury him in the Vice Presidency." Platt had as his ally, powerful Senator Matthew S. Quay of Pennsylvania.

When it became certain that an alliance of western progressives and eastern stalwarts would sweep Roosevelt into the nomination McKinley sent a message to Hanna to withdraw his opposition. Roosevelt was nominated and 15 months later was President.

The only Vice Presidential candidate who can be said to have been forced on a convention was Henry A. Wallace, who shared the ticket with Franklin D. Roosevelt when he won his third nomination. Wallace was nominated in what was close to a convention riot by his opponents. Wallace was dropped four years later and this time his supporters were near to riot.

IN 1904 the Vice Presidential was so little regarded by the Democrats that they nominated 81-year-old Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia as the running mate for Alton B. Parker. The Parker-Davis ticket was clobbered and Davis lived to the age of 93.

Comparatively youthful men will be chosen for Vice President on both tickets this year. Of the Democrats presently most discussed Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota is approaching 53 and Attorney General Kennedy is 38.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Goldwater Should Make Points Clear

It would be safe to say that Senator Barry Goldwater is more than a little puzzled by the reaction of voters and press to his current campaign techniques. For the past years, he has spoken to large audiences in much the same manner as he employs today. The response has been uniformly enthusiastic in the past.

What then has gone wrong? Have the old rules changed? Are the sentiments once so loudly applauded gone stale? The answer is, of course, that both these questions can be answered in the negative. Senator Goldwater could today return to the scenes of his former triumphs and receive the same kind of glowing approbation.

WHAT HE has not learned is this: As a Presidential candidate — or rather, as a candidate for a Presidential nomination — he is no longer addressing the same groups that came out to hear and cheer. He is speaking to another kind of audience. The content of his speeches should be the same, but not the approach.

By this I mean that Barry Goldwater must remember every time he opens his mouth that he is speaking to people who have not in the past traveled down the road of conservatism with him. To the other audiences, he could speak in a kind of short-hand. Ideas and concepts were already familiar to those who turned out to hear him. He had merely to apply these ideas and concepts to the developing problems of the day.

In his New Hampshire speeches, Senator Goldwater used the same short-hand technique among voters who had not been exposed to it before. He thought he was communicating his ideas but he left many who came to cheer in a puzzled mood. They did not understand what he was saying and accepted the hostile interpretations of the opposition.

If Barry Goldwater is to make it in California, he must turn himself to spell things out, to explain his position more carefully and in sufficient detail to be understood. True, he will be dealing with a more sophisticated electorate. California voters have been exposed far more than most to the intricacies of the conservative-liberal conflict. They are no strangers to ideology.

EVEN SO, Senator Goldwater

must be explicit and take nothing for granted. If he wishes to discuss Social Security, he cannot rely on the simple statement that he wishes to improve it, to make it actuarially sound. He must say how he intends to do this — and make the point quickly, before those who oppose him have convinced the voters that he intends to deprive them of whatever benefits they are now deriving from the present set-up. He must explain why the present administration of Social Security is bad.

If he does not, then he will spend his time between now and June 2nd answering the attacks of his critics and overlooking the major thrust of any political campaign.

Senator Goldwater would have done far better for himself in New Hampshire had he ignored the misrepresentations of his position on various issues and gone on the offensive. His critics would have been too busy trying to catch up with him to be able to harp continually on previous statements.

IT IS being said by some here in Washington that the mood in the country is one of escapism, that President Johnson's method of talking in pleasant generalities will win him the election next November. I do not believe this. From what I have seen, Americans are too bewildered and bewildered to be bewitched by slogans. If Senator Goldwater decides to get to the core of matters, as he did in the days when he was earning his personal following, the country will listen attentively and demand the same kind of political dialogue from his opponents within and without the Republican Party.

M. L. Peters Enters City Mayor Race

promoting a receptive atmosphere for new "Business and Industry" to our city is of the utmost importance.

"If stable industry and employment continues to leave us and by-pass us the revenues required to retire the "tremendous" bond issues of upward to $40-millions of dollars that has been imposed in the past eight years will become a greater burden than has been anticipated. Full time must be devoted to this office. As well as soliciting the aid of civic-minded citizens who desire to help create assistance for all of the people", instead of a select few.

"Without the remedy of these important problems, we are placed automatically in a deep bog and not in the middle of a stream. The progress of Monroe is not going to be hampered by a change in the mayor's office. It has already been hampered. Four years is a short time and very enjoyable for those engaged in spending millions of dollars of bonded tax money, but can be very damaging in just four more years. If we don't take immediate steps to stabilize our city economically, I propose to take immediate steps to better these existing situations, and sincerely hope that on May 16, that you will elect me as your mayor and help me to help the people of our city.

I promise to improve and increase working conditions and salaries of all city employees without any increase in taxes. With the proper administration of existing revenues, there is no reason why this can't be done. I promise that I will be a full time mayor. I do not have any outside interests that will keep me away from this office. I will show courtesy and impartiality to individuals desiring to see me. I promise my door will be open to each and every citizen of Monroe.

I will refrain from using minority tactics, even though they be legal, in forcing residents adjacent to the City limits of Monroe, to be obligated in absorbing tax responsibilities that have been placed upon them by a majority vote.

I promise to work fully with all other elected city, parish and state officials to build a bigger, better and more progressive City of Monroe.

I solicit the vote of each and every voter in the City of Monroe regardless of party affiliation. I am entering this campaign as an independent without any obligations or commitments to anyone, other than you the people of Monroe as your servant, to carry out this platform. I will do all in my power to bring about a bigger, better and more progressive City of Monroe.

I have been in the City of Monroe for over 35 years and have been engaged in municipal work in the City of Monroe for some 20 years, and in that time I served as chief of police, in which we enjoyed much improvement in our police department. With the help of my fellowmen, I completely reorganized, and instituted a modern and efficient law enforcement agency that was competent to that of any city within range of our population. Therefore, I feel that my past experience qualifies me in asking you the people, for the position of Mayor of the City of Monroe, as an advancement to the ideals and principles of a better city.

I am married and the father of three children. My wife is the former Lora Mae Thompson, who attended the city schools and Northeast college. I also received my education from our local schools and Northeast College. I have had additional courses at Louisiana State University which will benefit me in serving you as mayor. I am a veteran of World War II, associated with the V.F.W., and the American Legion, and I am a member of the First Baptist Church. I have been associated with a number of civic organizations which have contributed to the promotion of worthwhile civic improvements.

I solicit the vote of each and every voter in the City of Monroe regardless of party affiliation. I am entering this campaign as an independent without any obligations or commitments to anyone, other than the people of Monroe as your servant, to carry out this platform. I will do all in my power to bring about a bigger, better and more progressive City of Monroe.

Noting that this will be the first time teenagers have attempted to raise money on a big scope for the center in Ouachita, Dohmann said, "Danny Thomas will be looking at Monroe and Ouachita Parish, because he has taken a personal interest in Ouachita Parish."

Dohmann said the one-day drive will be a culmination of 60 days of organizing by more than 50 adult chairmen "who have worked hard."

He said to reach the desired goal, the drive will need some "Large contributions."

State Board Cracks Down On Trade School Students

school students attending vocational schools was costing Louisiana double not only for teachers but for transportation also.

"I think the high schools and colleges should train our youngsters to make a living — not the vocational schools," he said.

"Let us get back into the trade school business," said Le-on Gary of Houma. "We are spending $5 million in this state for trade schools and the chambers of commerce are going out and finding out what industry wants in training people. They are hustling the business too."

Whetstone said the vocational schools were "competing with the high schools and colleges."

He pointed out that the Department of Education allocated funds for students in high school then allocated additional funds for high school students attending vocational school.

"That is not right," Whetstone said.

Curry, Cole and Fruge voted against the motion after Brown snapped "We argued about this for five hours last night and the newspaper people have got all they are going to print. I move to cut off the debate."

Whetstone said later: "We have a place in our society for adult vocational schools and I think they should be used strictly for that purpose and not for the purpose of competing with our high schools and colleges."

"The directors of the vocational schools should make labor market studies to see what the demand calls for and teach courses accordingly. They should be in constant touch with all high schools and colleges in their areas checking the drop-out and contacting these drop-outs to encourage them to attend his school."

Whetstone said he learned that numerous trade school classes had less than 10 students. He said because of this he offered a motion last month instructing the directors to fill their classes or else.

At the outset of the meeting, James D. Prescott, executive secretary of the Louisiana School Boards Association, presented copies of resolutions adopted by the association. Included was a resolution calling for a change in the teacher tenure law that would permit the local boards to discharge one per cent of its employees annually who are under tenure" for any reason the school board deems valid and that those in question should have the right of a hearing.

But the board adopted a motion repeating its position favoring no change in the teacher tenure law.

authorities to request analysis of the animal's brains.

Mrs. J. M. White of White's Ferry Road, West Monroe, reported that a stray dog had come up to her residence and had acted peculiar before dying. Examination showed the dog had rabies.

Neither animal is known to have bitten anyone.

A breakdown on the rabies cases in the area so far this year shows 11 foxes, three dogs and one cow.

This compares to 17 foxes, two dogs and one calf in 1963. Warnings of danger to domestic animals from rabid fox bites were issued by Miss Drach earlier this week.

At that time, she pointed out that of the four foxes killed in the past week in Union parish, two had been in contact with dogs — one killed by dogs and the other inflicted bites on dogs.

"The danger now lies with dogs which may have been bitten by the foxes," she said, explaining: "Union parish residents are going to have to keep a constant watch on domestic animals which may have come in contact with those foxes."

Rabies may take as long as two months to show up in a dog. One recent case ran 45 days, from the time the dog was bitten by a fox until it developed rabies.

across the field. The other two cocked their .45-caliber pistols, he said and asked, "Who are you?"

Faraldo said he answered them in Spanish and asked if he could have their guns. They gave them up, he said. When Roque was returned to the copter—which had a Cuban insignia and what looked like Russian writing on the blades—he was told to disarm the machine gun mounted on the front.

Within minutes after the plane landed about 2:30 p.m., the airfield was swarming with police, sheriff's deputies, immigration officers and other federal agents.

"I saw them unload the dead man," Agnew said. "He had at least four bullet holes in his body and one in his head." Deputies later said the pilot had been shot seven times.

Two Women Set Solo Flights Around World

MIAMI (UPI) — Two lady pilots, each seeking to be the first female to fly around the world solo, scheduled takeoffs Saturday on tough over-the-ocean flights, one from Bermuda and one from here.

Mrs. Joan Merriam Smith, a housewife from Oakland, Calif., said she would leave Miami International Airport bound for San Juan, P.R., "with a sandwich to nibble on."

The Navy wife, who flies professionally under her maiden name of Joan Merriam, scoffed at a flight suit and said she would "wear a skirt and blouse as usual — and I don't have any room for any parachute."

Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, Ohio, also a housewife, planned to leave Hamilton, Bermuda, for the Azores Saturday after a round of sightseeing on the island. She said she was seeking to break speed records — the globe-circling record for women, and for planes in the 2,204-3,858-pound class.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD... New York's next big scandal will involve the numbers racket. Investigators will prove that nine and 10-year-old school children have been gambling away their lunch money. The multi-million-dollar expose will involve some very important names... Now it can be told: the terms of the Liz Taylor - Eddie Fisher divorce were settled more than a month ago. Elizabeth demanded silence from everyone involved in the case until it was time for the wedding bells to ring; she wanted to be sure that Richard Burton, his "Hamlet" and his "Becket" would get as much publicity as possible prior to their premieres in Canada and the United States... Casius Clay was offered to Ed Sullivan for his Sunday night TV show, but Ed turned him down... An important member of the Senate Committee investigating Bobby Baker privately predicts that "nothing will come of this" — "This" being the official inquiry. His theory is that the testimony does not indicate Baker committed a criminal act.

Those recent kidnap trial headlines didn't help Frank Sinatra Jr. much during his engagement at the huge Latin Casino near Philadelphia. He wasn't SRO, to put it gently... Timmy Everett, the talented young man who directed "Days of the Dancer," the Shelley Winters - Gabe Dell starrer at the Actors Studio, skipped off to St. Thomas for a holiday. And by a coincidence beautiful Norma Donaldson, a featured actress in the show, skipped to the same place at the same time. The Sardi's Set wouldn't be surprised if they staged an elopement.

Sybil Burton's escort at the gala "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" opening will be Roddy McDowall. Carlo Ponti is flying in for the event but Sophia Loren won't be able to make it... Pearl Bailey's foot injury has her hors d'combat at the Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas where she's currently employed at a mere $35,000 a week. She hasn't been able to perform since she stepped on a piece of glass outside her dressing room, and at this point she and the management are worried sick... Sudden thought inspired by looking at a newstand: Wouldn't it be nice if Liz Taylor gave Dickie a pair of bathing trunks as a wedding present so he wouldn't have to pose for movie magazine covers in his underwear?

Melodye Condos, who "retired" from show business to become a housewife just a few weeks ago, is almost ready to come out of retirement. Convinced that she's a chip off mama Martha Raye's talented block, Melodye is putting together a brand new act, acquiring stage clothes and rehearsing to make her debut as a solo performer at the Apartment late this month or early in April. It's only a question of time before the kickbacks involving some of the World's Fair exhibits make headlines. All kinds of deals are being made, and one famous product won't be dispensed at one extremely logical place because the chap running the site wasn't given the $50,000 payola he demanded... Mary Lou Williams, one of the nation's most talented jazz pianists, will be profiled in a 6,000-word piece by Whitney Balliett in the New Yorker. She's currently entertaining at the Hickory House... Rosalind Russell is back on the West Coast while Freddie Brisson has jetted to Europe, but they celebrated his birthday together... a few days ahead of schedule... at Goldie's. Had a proper cake, and everything. During the festivities, Roz made a fashion pronouncement — said she's stopped wearing anything but all white or all black, or a combination of black and white. Never a color... The lampoons of the Beatles are still selling. One group called the Bagels now has a hot new ditty titled "I Wanna Hold Your Hair"...

The recent marriage of a movie name left at least one New York beauty puzzled. She's wondering where he'll get his reefers from now on. Red Skelton filmed "a new Tony Bennett" in Hollywood the other day — Tony in clown costume and full make-up, including painted tear drops, singing "Make Someone Happy" in Pagliacci fashion... It'll be on TV... Good news for Gotham's night owl set: Faye Emerson, who was going to stay in Europe for a year, now intends to return much sooner than she originally planned. Misses a certain fella, maybe? Jazzman Oscar Peterson plans to marry a Detroit lady when his divorce is final. His current wife will retain custody of their five children.

Dulles Lambasts Laggard Action In Battling Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. efforts to combat Communist subversion in the uncommitted and underdeveloped areas of the world are "all too little and often too late," Allen W. Dulles said Friday.

The former director of the Central Intelligence Agency said America should lead the free world in "concerted and coordinated action" against Communist penetration.

In an address prepared for the Foreign Policy Association meeting here, Dulles said intelligence organizations, such as the CIA, play an important role in identifying Communist targets. "But knowledge must be followed by action," he added. Free nations, Dulles continued, must capitalize on failures of the Communist society, ideological differences between the Soviet Union and Red China, agricultural and industrial disasters, and "the revolt of the youth in the Soviet Union."

Power Company Slates Project For Appalachia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Electric Power Co., serving consumers in seven states, will launch a $1 billion expansion program which the firm's president expects to be of important value in stimulating the Appalachia area's economy. The plans were announced at the White House Friday by the company's president, Donald Cook, after he divulged them to President Johnson and credited the new income tax cut and business confidence for the move.

The American Electric Power Co., with headquarters in New York, operates facilities which serve 1,450,000 customers in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Deputy's Widow Gets Donations At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The widow of sheriff's deputy Charles Hurt accepted Friday $33,446 in contributions to a memorial fund for him.

"We are fortunate to have been members of this community," Mrs. Hurt said.

The Deputy Charles Hurt Memorial Fund drive ended Sunday, but donations still were coming in. The fund was established to honor Hurt and provide for his family.

Hurt was killed in the line of duty Nov. 13.

"My husband was not born here," Mrs. Hurt said, "but he chose this as his home and I know he would be very proud."

Mrs. Hurt and the couple's three young children live in nearby Baker.

Hurt was slain by a Negro youth as he and another officer investigated juvenile delinquency in Scotlandville.

Judge Quashes Discrimination Ploy Of Lawyers

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A federal judge denied Friday requests by attorneys for Edgar Labat and Alton Poret, condemned New Orleans Negroes, for permission to submit evidence of racial discrimination in jury selection after their trial. U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West also denied the attorneys' requests for a delay in a habeas corpus hearing for Labat and Poret.

West noted Labat has been awaiting execution longer than any other person.

"This case is now the oldest one in the United States," West commented from the bench, "and it's not going to get much older."

He refused to grant the delay and said, "the evidence had better be ready."

Labat and Poret were sentenced to die for the rape of a white woman in the New Orleans French Quarter in 1950.

Attorneys sought a delay on grounds they had staff members pouring over a great quantity of material in their efforts to prove systematic exclusion of Negroes from petit juries in New Orleans.

They had no objection to having the case heard as scheduled on March 31, they said, if the staff members finished their investigation.

It might be possible to finish by that time, they said.

The judge ordered the state to produce documents for the defense, and denied a state attorney's motion to dismiss the motions.

Houston Chronicle Purchases 'Press'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Scripps-Howard Houston Press announced Friday it has been sold to the Houston Chronicle.

The announcement said the 52-year-old paper was ceasing publication with Friday's editions.

W. L. Howard Seeking New Mayor Term

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard Friday announced his candidacy for re-election in the May 16th primary.

The 43-year-old businessman is seeking his third consecutive term as mayor of Monroe.

Howard issued the following statement:

"Citizens of Monroe have honored me on two occasions by electing me mayor. For this honor and privilege I am most grateful. These past few years have been most unusual in the history of Monroe, in that so many changes have taken place in such a short span of time.

"For me these have been short years, years filled with action, and a period in our history when citizens from all walks of life have placed the progress of our community first and have worked as a team for a better city. We have witnessed the rebirth of a city, a city moving along a charted course, with pride in its accomplishments and plans for the future. During these last few years we have seen apathy replaced with positive concrete action and citizens' groups joining with city officials for the purposes of bringing about the many improvements of which every one is so well aware.

"As we reflect back, I believe all of us can feel justifiable pride in the progress achieved, and at the same time, look to the future with confidence, knowing that a healthy, growing community which has planned ahead and has the will to carry out those plans is a prosperous and wholesome community in which to live.

"On May 16 the citizens of Monroe will determine whom they want to represent them as their city officials during the next four years. I humbly enter this race for mayor and respectfully ask for your consideration and vote.

"I know that each of you is well aware of the programs, policies, and accomplishments brought about during these last few years, for all of you have had a hand in shaping these programs. The eleven and one-quarter million dollar improvement program which is now underway was made possible because of your interest and desire that Monroe construct these facilities.

"Since every citizen in Monroe has played such an important role in every accomplishment, I announce my candidacy for re-election with the same pledge which I have made to you in the past. I pledge to each of you that I will give my very best to continue the progress which we are enjoying, to administer the affairs of our city honestly, efficiently, impartially, following good sound business principles and fiscal responsibility. I assure each of you that the tremendous improvement program, a program which you approved at the polls, and which the city is in the process of carrying out, will continue to receive my close attention and that these projects will be completed according to plan at the earliest possible date and at the lowest possible cost.

"For your confidence and cooperation I am most grateful. I have tried to be a good public servant, worthy of your confidence and respectfully ask your continued help and cooperation."

How To Keep Well

PIGMENTATION OF FACE

The mask of pregnancy (chloasma) is the dark patch that appears on the cheeks and forehead of some women while carrying a child. This discoloration usually fades and disappears after the baby is born. The cause is not known except that a pigment-stimulating hormone is activated during pregnancy. This may explain why freckles are intensified and striae (stretch marks) become more heavily pigmented at this time.

Now and then the patches persist after delivery. They are cosmetically distasteful. The skin looks dirty and the irregularity of the darkened areas prevents the development of a smooth tan. But the condition can be minimized with skillfully applied make-up.

Several glandular or intestinal disorders are capable of causing the discoloration and these disturbances should be investigated when it continues. This means a thorough study of the liver, uterus, ovaries, pituitary, and adrenal glands. If no abnormality can be found, the person may have to learn to live with the pigmentation.

Avoiding direct sunlight will help. Perfumes and toilet waters must not be applied to the face because they may sensitize the skin and intensify the reaction to ultraviolet light.

CORTISONE DURING PREGNANCY

Mrs. L. writes: I have been on cortisone three years. If I become pregnant, would the baby be affected by this drug?

REPLY

Possibly. But the hormone may not be needed at this time, especially if you have rheumatoid arthritis. Victims of this disease usually feel better during pregnancy and this was one of the clues that led to the discovery that cortisone would be helpful in arthritis.

FLUTTERING HEART

E.M.F. writes: Is rest the only way to relieve a fluttering heart? I have been getting these attacks off and on for several years and they last all day.

REPLY

Rest will help but usually a remedy such as quinidine sulfate or digitalis is required. I assume you mean auricular (atrial) fibrillation rather than ordinary palpitation or muscular twitching over the heart.

HOT BREAD

S.N. writes: Will eating hot bread fresh from the oven cause stomach cancer?

REPLY

No. This notion had its day 40 years ago. We do not know the cause of stomach cancer, which kills 25,000 persons annually. Most of our bread is prepared in commercial bakeries.

INJURED ORGAN

E. P. writes: Could an external blow to the abdomen cause peritonitis?

REPLY

Yes, provided the blow ruptures one of the abdominal organs. Perforations of this type may contaminate the peritoneal cavity, resulting in peritonitis.

MALIGNANCY STILL MOUNTS

Cancer Society Hears Of Gains Made On Illness

By FRANK CAREY
A.P. Science Writer

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Wendell G. Scott, president of the American Cancer Society said Friday "substantial gains" are lately being made against cancer, but he cautioned that "there is no reason for complacency."

Dr. Scott, a St. Louis Mo., radiologist, asserting that details of these gains will be outlined by society-supported scientists during the coming week, declared that even as progress is being made, the over-all incidence of malignancy continues to mount.

Opening the society's sixth annual seminar for science writers which will last through March 25, Dr. Scott said he had reviewed reports to be presented by some 50 of the nation's top cancer fighters and researchers.

"I believe I can predict that all of us will be encouraged by the appreciable gains that are being made in both the laboratory and the clinic," he said.

"During the course of this week's seminar, we will have laid before us the blueprints for new surgical procedures, new radiation techniques, new drugs and new immunological approaches to the management of malignant tissues."

"But," he stressed, "in our enthusiasm over the gains being made against cancer, we should not ignore the numerical gains being made by cancer against the American and worldwide populations."

Indeed, he said, "so far as cancer is concerned, things are likely to appear worse before we see any great over-all improvement."

He said that during 1964, "more Americans—about 6,000 more, according to estimate—will die of cancer than died in 1963, largely because of the increase in population."

"The total cancer toll continues to mount," he declared, despite the phenomenal drop in the incidence of some of the common cancers.

"During the last 30 years, for instance, the death rate from cancer of the stomach has declined over 60 per cent, and from cancer of the liver also almost 60 per cent. No one knows why. In addition, death rates from cervical cancer have been reduced 50 per cent," he said.

"Largely because of this, the cancer death rate in women has gone down. However, because of the increase in the number of older people, and particularly the mushrooming deaths due to lung cancer in men—cancer continues to increase in men and in its over-all toll of human life."

He said that science and medicine are making heartening advances "against diseases other than cancer—for example, against heart and circulatory ills. But he declared that many of those saved from death from such ills "then became candidates for cancer."

On the other side of the coin, Dr. Scott declared:

Roundup Slated At Lida Benton School April 3

Pre-School registration will be held at Lida Benton Elementary School, 3307 Lee Avenue on Friday, April 3, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., with a special program in the auditorium at 9:30 for the parents and children.

Children who will be six years old by December 31, 1964 are eligible to enter the first grade in September and should bring birth certificates at the time of this spring roundup.

Mrs. Ethel Trapp, health nurse, will be in attendance to talk with parents about the health program. No immunizations will be given at this time. Mrs. John B. Whitfield will be in charge of registration.

Hargiss Named Pageant Judge

Billy Hargiss of Monroe will be one of the judges to help select Miss Claiborne Parish for 1964 on March 28 at Homer, La. He was announced Friday by J.R. Oakes, Co-chairman of the event.

Thirteen girls are seeking the title at the event which will have as master of ceremonies, Bob Evans, of Little Rock, Ark.

Oakes also disclosed that Donna Axum, Miss America of 1964, will also appear at the event. The beauty pageant is sponsored by the Homer Jaycees.

W. L. Howard Seeking New Mayor Term

Mayor W. L. Howard Friday announced his candidacy for re-election in the May 16th primary.

The 43-year-old businessman is seeking his third consecutive term as mayor of Monroe.

Howard issued the following statement:

"Citizens of Monroe have honored me on two occasions by electing me mayor. For this honor and privilege I am most grateful. These past few years have been most unusual in the history of Monroe, in that so many changes have taken place in such a short span of time.

"For me these have been short years, years filled with action, and a period in our history when citizens from all walks of life have placed the progress of our community first and have worked as a team for a better city. We have witnessed the rebirth of a city, a city moving along a charted course, with pride in its accomplishments and plans for the future. During these last few years we have seen apathy replaced with positive concrete action and citizens' groups joining with city officials for the purposes of bringing about the many improvements of which every one is so well aware.

"As we reflect back, I believe all of us can feel justifiable pride in the progress achieved, and at the same time, look to the future with confidence, knowing that a healthy, growing community which has planned ahead and has the will to carry out those plans is a prosperous and wholesome community in which to live.

"On May 16 the citizens of Monroe will determine whom they want to represent them as their city officials during the next four years. I humbly enter this race for mayor and respectfully ask for your consideration and vote.

"I know that each of you is well aware of the programs, policies, and accomplishments brought about during these last few years, for all of you have had a hand in shaping these programs. The eleven and one-quarter million dollar improvement program which is now underway was made possible because of your interest and desire that Monroe construct these facilities.

"Since every citizen in Monroe has played such an important role in every accomplishment, I announce my candidacy for re-election with the same pledge which I have made to you in the past. I pledge to each of you that I will give my very best to continue the progress which we are enjoying, to administer the affairs of our city honestly, efficiently, impartially, following good sound business principles and fiscal responsibility. I assure each of you that the tremendous improvement program, a program which you approved at the polls, and which the city is in the process of carrying out, will continue to receive my close attention and that these projects will be completed according to plan at the earliest possible date and at the lowest possible cost.

"For your confidence and cooperation I am most grateful. I have tried to be a good public servant, worthy of your confidence and respectfully ask your continued help and cooperation."

How To Keep Well

PIGMENTATION OF FACE

The mask of pregnancy (chloasma) is the dark patch that appears on the cheeks and forehead of some women while carrying a child. This discoloration usually fades and disappears after the baby is born. The cause is not known except that a pigment-stimulating hormone is activated during pregnancy. This may explain why freckles are intensified and striae (stretch marks) become more heavily pigmented at this time.

Now and then the patches persist after delivery. They are cosmetically distasteful. The skin looks dirty and the irregularity of the darkened areas prevents the development of a smooth tan. But the condition can be minimized with skillfully applied make-up.

Several glandular or intestinal disorders are capable of causing the discoloration and these disturbances should be investigated when it continues. This means a thorough study of the liver, uterus, ovaries, pituitary, and adrenal glands. If no abnormality can be found, the person may have to learn to live with the pigmentation.

Avoiding direct sunlight will help. Perfumes and toilet waters must not be applied to the face because they may sensitize the skin and intensify the reaction to ultraviolet light.

Salves that inhibit the deposition of melanin or bleach the skin may be of value. Eldoquin is a new ointment for bleaching discolored skin. It is best suited to small areas such as freckle or a tiny dark patch. The product is tricky to use because sensitization to the ingredients may occur and this will encourage dermatitis.

Benoquin is a stronger preparation. It is not a bleach but is capable of reducing various types of pigmentation. Great caution is needed with this chemical because too much might cause a permanent mottled depigmentation (white spots).

CORTISONE DURING PREGNANCY

Mrs. L. writes: I have been on cortisone three years. If I become pregnant, would the baby be affected by this drug?

REPLY Possibly. But the hormone may not be needed at this time, especially if you have rheumatoid arthritis. Victims of this disease usually feel better during pregnancy and this was one of the clues that led to the discovery that cortisone would be helpful in arthritis.

FLUTTERING HEART

E.M.F. writes: Is rest the only way to relieve a fibrillating heart? I have been getting these attacks off and on for several years and they last all day.

REPLY Rest will help but usually a remedy such as quinidine sulfate or digitalis is required. I assume you mean arrhythmia (atrial fibrillation) rather than ordinary palpitation or muscular twitching over the heart.

HOT BREAD

S.N. writes: Will eating hot bread fresh from the oven cause stomach cancer?

REPLY No. This notion had its day 40 years ago. We do not know the cause of stomach cancer, which kills 25,000 persons annually. Most of our bread is prepared in commercial bakeries.

INJURED ORGAN

E. P. writes: Could an external blow to the abdomen cause peritonitis?

REPLY Yes, provided the blow ruptures one of the abdominal organs. Perforations of this type may contaminate the peritoneal cavity, resulting in peritonitis.

Today's Health Hint— Don't take potent drugs on your own.

Mortgage in the original sum of $12,150.

Federal Housing Commissioner sold to Herbert Wilton Thompson lot 12 of block 42 of the Ouachita Cotton Mills Second Addition for $8,750.

Lannie Ray Phillips sold to G. Leslie DeLano lot in the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 32, township 17 north, range 1 east, for $30.

Daniel L. Walker et ux sold to Fred P. Henry lots 10, 11 and 12 of the Evans Subdivision in section 18, township 18 north, range 4 east, for $12,700.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

MALIGNANCY STILL MOUNTS

Cancer Society Hears Of Gains Made On Illness

By FRANK CAREY
A.P. Science Writer

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Wendell G. Scott, president of the American Cancer Society said Friday "substantial gains" are lately being made against cancer, but he cautioned that "there is no reason for complacency."

Dr. Scott, a St. Louis Mo., radiologist, asserting that details of these gains will be outlined by society-supported scientists during the coming week, declared that even as progress is being made, the overall incidence of malignancy continues to mount.

Opening the society's sixth annual seminar for science writers which will last through March 25, Dr. Scott said he had previewed reports to be presented by some 50 of the nation's top cancer fighters and researchers. "I believe I can predict that all of us will be encouraged by the appreciable gains that are being made in both the laboratory and the clinic," he said.

"During the course of this week's seminar, we will have laid before us the blueprints for new surgical procedures, new radiation techniques, new drugs and new immunological approaches to the management of malignant tissues."

"But," he stressed, "in our enthusiasm over the gains being made against cancer, we should not ignore the numerical gains being made by cancer against the American and worldwide populations."

Indeed, he said, "so far as cancer is concerned, things are likely to appear worse before we see any great over-all improvement."

He said that during 1964, "more Americans—about 6,000 more, according to estimate—will die of cancer than died in 1963, largely because of the increase in population."

"The total cancer toll continues to mount," he declared, despite the phenomenal drop in the incidence of some of the common cancers.

"During the last 30 years, for instance, the death rate from cancer of the stomach has declined over 60 per cent, and from cancer of the liver also almost 60 per cent. No one knows why. In addition, death rates from cervical cancer have been reduced 50 per cent," he said.

"Largely because of this, the cancer death rate in women has gone down. However, because of the increase in the number of older people, and particularly the mushrooming deaths due to lung cancer in men—cancer continues to increase in men and in its over-all toll of human life."

He said that science and medicine are making "heartening advances" against diseases other than cancer—for example, against heart and circulatory ills. But he declared that many of those saved from death from such ills "then became candidates for cancer."

On the other side of the coin, Dr. Scott declared:

"The reports to be made at this seminar leave no doubt that substantial gains are being made against cancer. The clinical report show that cancer cures are increasing. Progress in basic research to be described here persuade me that still greater salvage of human life will be made a few years hence as those principles are applied to clinical problems."

Roundup Slated At Lida Benton School April 3

Pre-School registration will be held at Lida Benton Elementary School, 3307 Lee Avenue on Friday, April 3, from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., with a special program in the auditorium at 9:30 for the parents and children.

Children who will be six years old by December 31, 1964 are eligible to enter the first grade in September and should bring birth certificates at the time of this spring roundup.

Mrs. Ethel Trapp, health nurse, will be in attendance to talk with parents about the health program. No immunizations will be given at this time. Mrs. John B. Whitfield will be in charge of registration.

Hargiss Named Pageant Judge

Billy Hargiss of Monroe will be one of the judges to help select Miss Claiborne Parish for 1964 on March 28 at Homer, La. He was announced Friday by J. R. Oakes, Co. chairman of the event.

Thirteen girls are seeking the title at the event which will have as master of ceremonies, Bob Evans, of Little Rock, Ark.

Oakes also disclosed that Donna Axum, Miss America of 1964, will also appear at the event. The beauty pageant is sponsored by the Homer Jaycees.

Freeman Gives Graphic Plight For Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charlie Hamlin, too poor to farm his land or feed and clothe his nine children, was cited Friday as a prime reason for the administration's anti-poverty bill.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman brought Hamlin's plight to the attention of the House Education and Labor Committee, saying there are "many tens of thousands like him" in rural America.

The Johnson administration is asking Congress to appropriate $962 million for an attack on poverty through a variety of programs. Freeman concentrated on those aimed at "the invisible, neglected and forgotten" people mired in rural poverty.

Hamlin's home state was not named but Freeman called him "a very real American farmer."

He is 49, owns 90 acres of poor land, but can't work it because he has no money for seed or fertilizer. His children range from six months to 21 years of age and there aren't enough shoes to go around.

Freeman said Hamlin can't qualify for any welfare assistance under the various regulations that must be met, and cannot obtain a farm loan because he is unable to show he'll be able to repay it.

The proposed anti-poverty bill includes a provision for direct grants up to $1,500 for such a farmer to get into production so he can qualify for a farm loan.

In Hamlin's case, Freeman said, a grant of $1,300 would enable him to buy seed, fertilizer, beef cows and fencing, which could increase his net farm income from practically zero to $1,960 a year. The secretary said it could provide the start he needs.

"This is the only way to get the Charlie Hamlin family out of their desperate poverty and back on their feet," Freeman said.

The alternative, he said, is that the family will wind up in a city on relief, getting payments that would surpass $1,300 in five months.

"It is far cheaper—and far better—to buy a farm family a cow than to buy milk in bottles, day after day, for the children of that family in the city," Freeman said.

The secretary, the fifth Cabinet official to testify in support of the bill, said without the help it would authorize "it is difficult to see how these families have any hope at all, either on the farm or, if they leave the farm, in the city."

CLARKE COUNTY MISSISSIPPI

U.S. Requests Court To Halt Prosecution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department Friday asked a federal court to forbid state prosecution of two Clarke County, Miss., Negroes on charges of making false statements to federal civil rights officials.

In a civil suit filed in U.S. district court in Jackson, Miss., the government said both the state laws under which the case was brought and the prosecution itself were designed to intimidate and discourage Clarke County Negroes from attempting to vote.

The complaint names as a defendant George D. Warner Jr., district attorney of Mississippi's 10th judicial district which includes Clarke County.

The suit grows out of a voting suit involving the county, brought by the department in July 1961. When it was tried in December 1962, U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox ruled that the county registrar had discriminated against Negro applicants. He asked the Justice Department, however, to investigate possible perjury by two Negro witnesses, Kendrick Goff and Andrew Kendrick Jr.

The department's criminal division investigated the matter and concluded that no federal laws had been broken. Last October, however, the attorney

NEAR HISTORICAL PEAK

Stock Market Notes Steady Climb After Crash In '62

EDITOR'S NOTE—Beginning shortly after the crash of May 1962, the stock market has traced a long upward course and now stands near its historic high. During this time investor confidence was shaken more than once—most notably during the Cuban crisis and again on news of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Each time, the market came back stronger, however. In the following story Ed Morse, AP business news writer, traces the long advance and describes some of the factors providing strength.)

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, now near its highest peak in history, has been climbing since June 1962.

The market's height and the length of its upward march have raised some questions in Wall Street. The questions became more insistent after the closely watched Dow Jones industrial average recently topped the 800 level.

What has been behind the market rise? How do conditions in the stock market and business shape up?

In terms of money, how high is the market? The total value of all shares of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange now is about $433 billion—considerably more than the U.S. national debt which stands at about $312 billion.

In addition, other stocks are traded on smaller exchanges and in the vast "over the counter" market for issues not listed on any exchange.

The current valuation of $433 billion on the "Big Board" in New York compares with the June 1962 level of $299 billion—a rise of roughly 45 per cent.

The Dow Jones industrial average comprises only 30 of the 1,500-plus issues on the exchange. But these stocks are so big that they represent about 35 per cent of the value of all stocks on the exchange.

The Dow Jones industrials have risen from June 1962 level of around 535 to a recent peak of around 820, a gain exceeding 50 per cent.

Has the market advance gone too far? Has the business recovery lasted too long?

The market rise of the past 20 months compares with the 2½-year rise from the fall of 1942-46; and the six-year bull market from 1923 to 1929.

The business expansion from March 1961 to the present has lasted three years. It is the second longest of the post-World War II period.

Neither the rise of stocks nor of business, therefore, has been as long as some recent advances.

High stock markets are regarded by some as a long-term phenomenon.

"The 750 per cent appreciation in the Dow Jones industrial average since 1942," says one market analyst, reflects the growth of earnings, up 320 per cent; and of dividends, up 275 per cent; and the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar from 100 cents in 1942 to 52 cents today.

How has the recent rise come about?

The stock crash in the spring of 1962 was the worst since 1929. The collapse was ascribed to overinflated stock prices regarded as far out of line with corporate profits.

President Kennedy's rollback of the steel price increase, mutual distrust between government and business, and public hearings on the investigation of Securities Markets by the Securities & Exchange Commission.

As stock prices crashed from $388 billion in December 1961 to $299 billion in June, many feared another depression similar to the one after the Wall Street crash of 1929.

The erasure of some $89 billion in the resources of the stock-owning community was a hard economic blow.

But business stood firm. Economic safeguards enacted in the 1930s worked. No mushrooming effect resulted from the market plunge.

In fact, the six-month market plunge was accompanied by a substantial rise in corporate profits and dividend payments.

The administration in early June proposed an across-the-board tax cut.

In July, the Federal Reserve Board reduced margins—the down payment—for stock purchases to 50 per cent from 70 per cent, making it easier to invest.

Automobile sales remained strong. Steel production lagged

in the spring but began picking up in July.

Slowly, confidence began to rebuild.

Then came the crisis over Soviet missiles in Cuba. From a recovery peak of 609, Aug. 31, the Dow Jones industrials shrank back to a trough of 538 on Oct. 23.

But after the late President John F. Kennedy's successful confrontation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev over Cuba, stock prices climbed vigorously, pushing the Dow Jones industrials up to 652.10 by the end of 1962.

Another big factor in the year-end rebound was the showing of General Motors, the nation's largest manufacturing enterprise. GM reported doubled profits and declared a higher dividend as its own expression of confidence.

An upsurge of profits and dividend payments followed in 1963. The stock market marched along with business, but investors were much more discriminating than they were in the hectic rise of 1961. They concentrated on high-quality issues—blue chips—rather than the "glamor" issues of the 1961 advance whose prices far out-ran earnings before collapsing.

The market received a shocking blow on Nov. 22 when Kennedy was assassinated. Stocks recoiled to their worst one-day collapse since "Black Monday."

May 28, 1962. But after Kennedy's funeral, amid a wave of confidence in President Johnson, stocks more than made up their losses.

After the $11.5-billion tax cut finally was enacted in February, stocks rose even further. The very next day the Dow Jones industrials crossed the 800 level—which not so long ago had seemed beyond reach.

It was also forecast that—if and when the Dow Jones industrials reached 800—traders would sell, cashing profits on their gains as on similar occasions in the past.

Instead, the market continued to rise. Blue chips remained in favor, despite increased buying of some low-priced, speculative issues—a sign of greater man-in-the-street participation.

Rising profits and dividends, an expanding economy which has resisted shocks, government action which has helped the market and public confidence—these are broad factors in the stock rise since June 1962.

Freeman Gives Graphic Plight For Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charlie Hamlin, too poor to farm his land or feed and clothe his nine children, was cited Friday as a prime reason for the administration's anti-poverty bill.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman brought Hamlin's plight to the attention of the House Education and Labor Committee, saying there are "many tens of thousands like him" in rural America.

The Johnson administration is asking Congress to appropriate $962 million for an attack on poverty through a variety of programs. Freeman concentrated on those aimed at "the invisible, neglected and forgotten" people mired in rural poverty.

Hamlin's home state was not named but Freeman called him "a very real American farmer." He is 49, owns 90 acres of poor land, but can't work it because he has no money for seed or fertilizer. His children range from six months to 21 years of age and there aren't enough shoes to go around.

Freeman said Hamlin can't qualify for any welfare assistance under the various regulations that must be met, and cannot obtain a farm loan because he is unable to show he'll be able to repay it.

The proposed anti-poverty bill includes a provision for direct grants up to $1,500 for such a farmer to get into production so he can qualify for a farm loan.

In Hamlin's case, Freeman said, a grant of $1,300 would enable him to buy seed, fertilizer, beef cows and fencing, which could increase his net farm income from practically zero to $1,960 a year. The secretary said it could provide the start he needs.

"This is the only way to get the Charlie Hamlin family out of their desperate poverty and back on their feet," Freeman said.

The alternative, he said, is that the family will wind up in a city on relief, getting payments that would surpass $1,300 in five months.

"It is far cheaper—and far better—to buy a farm family a cow than to buy milk in bottles, day after day, for the children of that family in the city," Freeman said.

The secretary, the fifth Cabinet official to testify in support of the bill, said without the help it would authorize "it is difficult to see how these families have any hope at all, either on the farm or, if they leave the farm, in the city."

CLARKE COUNTY MISSISSIPPI

U.S. Requests Court To Halt Prosecution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department Friday asked a federal court to forbid state prosecution of two Clarke County, Miss., Negroes on charges of making false statements to federal civil rights officials.

In a civil suit filed in U. S. district court in Jackson, Miss., the government said both the state laws under which the case was brought and the prosecution itself were designed to intimidate and discourage Clarke County Negroes from attempting to vote.

The complaint names as a defendant George D. Warner Jr., district attorney of Mississippi's 10th judicial district which includes Clarke County.

The suit grows out of a voting suit involving the county, brought by the department in July 1961. When it was tried in December 1962 U. S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox ruled that the county registrar had discriminated against Negro applicants. He asked the Justice Department, however, to investigate possible perjury by two Negro witnesses, Kenneth Goff and Andrew Kendrick Jr.

The department's criminal division investigated the matter and concluded that no federal laws had been broken. Last October, however, the attorney

NEAR HISTORICAL PEAK

Stock Market Notes Steady Climb After Crash In '62

EDITOR'S NOTE—Beginning shortly after the crash of May 1962, the stock market has traced a long upward course and now stands near its historic high. During this time investor confidence was shaken more than once—notably during the Cuban crisis and again on news of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Each time the market came back stronger, however. In the following story Ed Morse, AP business news writer, traces the long advance and describes some of the factors producing strength.

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, now near its highest peak in history, has been climbing since June 1962.

The market's height and the length of its upward march have raised some questions in Wall Street. The questions became more insistent after the closely watched Dow Jones industrial average recently topped the 800 level.

What has been behind the market rise? How do conditions in the stock market and business shape up?

In terms of money, how high is the market? The total value of all shares of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange now is about $433 billion—considerably more than the U.S. national debt which stands at about $312 billion.

In addition, other stocks are traded on smaller exchanges and in the vast "over the counter" market for issues not listed on any exchange.

The current valuation of $433 billion on the "Big Board" in New York compares with the New York 1962 level of $299 billion—a rise of roughly 45 per cent.

The Dow Jones industrial average comprises only 30 of the 1,500-plus issues on the exchange. But these stocks are so big that they represent about 35 per cent of the value of all stocks on the exchange.

The Dow Jones industrials have risen from a June 1962 low of around 535 to a recent peak of around 820, a gain exceeding 50 per cent.

Has the market advance gone too far? Has the business recovery lasted too long?

The market rise of the past 20 months compares with the 2½-year rise from the fall of 1942-46; and the six-year bull market from 1923 to 1929.

The business expansion from March 1961 to the present has lasted three years. It is the second longest of the post-World War II period.

Neither the rise of stocks nor of business, therefore, has been as long as some recent advances.

High stock markets are regarded by some as a long-term phenomenon.

"The 750 per cent appreciation in the Dow Jones industrial average since 1942," says one market analyst, reflects the growth of earnings, up 320 per cent; and of dividends, up 275 per cent; and the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar from 100 cents in 1942 to 52 cents today.

How has the recent rise come about?

The stock crash in the spring of 1962 was the worst since 1929. The collapse was ascribed to overinflated stock prices regarded as far out of line with corporate profits. President Kennedy's rollback of the steel price increase, mutual distrust between government and business, and public hearings on the investigation of Securities Markets by the Securities & Exchange Commission.

As stock prices crashed from $388 billion in December 1961 to $299 billion in June, many feared another depression similar to the one after the Wall Street crash of 1929.

The erasure of some $89 billion in the resources of the stock-owning community was a hard economic blow.

But business stood firm. Economic safeguards enacted in the 1930s worked. No mushrooming effect resulted from the market plunge.

In fact, the six-month market plunge was accompanied by a substantial rise in corporate profits and dividend payments. The administration in early June proposed an across-the-board tax cut.

In July, the Federal Reserve Board reduced margins—the down payment—for stock purchases to 50 per cent from 70 per cent, making it easier to invest.

Automobile sales remained strong. Steel production lagged

in the spring but began picking up in July.

Slowly, confidence began to rebuild.

Then came the crisis over Soviet missiles in Cuba. From a recovery peak of 609, Aug. 31, the Dow Jones industrials shrank back to a trough of 538 on Oct. 23.

But after the late President John F. Kennedy's successful confrontation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev over Cuba, stock prices climbed vigorously, pushing the Dow Jones industrials up to 652.10 by the end of 1962.

Another big factor in the year-end rebound was the showing of General Motors, the nation's largest manufacturing enterprise. GM reported doubled profits and declared a higher dividend as its own expression of confidence.

An upsurge of profits and dividend payments followed in 1963. The stock market marched along with business, but investors were much more discriminating than they were in the hectic rise of 1961. They concentrated on high-quality issues—blue chips—rather than the "glamor" issues of the 1961 advance whose prices far out-ran earnings before collapsing.

The market received a shocking blow on Nov. 22 when Kennedy was assassinated. Stocks reeled to their worst one-day collapse since "Black Monday," May 28, 1962. But after Kennedy's funeral, amid a wave of confidence in President Johnson, stocks more than made up their losses.

After the $11.5-billion tax cut finally was enacted in February, stocks rose even further. The very next day the Dow Jones industrials crossed the 800 level—which not so long ago had seemed beyond reach.

It was also forecast that—if and when the Dow Jones industrials reached 800—traders would sell, cashing profits on their gains as on similar occasions in the past.

Instead, the market continued to rise. Blue chips remained in favor, despite increased buying of some low-priced, speculative issues—a sign of greater man-in-the-street participation.

Rising profits and dividends, an expanding economy which has resisted shocks, government action which has helped the market and public confidence—these are broad factors in the stock rise since June 1962.

Neville's swift Tigers easily outdistanced Ruston and Jonesboro in a triangular track and field meet at Tiger Stadium Friday. Gaining eight first places, Neville scored 70 points to Ruston's 48 and Jonesboro's 32. The Tigers monopolized the dashes and relays, losing only the half-mile and both hurdles in the running events. Times for the contest were not impressive, due possibly to cool weather and a strong chilling wind. In the first running event, the 880 relay, Neville stepped out to a ten yard lead thanks to Jerry Braud, Eric Borgkvist, and Gary Holt. Anchor man Freddie Moses, competing with an injured leg, limped home the last stretch five yards ahead of second place Ruston. Time for the run was 1:34.3. Moses retired from further competition after the win. Ruston hurdler, Bill Patterson, swept to victories in the 120 yard high and the 180 lows with times of 15.0 and 20.3. With Neville's top timber man, J. Dodd Brooks, out with an injury there was no one on the track to offer Patterson any competition. Mike Edmonds was another double winner for the Bearcats

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Ruth Jessen, willowy Bonnell, Calif. stylist, kept nudging the ball into the cup Friday for a three-stroke lead in the first round of the 72-hole $7,500 Western Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Jessen in shooting a 73 used only 10 putts on the front nine holes of the rolling 6,543-yard par 38-37-75 Seaside Hills Country Club course. She one-putted all but No. 1. Sixteen putts got her home, but three were used on the trapped 12th after she blasted to within 15 feet of the green and wavered momentarily in canning the ball.

The standout performance of the day was Clifford Ann Creed's eagle on the 410-yard par 5 sixth hole, a feat that helped the Alexandria, La. golfer grab second spot at 76.

Amateur Ball May Be Back In Morehouse

BASTROP (Special)—Baseball promoters and enthusiasts in Morehouse Parish are starting the groundwork to form a parish amateur league on the pattern of the American Legion Amateur League in Ouachita Parish.

Morehouse has been without amateur baseball since the Louisiana-Arkansas League folded in 1962 after three seasons of operation.

The latest plan calls for a federation of teams in the parish only and to solicit only players over 18 so as not to interfere with junior Legion baseball which has several teams in the area.

The Morehouse league hopes to include eight to ten teams from Bonita, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Collinston and Beckman with Bastrop contributing at least two clubs.

Several parish baseball enthusiasts already have been contacted for their support. Among these are ex-Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, Ed Head of Bastrop; C. W. Montgomery, now principal at Mer Rouge High School and a former semi-pro player as well as having been a manager of the Bastrop club in the La. Ark League, and J. J. Roan who has managed several baseball teams.

with a five-iron, stopped only 15 feet short of the cup and she coolly canned it. Tied at 77 were Kathie Whitworth, Judy Kimball and Judy Torluemeke. "This is my first tournament of the year and I was just as nervous as could be," said Miss Jessen after her two-under-par round. "But it didn't seem to affect my game." Patty Berg, St. Andrew's, Ill. veteran, finished the first round in a three-way tie at 79. "I'm 46 years old but after today I think I might go 10 rounds with Cassius Clay," the exuberant Miss Berg said. The Open, delayed one day by rain, ends Sunday in a double-header 36-hole windup.

TOMMY MCDONALD

Eagle Flanker Sent To Dallas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles traded their pass-catching sensation, Tommy McDonald, to the Dallas Cowboys Friday for two big linemen and a kicking specialist.

The new Eagles' coach, Joe Kuharich, acquired Lynn Hoyer, a center-guard; John Meyers, defensive tackle, and Sam Baker, veteran pro punter and place-kicker.

McDonald with a career record of 287 receptions for 5,499 yards and 66 touchdowns, has been one of the National Football League's standout pass receivers since coming to the Eagles seven years ago after being an All-America at Oklahoma.

Kuharich said he was reluctant to let go of the 170-pounder, but "to get men of the caliber we need to fill the gaping holes we have, we had to give up a top flight player."

McDonald was one of the stars of the 1960 champion Eagles and held most club records for pass receiving. Last year he slipped a little because of injuries, but still managed to catch 41 passes for 731 yards and eight touchdowns.

Kuharich said the deal was the first in his extensive rebuilding program, designed to lift the Eagles out of last place in the NFL's Eastern Division. He took over as head coach three weeks ago, handed a four-year contract by Jerry Wolman, the club's new owner.

In Meyers, the Eagles acquired a 23-year-old, 6-foot-8, 286-pounder who should plug one of the holes in the weak Eagles' defensive line. Despite his height, Meyers is considered quick and with great maneuverability. Hoyer is described as having the ability to play center, guard or tackle on offense. Kuharich, an exponent of the ground-gaining belly series, needs big fast linemen to open the holes. The 32-year-old Baker, headed for his 10th year in the NFL, is rated an accurate field goal

Rebels enter Razorback Relays Today

Seeking to improve upon two third place finishes in their only outings this year, the West Monroe trackmen journey to Texarkana, Ark., today for the Razorback Relays.

The Rebels won over 40 teams in a similar scramble at the bi-state city last year.

This season they have managed third place in the Shreveport Relays and third at a five team meet at Ouachita.

Track coach Pat Riser reports having no information on the other contestants in today's go, saying, "I just hope we can finish in the top three again."

Rebel entrants will be: 100 Dash — Danny Perkins and Bill Kelly; 440 Dash — Chip Tompson, and Steve West; 880 Dash — Buddy Adams and Sammy Brewster;

1 Mile Run — Ronnie Butler and Larry Beebe or Ricky Hayden; 440 Relay — Van Nolan, Bob Avery, Kelly and Perkins;

880 Relay — Perkins, Avery, Tompson, and West; 1 Mile Relay — Adams, Avery, Tompson, and West;

THREE TIED FOR FIRST

Baxter And Nicklaus Drop Record On 'Blue Monster'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Rex Baxter and Jack Nicklaus broke the record for the Doral Country Club's "Blue Monster" golf course with six-under-par 65s and Bob Shave Jr. tied the mark with a 67 as the trio went into a first-place tie Friday in the $50,000 Doral Open.

The three youngsters, with 137s at the halfway mark, shoved aging Sam Snead out of the top spot, but the 51-year-old Snead stayed one stroke behind with a 68 for 138.

Baxter wiped out the old competitive record of 67 in an early finish, then sat in the clubhouse while Nicklaus and Shave matched the performance.

Straight shots off the tees, deadly approaches and six birdie putts by Baxter erased the competitive mark set by Paul Bondeson in 1962 and later tied by Billy Casper, Dan Sikes and Jerry Potter.

Using a pendulum-style putter which he swings between his legs like a croquet mallet while facing the hole, the 27-year-old Shave came in later in the day and Nicklaus followed

In two days Baxter, Shave and Nicklaus have knocked eight strokes off par for the wind-swept 7,028-yard Doral "Blue Course" with its many water hazards and distances that place a premium on power off the tees.

Baxter, a 28-year-old Texan, has risen rapidly in the pro ranks. His climb was climaxed by his first victory in the Cajun Classic, the last tournament on one of the final threesomes.

the 1963 schedule. In that same tournament, Shave finished second.

"When you putt good, your score has got to be good," the 6-foot, 180-pound Baxter said.

He was using the same lucky locker, No. 131, that was occupied by the Jacksonville law student, Dan Sikes, when he scored the only major victory of his life by sweeping to an upset in last year's Doral. Baxter needed a putt of only three feet for a birdie on No. 2 and of only four feet for birdies on Nos. 8, 10 and 12.

He dropped a 30-footer on No. 1 and a 12-footer on No. 16 and took only 28 putts in the round. Shave, a former Florida State University student, didn't need a great deal of accuracy from his weird putter because most of his approach shots were dead to the pin. One of his five birdie putts had to travel only six inches. The others covered 11, 10, nine and eight feet.

Nicklaus, the year's top money winner, launched his round with a 10-foot eagle putt on the first hole. He said he was driving and putting better than he has in some time.

An obscure and aging club pro from Miami, 51-year-old Joe Lopez Sr., fired his second consecutive 69 to surprise by moving into fifth place just two strokes off the lead.

Lopez, a former Doral pro who knows the course well, said he was "inspired" by the continued strong play of Snead and 52-year-old John Barnum, fellow members of the distinguished field of PGA senior golfers 50 and over.

Snead, ignoring his aching feet in the scramble for another of the many big paydays in a career spanning 33 years, was complaining as usual about his putting. He said he missed five "makeable" putts during the day.

Bastrop Rips Ouachita, 7-1, In 2-AAA Tilt

The Bastrop Rams put across four runs in the second inning to squeak Ouachita's hopes for a first district outing baseball victory Friday afternoon at the Lions diamond.

A pelting of extra base hits put the visitors ahead 4-0 and laid the groundwork for a 7-1 victory over Ouachita.

The loss dropped the Lions to 2-2 for the young season and evened losing pitcher Johnny Elmdendorf's count at 1-1. Bastrop's Ricky Reynolds chalked up win No. 3 against no defeats.

Ouachita saved itself from a shutout in the sixth inning when Beach was brought home on a single by Oglesbee.

Bastrop staged its assault with Ricky Head's triple, Florence's double and Reynolds' triple paving the way.

The Rams battered Elmdendorf for 14 hits while Ouachita picked up only three.

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ruth Jessen, willow Bonsall, Calif. stylist, kept nudging the ball into the cup Friday for a three-stroke lead in the first round of the 72-hole $7,500 Western Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Jessen in shooting a 73 used only 10 putts on the front nine holes of the rolling 6,543-yard par 38-75 Seaside Hills Country Club course. She one-putted all but No. 1. Sixteen putts got her home, but three were used on the trapped 12th after she blasted to within 15 feet of the green and wavered momentarily in canning the ball.

The standout performance of the day was Clifford Ann Creed's eagle on the 410-yard par 5 sixth hole, a feat that helped the Alexandria, La., golfer grab second spot at 76.

Amateur Ball May Be Back In Morehouse

BASTROP (Special) — Baseball promoters and enthusiasts in Morehouse Parish are starting the groundwork to form a parish amateur league on the pattern of the American Legion Amateur League in Ouachita Parish.

Morehouse has been without amateur baseball since the Louisiana-Arkansas League folded in 1962 after three seasons of operation.

The latest plan calls for a federation of teams in the parish only and to solicit only players over 18 so as not to interfere with junior Legion baseball which has several teams in the area.

The Morehouse league hopes to include eight to ten teams from Bonita, Mer Rouge, Oak Ridge, Collinston and Beekman with Bastrop contributing at least two clubs.

Several parish baseball enthusiasts already have been contacted for their support. Among these are ex-Brooklyn Dodger pitcher, Ed Head of Bastrop; C. W. Montgomery, now principal at Mer Rouge High School and a former semi-pro player as well as having been a manager of the Bastrop club in the La. Ark League, and J. J. Roan who has managed several baseball teams.

the half-mile and both hurdles in the running events.

Times for the contest were not impressive, due possibly to cool weather and a strong chilling wind.

In the first running event, the 880 relay, Neville stepped out to a ten yard lead thanks to Jerry Braud, Eric Borgkvist, and Gary Holt. Anchor man Freddie Moses, competing with an injured leg, limped home the last stretch five yards ahead of second place Ruston.

Time for the run was 1:34.3. Moses retired from further competition after the win.

Ruston hurdler, Bill Patterson, swept to victories in the 120 yard highs and the 180 lows with times of 15.0 and 20.3. With Neville's top timber man, J. Dodd Brooks, out with an injury there was no one on the track to offer Patterson any competition.

Mike Edmonds was another double winner for the Bearcats with firsts in the high jump with a leap of 5-6, and a toss of 166-6 in the javelin.

Ruston scored also in the triple jump as Charles Liner leaped 40-2 to win.

Jonesboro's Denny Collins took the long jump with a 20-7½ effort. Gary Pappas was second some four inches back for Neville.

Pappas won the 100 yard dash on a 10.3 clocking and led off the Tiger 440 relay run, which the Tigers won in 45.0 seconds.

Aubrey Futrell led Jonesboro's scoring with first places in the discus and shot put. He sailed the platter 131-5 and had a 46-3 mark in the shot.

Neville's David Trousdale surprised his favored teammate Doug Cookston with a win in the pole vault. Cookston finished second to Trousdale's 11-0 height.

Gary Holt sped to first place in the 220 yard dash for the Tigers in 23.6 with Jonesboro's Johnny Garlington a close second.

Ruston took the 880 yard run on George Simonton's 2:11.7 clocking. Simonton also finished second in the mile run, which was won by Neville's Don West in 5:02.4.

The Tigers completed the running events just as they began by winning the wrap-up mile relay with 3:35.2 time.

Exhibition Baseball

Giants Over Angels

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning against their former farmhand Danny Rivas and beat the Los Angeles Angels 11-3 Friday. It was the Giants' seventh straight exhibition baseball victory.

Rivas, a little southpaw, faced 10 batters, gave up eight hits and two walks, didn't retire a man and was charged with all 10 runs.

The Giants now have 11 victories in 12 Cactus League tries and have scored 41 runs on 57 hits in their last three games. Rookie Ron Herbel pitched five innings for San Francisco, giving up five hits. The one run off Herbel came on Joe Adcock's single and Bob Rodgers' double, one of three straight hits for the Angel slugger.

Mudcat KO's Cubs

NOGALES, SONORA, Mex. (AP)—Jim (Mudcat) Grant shut out the Chicago Cubs for 6 1/3 innings and drove in three runs with two hits as the Cleveland Indians won 5-1 in an exhibition baseball game Friday.

Grant, who looked in mid-season form, held the Cubs to three hits and struck out five before running into trouble in the seventh. With one out, he gave up a double to Ernie Banks and walked John Boebell. But rookie right-hander Tom Kelley came on and made Andre Roden hit into a line-drive double play to end the threat.

Leon Wagner and John Romano hit solo homers for the Indians. Wagner's blast in the third was the first ever hit in this ball park, which was dedicated before the game. Romano hit his in the sixth.

Chicago's only run came in the ninth when Lou Brock hit one over the 350-foot right-field fence. Grant singled in the second to drive in Woodie Held, who had doubled. In the sixth, after Al Luplow had singled and Held was hit by a pitched ball, Grant doubled to score two more.

Cardinals, 4-1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Carl Warwick tripled in more runs in one inning Friday than the New York Mets had allowed in the previous 26 as St. Louis scored a 4-1 exhibition victory.

Warwick broke a fifth inning scoreless tie with a two-run triple off southpaw Al Jackson, then scored himself on an infield out. It was the Cardinals' sixth victory in seven games.

Two southpaws, veteran Curt Simmons and young Larry Jaster, limited the Mets to four scattered hits until the ninth, when pinch hitters George Altman and Jess Gonder delivered and New York got its lone run.

Braves Swamp Yankees

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Four home runs off Ralph Terry and Whitey Ford powered the Milwaukee Braves to an 11-1 victory over the New York Yankees Friday and boosted their exhibition record to 5-2.

Henry Aaron hit his second and third homers of the spring and Frank Bolling and Tommie Aaron their first.

Terry and Ford gave up two each and yielded five runs in three innings.

The Braves got 14 hits, including three singles by Bolling, besides his home run and three straight doubles by Ty Cline.

Bob Sadowski and Denny Lemaster pitched five-hit ball for the Braves. Sadowski allowed the only run on Mickey Mantle's double in the fourth.

The Yankees now have a 3-4 record.

Cubs Clip Bosox

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Boston Red Sox 10-7 in a "B" game Friday as Boston pitchers handed out nine walks.

Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox and Lou Holtzer of the Cubs each hit two-run homers.

Conigliaro hit his in the five-run Boston sixth, putting the Red Sox ahead 7-6.

The Cubs scored two in the eighth, regaining the lead, and wrapped it up with two more on Holdner's homer in the ninth.

A's Snap Losses

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics collected 11 hits and defeated the Washington Senators 7-4 Friday for their first exhibition victory of the year. They have lost five.

Chuck Hinton hit a two-run homer for Washington in the first inning but the A's, playing most of their regulars for the first time this spring, bounced back with four runs in their half of the first against Bennie Daniels. Manny Jimenez singled in the first two runs and Gino Cimoli's single pushed over the last two.

The A's added two runs in the fourth against Jim Duckworth and completed their scoring in the eighth when Dick Green homered against Don McNeal.

Reds Win In Ninth

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Mel Queen lofted a run-scoring sacrifice fly that broke a tie in the ninth inning as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Detroit Tigers 8-6 in a Grapefruit League game Friday.

Marty Keough hit a two-run homer in the ninth for the Reds. The defeat was charged to Dave Wickersham and the winner was Jim O'Toole, who pitched the last five innings.

Frank Robinson also hit a home run for Cincinnati and Norm Cash and Willie Horton homered for Detroit.

Another Met Loss

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The New York Mets have lost pitcher Craig Anderson for at least a month with a fractured pitching hand.

The 25-year-old right-hander was struck on the hand by a pitch thrown by Ed Rakow of the Detroit Tigers in an exhibition game Thursday at Lakeland. It was thought at first that the injury wasn't serious but X-rays Friday showed two broken bones.

Anderson pitched the entire season with the Mets in 1962, losing 16 games in a row at the end of a 3-17 campaign. Called back from Buffalo by the Mets last year, he lost two games, giving him an 18- game losing streak.

However, he had looked good in training and appeared headed for a comeback when the accident sent him to the sidelines.

Mossi Almost Ready

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Veteran southpaw Don Mossi spent his first day in a Chicago White Sox uniform Friday and said he should be ready to pitch for his new club in about a week.

Mossi, acquired from the Detroit Tigers for the $20,000 waiver price, has been troubled with a swollen elbow on his pitching arm. The condition has bothered him during three of the last five spring training seasons, Mossi said, adding it was not serious.

The White Sox went through a long workout here Friday afternoon after their scheduled exhibition with the Pirates at Fort Myers was canceled because of torrential rains.

Allen Sparks Phils

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Richie Allen's fourth home run of the exhibition season sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-0 victory over Houston Friday. The homer came with two aboard in the fifth inning.

Wes Covington hit a solo homer in the eighth.

Dallas Green and John Booser limited the Colts to five hits. Dave Giusti was the victim of the Phils' big fifth.

Pizarro Wants More

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Juan Pizarro, the Chicago White Sox' holdout pitcher, said Friday he was asking a raise of $6,000 to $7,000 over last year, when he made an estimated $18,000.

Pizarro, a left-hander, had a 2.39 earned run average, second in the American League, and a 16-8 won-lost record. He said Ed Short, Chicago general manager ### had called him several times but Pizarro was not at home any of the times.

Twins Rest

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Manager Sam Mele gave the Minnesota Twins a day off Friday but 11 of the players, feeling they needed extra practice, worked out voluntarily.

The Twins' coaching staff put the 11 through a light batting drill. They were Rich Rollins, Don Mincher, Jay Ward, George Banks, Lenny Green, Earl Battey, Bernie Allen and pitchers Lee Stange, Bill Fischer, Camilo Pascual and Dave Boswell.

Finals Today In Independent Meet At Eros

EROS (Special)—Finals in both boys and girls play are slated today in the Eros Independent tournament. Girls finals are at 7:30 p.m., followed by the boys at 8:45.

In Friday's action Caldwell defeated Eros 56-30 behind the 32 point scoring of Wanda Dunn in the only girls game. Pat Austin scored 10 points for the winners.

Stuart Toms, a former Northeast State star, scored 31 points for Epos TV in one of two boys games, but Chatham's Independents still won, 55-50. Tommy Latham had 21 for the winners.

Frank Mancil popped in 32 to pace LeRoy's Oil and Gas to an 86-59 romp over Fountain Hill, Ark. James Hartley scored 15 for the losers.

Today's action starts at 1 p.m. with Smith TV of Farmerville meeting Choudrant. At 2:15 Oglesbee's Supermarket plays McMoey Water Wells.

LeRoy's plays the winner of the Smith-Choudrant game at 3:30 and Chatham takes on the winner of the Oglesbee-McMoey Game at 4:45.

Lions Sneak Past Illinois Visitors, 6-5

HAMMOND, La. (AP)—Southern Louisiana edged North-east Illinois 6-5 Friday as the visitors opened a Southern baseball tour.

SLC scored the winning run in the seventh inning when Danny Roussel was walked home. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader was called off because of darkness at the end of three and one-half innings.

The two teams play a doubleheader Saturday.

CALL ME, 'MUHAMMAD ALI'

Cassius Hopes To Fight, Make Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, rejected Friday by the Army, said he hopes to fight again within three months and then make a world tour.

He added that he is agreeable to a return bout with Sonny Liston if the latter is ready, and willing to face any qualified challenger. He listed three—Ernie Terrell, Doug Jones and Eddie Machen.

"I want to fight again this summer, and we're working on it," the 22-year-old titleholder said after receiving word from Washington that he is unfit for military service. "If we can't arrange it, then I want to take a trip overseas, especially to the African and Asian nations."

The Army reported that Clay failed his second pre-induction examination and was "not qualified for induction into the Army under applicable standards."

No mention was made of the specific test Clay flunked but it was presumed to be that involving mental aptitude. There have been unofficial reports that he missed out on the mathematics portion.

"I just said I'm the greatest,"

I never said I was the smartest," the champion said. Clay took his first test in Coral Gables, Fla., a week before he stopped the heavily favored Liston in the seventh round of their title bout in Miami Beach Feb. 25. Liston, complaining of an injured left shoulder, failed to continue after the sixth round. When the results of the first examination proved inconclusive, a second one was given a week ago in Louisville.

"Tests given Clay included measurements of aptitudes for various skills needed in military service," the Army's formal announcement Friday said. "Interviews conducted by experts in the field of testing and analysis of results of the two tests indicate that Clay put forth his best efforts on both occasions."

The heavyweight king accepted the news calmly at his new New York headquarters in a Harlem hotel.

"It's the Army's decision," he said. "The Army's the boss. I don't want to say anything about it."

"Don't call me Cassius Clay," the champ admonished interviewers. "I am Muhammad Ali, heavyweight champion of the whole world. That is a beautiful Arabic name. That's my name now."

It is the name given Clay by the anti-integrationist Black Muslim sect, which follows the Islam religion. Clay announced after the Liston fight that he was a disciple.

Clay said he was busy setting up residence in New York and attending business details but was keeping in fighting trim.

BRADLEY VS. NEW MEXICO

Five Smart Players, Coach Face Twin In NIT Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The name of the game will be teamwork when Bradley plays New Mexico for the 27th National Invitation Basketball Tournament title Saturday—five sharp players and a smart coach against five sharp players and a smart coach.

Both the Braves from Peoria, Ill., and the Lobos from Albuquerque have shown cohesion and poise in this year's classic at Madison Square Garden. Chuck Orsborn's Bradley team edged St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 83-81 and swamped Army 67-52 in reaching the final, while Bob King's New Mexico club beat Drake 65-60 and New York University 72-65 in two solid performances.

Observers in general and Bradley in particular give New Mexico one decided advantage—Ira (The Large) Harge, quick-moving 6-foot-8 center. Orsborn concedes Harge shapes up as the Braves' big problem and so does Harge's Bradley counterpart, 6-9 Joe Strzawder.

"I haven't seen anyone handle him yet," says Strzawder. "You need to be a Bill Russell."

Strawder, incidentally, earned a starting role in the championship match with his productive work as a reserve against Army in Thursday night's semifinals. He'll team with 6-2 Lavern Tart, 6-6 Eddie Jackson, 6-0 Bobby West and 5-10 Rich Williams.

The Lobos, with a decided edge in height, start Harge, 6-8 Claude Williams, 6-5 Mike Lucero, 6-3 Dick Ellis and 6-1 Skip Kruzich.

Bradley, 22-6 going into the showdown, is in the NIT for the 11th time and after its third title. New Mexico, 23-5, is playing in its first NIT. The game will be nationally televised by NBC at 4 p.m. EST after NYU and Army play for third place.

Both the Braves and the Lobos stress team play—patience, movement of the ball and patterns. They have clever backcourt men and sharp shooters, and alert defenses. New Mexico is particularly defense-minded and especially deliberate, willing to work for long stretches to shake Lucero loose in a corner or Harge under the basket.

Points are not likely to come cheaply in the 27th NIT finale.

OVER MICHIGAN

Jay Rebounds Duke To Rout

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Big Jay Buckley rebounded aggressive Duke to a surprisingly easy 91-80 triumph over Michigan Friday night and a spot in the NCAA final basketball championship.

The Blue Devils will face the winner of the UCLA-Kansas State game, nightcap of the Friday doubleheader, in Saturday night's final game.

The 6-foot-10 Buckley, Duke center, swept both boards in the first half Duke drive that put the Blue Devils in front to stay.

Duke's Jeff Mullins hit a first half Duke drive that put the Blue Devils in front to stay. Duke's Jeff Mullins hit a jumper late in the first half to break a 31-31 tie and touch off a Duke burst in which Coach Vic Bubas' Blue Devils outscored the mighty Wolverines 8-1 and took a 39-32 lead.

An aggressive Duke man-to-man defense and Buckley's rebounding kept the Big Ten champions, the nation's second-ranked team, off balance the rest of the way.

Duke, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion, increased the lead to 48-39 at halftime and led by seven to 13 points throughout the last half.

The victory more than made up for Michigan's 83-67 regular season victory over the Blue Devils.

Rebounding was the difference in the rematch. Buckley took down eight of Duke's 24 first half rebounds while Michigan gained only 17, and only one offensively.

Buckley finished with 14 rebounds and 25 points, offsetting the 31-point performance of Michigan's sophomore sensation Cazzie Russell, who appeared to be bothered by a tender ankle injured in Big Ten play.

He was limping during the early going and didn't appear to get going until after intermission. His revival was necessary, with his 19 points keeping Michigan in the game.

Pair Deadlock In Champions Cup Tourney

HOUSTON (AP)—Bill Pehn and George Seaholm of Austin, Tex. fired a 69 Friday to go with their opening round 70 to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the fourth annual Champions Cup Golf Tournament.

John Paul Cain and Dr. Les Lemak, the home club entry, also had a 69 after a 71 Thursday for their 140 total.

Others with 140s were Johnny Thornton and Bobby Walkowich of San Antonio, Tex., who turned in the low score of the day, a 68.

At 141 were Dave Goldman and John Smith of Dallas after a 70 Friday.

Exhibition Baseball

Giants Over Angels

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco exploded for 10 runs in the fifth inning against their former farmhand Danny Rivas and beat the Los Angeles Angels 11-3 Friday. It was the Giants' seventh straight exhibition baseball victory.

Rivas, a little southpaw, faced 10 batters, gave up eight hits and two walks, didn't retire a man and was charged with all 10 runs.

The Giants now have 11 victories in 12 Cactus League tries and have scored 41 runs on 57 hits in their last three games. Rookie Ron Herbel pitched five innings for San Francisco, giving up five hits. The one run off Herbel came on Joe Adcock's single and Bob Rodgers' double, one of three straight hits for the Angel slugger.

Mudcat KO's Cubs

NOGALES, SONORA, Mex. (AP)—Jim (Mudcat) Grant shut out the Chicago Cubs for 6-13 innings and drove in three runs with two hits as the Cleveland Indians won 5-1 in an exhibition baseball game Friday.

Grant, who looked in mid-season form, held the Cubs to three hits and struck out five before running into trouble in the seventh. With one out, he gave up a double to Ernie Banks and walked John Bocabella. But rookie right-hander Tom Kelley came on and made Andre Rodgers hit into a line-drive double play to end the threat.

Leon Wagner and John Romano hit solo homers for the Indians. Wagner's blast in the third was the first ever hit in this ball park, which was dedicated before the game. Romano hit his in the sixth.

Chicago's only run came in the ninth when Lou Brock hit one over the 350-foot right-field fence. Grant singled in the second to drive in Woodie Held, who had doubled. In the sixth after Al Luplow had singled and Held was hit by a pitched ball, Grant doubled to score two more.

Cardinals, 4-1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Carl Warwick tripled in more runs in one inning Friday than the New York Mets had allowed in the previous 26 as St. Louis scored a 4-1 exhibition victory.

Warwick broke a fifth inning scoreless tie with a two-run triple off southpaw Al Jackson, then scored himself on an infield out. It was the Cardinals' sixth victory in seven games.

Two southpaws, veteran Curt Simmons and young Larry Jaster, limited the Mets to four scattered hits until the ninth, when pinch hitters George Altman and Jess Gonder delivered and New York got its lone run.

Braves Swamp Yanks

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Four home runs off Ralph Terry and Whitey Ford powered the Milwaukee Braves to an 11-1 victory over the New York Yankees Friday and boosted their exhibition record to 5-2.

Henry Aaron hit his second and third homers of the spring and Frank Bolling and Tommie Aaron their first.

Terry and Ford gave up two each and yielded five runs in three innings.

The Braves got 14 hits, including three singles by Bolling, besides his home run and three straight doubles by Ty Cline.

Bob Sadowski and Denny Lemaster pitched five-hit ball for the Braves. Sadowski allowed the only run on Mickey Mantle's double in the fourth.

The Yankees now have a 3-4 record.

Cubs Clip Bosox

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Boston Red Sox 10-7 in a "B" game Friday as Boston pitchers banded out nine walks.

Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox and Lou Holdner of the Cubs each hit two-run homers.

Conigliaro hit his in the five-run Boston sixth, putting the Red Sox ahead 7-6.

A's Snap Losses

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Kansas City Athletics collected 11 hits and defeated the Washington Senators 7-4 Friday for their first exhibition victory of the year. They have lost five.

Chuck Hinton hit a two-run homer for Washington in the first inning but the A's, playing most of their regulars for the first time this spring, bounced back with four runs in their half of the first against Bennie Daniels. Manny Jimenez singled in the first two runs and Gino Cimoli's single pushed over the last two.

The A's added two runs in the fourth against Jim Duckworth and completed their scoring in the eighth when Dick Green homered against Don McNeal.

Reds Win In Ninth

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Mel Queen lofted a run-scoring sacrifice fly that broke a tie in the ninth inning as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Detroit Tigers 8-6 in a Grapefruit League game Friday.

Marty Keough hit a two-run homer in the ninth for the Reds. The defeat was charged to Dave Wickersham and the winner was Jim O'Toole, who pitched the last five innings.

Frank Robinson also hit a home run for Cincinnati and Norm Cash and Willie Horton homered for Detroit.

Another Met Loss

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The New York Mets have lost pitcher Craig Anderson for at least a month with a fractured pitching hand.

The 25-year-old right-hander was struck on the hand by a pitch thrown by Ed Rakow of the Detroit Tigers in an exhibition game Thursday at Lakeland. It was thought at first that the injury wasn't serious but X-rays Friday showed two broken bones.

Anderson pitched the entire season with the Mets in 1962, losing 16 games in a row at the end of a 3-17 campaign. Called back from Buffalo by the Mets last year, he lost two games, giving him an 18-game losing streak.

However, he had looked good in training and appeared headed for a comeback when the accident sent him to the sidelines.

Mossi Almost Ready

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Veteran southpaw Don Mossi spent his first day in a Chicago White Sox uniform Friday and said he should be ready to pitch for his new club in about a week.

Mossi, acquired from the Detroit Tigers for the $20,000 waiver price, has been troubled with a swollen elbow on his pitching arm. The condition has bothered him during three of the last five spring training seasons, Mossi said, adding it was not serious.

The White Sox went through a long workout here Friday afternoon after their scheduled exhibition with the Pirates at Fort Myers was canceled because of torrential rains.

Allen Sparks Phils

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Richie Allen's fourth home run of the exhibition season sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-0 victory over Houston Friday. The homer came with two aboard in the fifth inning.

Wes Covington hit a solo homer in the eighth. Dallas Green and John Bozzer limited the Colts to five hits. Dave Giusti was the victim of the Phils' big fifth.

Pizarro Wants More

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Juan Pizarro, the Chicago White Sox' holdout pitcher, said Friday he was asking a raise of $6,000 to $7,000 over last year, when he made an estimated $18,000.

Pizarro, a left-hander, had a 2.39 earned run average, second in the American League, and a 16-8 won-lost record. He said Ed Short, Chicago general manager had called him several times but Pizarro was not at home any of the times.

Twins Rest

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Manager Sam Mele gave the Minnesota Twins a day off Friday but 11 of the players, feeling they needed extra practice, worked out voluntarily.

The Twins' coaching staff put the 11 through a light batting drill. They were Rich Rollins, Don Mincher, Jay Ward, George Banks, Lenny Green, Earl Battey, Bernie Allen and pitchers Lee Stange, Bill Fischer, Camilo Pascual and Dave Boswell.

Alan Murray Leading Field At Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Alan Murray, a 23-year-old Australian pro, took a five-stroke lead after 36 holes of the $11,500 Hong Kong Open Golf Tournament Friday with a score of 130.

Murray, the 1961 Australian champion, shot an eight-under-par 64 Friday morning over the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club's five-course and followed with a five-under-par 66 on the new course.

Hsieh Yung-Yo of Nationalist China, winner of last year's Hong Kong Open, held second place with 65-70—135 and Angel Miguel of Spain was third with 68-69—137. Hsieh and Miguel played the 6,348-yard new course first. The old course measures 6,390 yards.

"I couldn't have putted better," Murray said. He holed a 60-foot putt for an eagle three at the 10th hole. He also had five birdies.

Ralph Moffitt of England had a 138 total for fourth place and Japan's Haruyoshi Kobari and Teruo Sugihara had 139s. Max Bayha of Anaheim, Calif., the only American entered, was out of contention after a first round 81. He followed with a 71 for 152.

The tournament will be completed with single rounds over the new course Saturday and Sunday. It is the fifth and final event on the Far East circuit. Hsieh is over-all leader in point scoring for the circuit with 59 points. Tadashi Kitta of Japan has 65, Tomoo Ishii of Japan 64 and Peter Thomson of Australia 63½. The winner of each tournament gets 25 points with 19 for second, 18 for third etc.

Rodriguez In Defense Of Fight Streak

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight contender Luis Rodriguez kept his record perfect against middleweights Friday night by soundly drubbing Friday Holley Mims of Washington, in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Rodriguez, of Miami, weighed 151, Mims 158.

It was Rodriguez' eighth victory in as many fights with members of the 160-pound division.

The Cuban exile took Friday night's fight on short notice as a sub when Joey Archer suffered a cut over his left eye in training and was forced out.

"I'll take it, I'm ready," said Rodriguez when asked to substitute. He was in training for his June 12 title fight with welterweight champion Emile Grifith.

The 26-year-old Cuban proved he was ready by setting a terrific pace against the 35-year-old Mims.

Rodriguez, a 4-1 favorite, was just too fast and agile for the game oldtimer who is in his 17th year of fighting for cash. The decision was unanimous.

The three officials had Rodriguez ahead, referee Ruby Goldstein 6-3-1, Judge Al Berl 8-2 and Judge Joe Eppy 5-4-1. The Associated Press had Rodriguez in front 8-2.

Buckley finished with 14 rebounds and 25 points, offsetting the 31-point performance of Michigan's sophomore sensation Cazzie Russell, who appeared to be bothered by a tender ankle injured in Big Ten play.

He was limping during the early going and didn't appear to get going until after intermission. His revival was necessary, with his 19 points keeping Michigan in the game.

Pair Deadlock In Champions Cup Tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Pehn and George Seaholm of Austin, Tex., fired a 69 Friday to go with their opening round 70 to take a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the fourth annual Champions Cup Golf Tournament.

John Paul Cain and Dr. Les Lemak, the home club entry, also had a 69 after a 71 Thursday for their 140 total. Others with 140s were Johnny Thornton and Bobby Walkovich of San Antonio, Tex., who turned in the low score of the day, a 68.

At 141 were Dave Goldman and John Smith of Dallas after a 70 Friday.

JON JORDAN

Formal Opening Of West Monroe Firm Due Today

The Jordan Saw and Marine Company which started operations recently at 709 Trenton, West Monroe, will hold its formal opening today, it was announced Friday by Jon Jordan, owner and operator.

In observance of the formal opening, there will be free prizes, coffee, doughnuts, and cokes for visitors. During the day there will be demonstrations of McCulloch chain saws, and chain saws will be sharpened free if chain is on saw, Jordan said.

The Jordan Saw and Marine Company, in addition to handling McCulloch chain saws and outboard motors, has Toro lawn mowers and Gibson garden equipment. The organization specializes in servicing and repairing saws, outboard motors and lawn mowers.

Jordan is married, has two sons and two daughters. The family resides at 317 Walters St., West Monroe.

For the past 15 years Jordan and his wife, Pat, have been boat racing enthusiasts. As a team they have won four world championships and set three world speed records, Jordan said.

In 1957, Jordan won the Winn's Mechanic of the Year award. Originally from Wichita, Kansas, he was employed as a salesman and trouble shooter for the McCulloch Corporation before coming to West Monroe.

Louisiana Tech Professor Gets Literary Award

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Professor John D. Winters of the Louisiana Tech history department Thursday, received the Louisiana Literary Award as the author of the outstanding Louisiana book published during 1963.

The book entitled "The Civil War in Louisiana," was published last June by the Louisiana State University Press.

The award was presented to Dr. Winters at the Louisiana Library Association annual dinner here by Miss Katherine Bridges, chairman of the Louisiana Library Award Committee.

Professor Winters has instructed at Louisiana Tech since 1948. He is a native of Lake Providence and a graduate of LSU.

The book was called by one reviewer, "the most interesting and informative work yet to appear on the special contributions of Louisiana to the Confederacy."

This was the seventh such award that has been won by an LSU Press book.

Northeast Honor Society Banquet Held At Paragon

A galaxy of spring flowers set the decorative theme for Thursday night's annual Northeast State Honor Society Banquet in the Paragon club ballroom. In creating the floral arrangements which filled the ballroom, Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn used daffodils, hyacinths, pink camellias and pearlbrush, all from her own gardens.

Ribbons of English ivy interspersed with soft yellow tapers in silver candelabra ran the length of the speaker's table, accenting the central arrangement of spring flowers in a white compote. White candles and flowers carried out the Springtime theme on the side tables and on the registry table.

New officers for the coming year, presented at the banquet, were Gary Godair, president; Miss Penny Williams, vice-president; Miss Penny Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Marilyn Chandler, secretary; Robert Pfirmer, treasurer and Mrs. Charleen Morizot, reporter.

A surprise element of the evening was the announcement of a scholarship award to the freshman organization member attaining the highest academic average during the fall semester. The award, presented by Dr. Clint Hanna, dean of instruction, was made to Ray Ainsworth, an art major from Vidalia. Mr. Ainsworth was also presented with a volume of art, "The Old Master," a gift from the Northeast Library in memory of the late dean of Fine Arts, Dr. Harry M. Lemert.

Speaker of the evening was Monroe attorney Thomas M. Hayes, who decried the cult of conformity and mediocrity prevalent today while stressing the importance of being an individual. Mr. Hayes told student members and faculty that employers are looking for more in the college graduate than technical or professional skills. He urged the students to "walk that extra mile" to achieve excellence and to strive for dignity, decency, intelligence, politeness and religious faith. "But first and foremost," he said, "you should be capable of effectively speaking and writing the English language."

A program of music was presented for the entertainment of those attending with Mrs. Ruby Gandy, who sang two numbers from "Kismet," accompanied by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, a member of the Northeast music faculty. Jim Robinson offered a medley of piano favorites from "West Side Story."

Faculty attending were Dean and Mrs. Clint Hanna, Dean and Mrs. Fred Vogel, Dean Ralph Wilson, Miss Alma Lufey, Dr.

and Mrs. Lake Oxford, Dr. and Mrs. W. K. Easley, Dr. and Mrs. Prentice Gray, Mrs. Harry Lemert, Honor Society sponsor, Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, Lady Stahl, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Prince, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gandy, Dr. Paul Schwab, dean emeritus, Trinity College, San Antonio.

Other guests were: C. F. Brooks, Mrs. C. F. Brooks, Gerald Wayne Farrar, Jeff Napper, Marshall Douglas, John E. Burkhalter, Claude Terral, Shell Barr, Mr. Don McCrary, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bauer, Judy Willis, Jerry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Crotwell Jr., Mrs. O. D. Graves, Louis Mashaw, Paul E. Blackmon and Mary Beth Crowe.

W. Decker Moore, Ronald Gunter, James Liner, Linda Blair, Perry Lee Smith, Luther Tufts, Mrs. Eugene Lawrence and Jim Robinson.

Gerrie Frasier, Linda Lee Green, Earl Greer, Veronica Guillot, Sylvia Lee Gunter, Marjorie Ann Hammons, Robert Hargrove, John Horn, Susan Hromadka, Sue Joachim, Mary G. Mashaw, Harriet Murray, Judith C. Lawrence, Ruth Mulhearn, Mary Ann Neill, Essie Mae Nugent, Carol Puckett and Sage Redding.

Mary Ann Rose, Jeanne Rowan, Dianne Sharbono, Lucian H. Shockey, Pauline Harment, Robin Thornhill, Ruth Terral, Nelda Thames, Fred J. Vogel Jr., Roslyn Walker, Emery E. Worley, Veronica Worley, Charles Lee Walter, David Worthington, Phillip Youngblood.

Members attending were: Gary Godair, Sheila Williams, Marilyn Chandler, Robert Pfirmer, Charleen Morizot, Shirley Nelson, Judy Couch, Carolyn Hart, Emelda Williams, Cheryl Fletcher, Helen Smith, Elizabeth Perritt, Bob Grath, Frances Walters, Adrian White, Robert Kemp.

SPRINGTIME WELCOME comes from fresh flowers and flowered Easter bonnets, and when those hats are made of fresh flowers, the whole idea is destined to brighten the Easter parade. Add a corsage of pretty blossoms to your lapel for additional "springiness."

Miscellaneous Shower Fetes Pauline Varino

Among the recent compliments extended for Miss Pauline Varino, in anticipation of her marriage to Anthony Joseph Pendola, was a miscellaneous shower last Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George A. Varino on Hilton Avenue. Sharing hostess honors with her mother was Miss Rosalie Varino.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Varino of Monroe and Mrs. Dominick Pendola of Columbia are the parents of the couple, who will exchange their vows at St. Matthew's Catholic Church on the morning of March 30.

The honoree received her guests in a kelly green Italian silk jacket ensemble, which was accented with a gift corsage of pink camellias. The bride's book was placed on a table covered in pink tulle, which held an arrangement of pink and red camellias surrounding a bride doll. Camellias in this combination were noted in arrangements throughout the reception area.

Covering the refreshment table was a white cutwork linen cloth. The central arrangement was a colorful array of hyacinths, jonquils and flowering quince in a pink compote, flanked by pink tapers. A silver punch bowl was placed at one end of the table, with the silver tea service opposite. Assisting with the serving were Miss Celie Reeder, Miss Veronica Worley, Miss George Varino, Miss Barbara Barton, Miss Betty Varino and Mrs. Walter Franks.

Fresh Flowers Play Important Role At Easter

The Society of American Florists suggests a way to feel "younger than Springtime" this Easter. Fresh flowers always play an important part in the Easter season. They seem to tell us that the travail of winter is behind us and the warm sun is brightly shining once again. The Society suggests that Easter bonnets be fashioned out of actual fresh blooms!

These little hats are not difficult to make, though they look tricky. Your florist can make your Easter finery for you. Or, if you prefer, buy the flowers and fashion them yourself with the aid of florists' wire and straight pins. Anchor them to your curls with bobby pins.

The base of a floral Easter bonnet should be made with any flat or shiny leaves. Lemon, magnolia or some of those fascinating flecked dracena leaves all are attractive choices. Wire the leaves together, then bend into a shape which is becoming to you.

A simple wreath is especially charming with a young face. A pouf of leaves and flowers on one side of the forehead may be better for someone more sophisticated. A woman who wears a chignon may wish to cover it completely with glossy leaves and then insert flowers at intervals. A wisp of veiling might complete the attractive arrangement.

Flowers to decorate these Easter whimsies are myriad. Camellias — either white or in the bright pink which is such a popular fashion color this year — might be a good choice. Orchids, of course, are always popular, especially the tiny little butterfly ones which the florists call "cymbidiums."

Carnations, violets, wee sweet-heart roses — any of these would be charming. The only thing of importance to remember when selecting your floral headgear is to make sure that your flowers complement your outfit both in color and in feeling.

Add a corsage of the same blossoms to your shoulder and, as the Society of American Florists says, you too will be younger than Springtime!

Even with consistent use of a vacuum cleaner, carpets may eventually become dull. They need an occasional professional cleaning.

GUEST SPEAKER, Attorney Thomas Hayes, enjoys an informal chat with the new officers of Northeast State's Honor Society at the annual banquet held Thursday evening at the Paragon Club. ## Beautification Program Set By Area Group

The Waterproof Garden Club met at the city hall on Tuesday, March 17, with Mrs. K. K. Killen, president, presiding. The program was given by Mrs. R. S. Rife Sr.

A nominating committee, chosen to select a slate of officers, were Mrs. Don McGhee, Mrs. Louis Preis, Jr. and Mrs. R. S. Rife, Sr.

The Garden Club discussed plans for beautifying the town of Waterproof by planting crepe myrtle trees in town and at the entrances.

The Yard of the Month plaque for March was awarded to Miss Rosy Massony.

AN EXCITING WEEKEND is underway at the Hugh G. McDonald home on Riverside with a number of guests here from New Orleans. Accompanying their daughter, Miss Ann McDonald, to Monroe Thursday was Mrs. Robert E. Milling Jr., who is here to attend several parties complementing Ann and her son, King Milling, who are planning a June wedding. Coming to Monroe on Friday was Miss Mary Ann McLellan, and making the group complete is the prospective bridegroom himself, who arrives here today.

OUT OF TOWN visitors Wednesday and Thursday of this week were Miss Neville Barry, Miss Judith Foss and Mrs. Pearl Peterson of Principia College in Elmhurst, Illinois. In Monroe they visited with friends of Miss Barry's, a former Monroyan. On leaving here, the group went on to Natchez for the pilgrimage and to New Orleans before returning to Illinois.

ELIZABETH MARTIN, Monroe cellist, will appear in a faculty recital at the Little Theatre of Louisiana Tech tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m. with pianist, Helen Tucker Woodruff and tenor, Alfred Tellingheusen.

IN MONROE for an extended visit is Mrs. Gussie A. Willis of Headland, Alabama, who is a guest in the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dent, Buddy and Mark.

Add a corsage of the same blossoms to your shoulder and, as the Society of American Florists says, you too will be younger than Springtime!

CARPETS

Even with consistent use of a vacuum cleaner, carpets may eventually become dull. They need an occasional professional cleaning.

Beautification Program Set By Area Group

The Waterproof Garden Club met at the city hall on Tuesday, March 17, with Mrs. K. K. Killen, president, presiding. The program was given by Mrs. R. S. Rife, Sr.

A nominating committee, chosen to select a slate of officers, were Mrs. Don McGhee, Mrs. Louis Preis, Jr. and Mrs. R. S. Rife, Sr.

The Garden Club discussed plans for beautifying the town of Waterproof by planting crepe myrtle trees in town and at the entrances.

The Yard of the Month plaque for March was awarded to Miss Rosy Massony.

AN EXCITING WEEKEND is underway at the Hugh G. McDonald home on Riverside with a number of guests here from New Orleans. Accompanying their daughter, Miss Ann McDonald, to Monroe Thursday was Mrs. Robert E. Milling Jr., who is here to attend several parties complimenting Ann and her son, King Milling, who are planning a June wedding. Coming to Monroe on Friday was Miss Mary Ann McLellan, and making the group complete is the prospective bridegroom himself, who arrives here today.

OUT OF TOWN visitors Wednesday and Thursday of this week were Miss Neville Barry, Miss Judith Foss and Mrs. Pearl Peterson of Principia College in Elsah, Illinois. In Monroe they visited with friends of Miss Barry's, a former Monroyan. On leaving here, the group went on to Natchez for the pilgrimage and to New Orleans before returning to Illinois.

ELIZABETH MARTIN, Monroe cellist, will appear in a faculty recital at the Little Theatre of Louisiana Tech tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m. with pianist, Helen Tucker Woolridge and tenor, Alfred Tellinghausen.

IN MONROE for an extended visit is Mrs. Gussie A. Willis of Headland, Alabama, who is a guest in the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dent, Buddy and Mark.

DEAR ABBY

My Life Story Is Not Secret To My Readers

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: I am continually receiving letters from readers who ask, "How can you give advice to parents on child rearing when you are an old maid yourself?" Or, "The lady next door told me that the picture you use with your column was taken before World War I." Others have asked, "Are you married? Have you any children?"

I have, on numerous occasions, answered these questions in my column, but for those who apparently still do not know, I offer a few vital statistics:

Abigail Van Buren is a pen name of my own choosing. I was born on the fourth of July in 1918. In 1939 I married the same fine man to whom I am still married. We have two offspring — a daughter 21, and a son 19. The picture over my column was taken about a year ago. I stand five feet nothing, and weigh 100 pounds. I was raised on Iowa corn (no remarks please) and now reside in southern California. Any more questions?

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists on making a liar out of me every time I open my mouth. I can be talking to friends, relatives, our children or to strangers. He is a good man in many other ways, but his habit of contradicting me is getting me down. I don't even feel like talking in front of him any more. When I started to tell my doctor how I felt, my husband interrupted me, saying, "She doesn't really feel weak and dizzy, she feels tired and nervous. I am never right. Is there a cure for a man like that?"

DEAR NEVER: Your husband may not be aware that he is constantly contradicting you. Tell him! And if he's as good a man in the many other ways as you say he is, he'll make an effort to be a better man in this way, too. If he's just looking for a fight, use reverse English and give him the old, "You're right, Dear," He'll catch on.

DEAR ABBY: You once gave me your recipe for Southern pecan pie. I baked one for my family, and they just raved about how delicious it was. Then I baked two more and served it to my "Club." All the women wanted the recipe. I didn't think it would be right, Abby, if I gave it out without asking your permission. If you say no, I'll guard it with my life.

Florence O. in Hannibal, Mo.

DEAR FLORENCE: I hope your life is worth more than one cup of white corn syrup, one cup of dark brown sugar, one-third cup of melted butter, one heaping cup of shelled pecans, three whole eggs, a dash vanilla and a pinch of salt. I can't understand a person who refuses to give out a recipe (save a professional chef.) Share!

Luncheon Fetes Area Auxiliary New Members

The Lake Providence Junior Auxiliary held its annual spring luncheon honoring new members in the home of Mrs. H. H. Howington. Guests of honor who attended their first chapter meeting were Mrs. James Harold Crews, Mrs. Stanley Crews and Mrs. George Hopkins, who were welcomed by the president, Mrs. William Knobles, at the business session preceding the covered dish luncheon.

Mrs. William Harris, neighborhood chairman of the Girl Scouts, reported on the bus trip which 80 Scouts and 13 adults made to Monroe for the national Girl Scout birthday.

Clothes closet chairman Mrs. T. E. Hankins informed the group that 280 articles of clothing have been distributed to children in the elementary school during this school year. Some items were bought by the Auxiliary while others were used but in good condition. The clothing was obtained primarily through a clothing tea and a cartoon carnival which the Junior Auxiliary sponsored.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a social hour and a luncheon were shared by the members. Mrs. Michael Brown, Mrs. Philip Brown, Mrs. J. H. Crews, Mrs. Stanley Crews, Mrs. S. F. Dunlap, Mrs. W. K. Gore, Mrs. S. C. Guenard, Mrs. T. E. Hankins, Mrs. W. A. Harris, Mrs. George Hopkins, Mrs. H. H. Howington, Mrs. J. W. Johnston, Mrs. William Knobles, Mrs. Reynold Minsky, Mrs. E. ## HINTS FROM HELOISE

Rolls Thawed In Bag Are Fresher, Softer

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

I had been testing hamburger buns, wiener buns and rolls from my deep freeze for two weeks.

So many complaints have come in from women who say that when they freeze their rolls remove them from the freezer and then heat 'em, that they are hard and taste dry.

Here's what I think you all are doing:

I think you are taking them from the freezer in their wrapping, opening the plastic, separating the rolls and setting them aside, so that they will thaw quickly.

DON'T do this!

I have found (and if you test it yourself, you can see this so) that when you take a plastic bag full of rolls out of your deep freeze there is "frost" inside.

If you would just set the bag UNOPENED on your drain-board until the rolls completely thaw out . . . the moisture or frost (or whatever you call it) that you see inside the bag will be absorbed BACK into the rolls, thus making them fresh again. After the moisture is absorbed, or after the rolls are completely defrosted, finish cooking or heating them.

I know it doesn't say this on the package but I feel this is your trouble. The rolls were removed directly from the package and then let thaw, were thawed and harder than those we thawed inside the unopened package.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I had a real good black sweater but it had little white balls of lint all over it.

I bought a package of black dye and re-dyed it. So help me, it looks just like a brand new sweater. It cost nothing but the price of the package of dye; otherwise, I would have had to throw away a perfectly good sweater. Now, you can't see the little white fuzzy balls at all.

Tessie

Great idea, Tessie.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My children have collected a lot of seashells.

I discovered that the larger of the clam shells make wonderful soap dishes. The little curve at the bottom collects the water thus keeping the bar of soap from getting soft.

These shells are especially pretty in the bathroom if they are painted with the new pearlescent nail polish that can be

UAW Seeks Lower Age To Retire

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Walter P. Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, Friday placed early retirement and bigger pensions at the top of a king-sized list of bargaining demands the union will present to the auto industry this summer.

"The UAW president also called for twice-daily coffee breaks for workers on the auto production line as one way to improve working conditions and show that 'man is master of the machine.'"

His emphasis on lowering the retirement age from 65 received the loudest applause from more than 2,500 delegates at the opening session of the union's week-long convention. The UAW, armed with a $65-million strike fund is stronger than ever and the economic climate has never been so bright for bargaining, Reuther said.

Referring to record-high auto industry profits and the cash reserves of the "big three" producers, he drew laughs and applause when he said: "We intend to tighten those money bags in 1964."

In a more formal written report, Reuther gave this prediction about the coming contract talks with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

"The prospects are excellent that we shall be able to make substantial progress in this year's negotiations," Reuther said.

Talks with the major auto producers in behalf of nearly 600,000 UAW members are expected to start about July 1 to replace contracts expiring Aug. 31.

In his 85-minute opening remarks Friday morning, Reuther omitted any mention of his previous statement that the union would seek a minimum wage-benefit increase of 4.9 per cent during each year of a new agreement.

That target, nearly twice as high as the typical settlement in the auto industry, is far above White House wage guidelines for non-inflationary pay gains. Reuther, however, insisted the auto companies could afford it, because of rapidly increasing productivity and profits, without raising their prices.

School Seizes Student Paper In Mississippi

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—The University of Southern Mississippi seized 1,200 copies of the university's student newspaper Friday on grounds the edition was in poor taste.

The paper contained a news article on the unsuccessful attempt by Negro John Frazier to enroll at the all-white university here March 9.

Rader Grantham, dean of men at the university, did not discuss the specific reason for confiscating 1,200 of the 4,000 papers printed.

Grantham said the edition "was construed to be in poor taste by officials of the university and a large number of copies were removed from distribution points."

University Dean John Allen said the newspaper, "The Student Printz," was "a laboratory experience for students' studies and consequently is under pre-approval of the instruction staff of the university."

The edition mentioned the Frazier registration attempt in a news story and did not make editorial comment on it. Editorials ranged from those in support of the New Hampshire presidential primary.

The copies were seized by campus security officers under Chief Lewis Venus.

Journalism chairman Frank Buckley, who is advisor to the newspaper, said he was not consulted about the confiscation.

Southern President W. D. McCain said he had just returned from a meeting of the Mississippi Education Association and had no knowledge of the seizure.

Frazier, a 22-year-old Greenville Negro, tried to enroll earlier this month, but was turned down because he had not filled out an application 20 days prior to the registration date as prescribed by school rules.

He has been active in civil rights work and has been a student at Tougaloo College near Jackson.

Training Center Locates In Area

WATERPROOF (Special) — The Tensas Parish ASCS Office has recently been selected as a training center for ASC county office managers, according to V. C. Rives, chairman of the Tensas Parish ASC county committee.

Donald R. McDaniel, Ville Platte, a graduate of the University of Southwestern Louisiana was recently selected as county office manager trainee. After completing three months training at the Franklin Parish ASC office in Winnsboro, he will report to the St. Joseph office to complete training necessary to qualify for the position of county office manager.

Belli Plans To Quit Membership Of Bar

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Attorney Melvin Belli called Dallas "the murder capital of the world" Friday and said that if Jack Ruby had been tried elsewhere he would not have been convicted of killing Lee Harvey Oswald.

Belli also said during a press conference that he was resigning from the American Bar Association and was withdrawing formally as Ruby's counsel "at the request of the family."

The San Francisco lawyer said that Dallas juries have returned death sentences in as little as three and seven minutes and that when Ruby's jury deliberated more than two hours, one Dallas newspaper bannered the fact.

If there had been a change of venue and Ruby had been tried elsewhere, Belli said he "would have walked out on the street" or been put into an institution.

Belli said there is no automatic review of death sentences in Texas as there is in California and "there is an automatic death penalty unless the defendant has funds."

He called the Ruby jury "self-satisfied and smug" and said that when it announced its verdict "something welled up in me."

Belli's remarks after the verdict was announced were called "intemperate and abusive" by American Bar Association President Walter E. Craig, who said the ABA was investigating.

Welsh Enters Race To Block 'Bama Governor

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Gov. Matthew Welsh entered Indiana's Democratic presidential primary Friday as a "favorite son" candidate to block Alabama Gov. George Wallace from capturing by default the state's 51 first-ballot votes at the national convention.

Party leaders immediately began circulating petitions to place Welsh's name on the ballot formally in the May 5 preferential primary.

A statement issued by state Democratic headquarters said the move was made for the protection of "our beloved leader," President Johnson. Officials emphasized that Welsh's name would not be placed in nomination for the presidency at the convention.

Minutes after Welsh announced his candidacy at a news conference in Washington, a man presumed to be representing the segregationist Alabama governor called at the statehouse and picked up 50 forms for circulating a similar petition.

Wallace backers previously had obtained copies of the primary filing document, and it appeared certain that Wallace was at least seriously considering carrying his anti-civil rights bill crusade into Indiana.

3 Negroes File As Candidates In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Three Negroes filed papers with the Secretary of State's office Monday to qualify as candidates for Congress in the June Democratic primary election.

They were Jake M. Houston, 74-year-old retired Vicksburg furniture dealer seeking the seat held by Rep. John Bell Williams of Raymond; Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, 46-year-old Ruleville woman seeking the seat held by Rep. Jamie Whitten of Charleston; and the Rev. John Erle Cameron, 31-year-old Hattiesburg Baptist minister seeking the seat held by Rep. William Colmer of Pascagoula.

Two Negroes sought congressional posts unsuccessfully in 1962, with Williams beating the Rev. Robert L. T. Smith of Jackson and Whitten beating Merrill Lindsey of Holly Springs. All three of the incumbents, and other whites, are expected to be in the races this year.

Mississippi Rights Group Plans Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil rights groups will stage "Freedom Days" in numerous Mississippi cities this summer to give the nation "a real look at Mississippi," a Negro leader said Friday.

Another purpose of these activities will be to make it easier for Negroes to vote, added Robert Moses, a Mississippi field secretary for the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

Moses told of the plans at a news conference here. He said the freedom days would be sponsored by a council of federated organizations. Details of the proposed demonstrations were not announced.

The Negro leader also claimed a "reign of terror" has been started by the Ku Klux Klan in Southwestern Mississippi.

Since last summer's freedom march on Washington, he said, the slayings of five Negroes in Southwest Mississippi have been flogged and at least 15 crosses have been burned.

Moses said Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., has "tampered with the judiciary" with the result that there was a change in the makeup of a three-judge federal court hearing a Negro vote case.

He also told newsmen that Negroes plan to contest the election of Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., by showing that if Negroes were allowed to register in Whitten's district they would elect Fannie Hamer, Fannie, a Negro, has filed for the office.

Much of the news conference was devoted to the alleged reign of terror Moses said exists in Southwestern Mississippi. Moses said one of the five victims was Lewis Allen of Amite County, who died two months ago. Moses said Allen had witnessed a 1961 shooting of another Negro by a white man.

The Negro leader said that shooting had been listed as self-defense.

Moses said Allen had given the FBI a statement that the killing was not in self defense, that the victim had no weapon. Moses said he believed the killing of Allen was connected with the previous slaying and that the FBI had "leaked" Allen's statement to local officials.

Allen, he said, was killed the night before he was to have left Mississippi.

He said an intensive effort will be made to register Negro voters this year and that as a parallel movement, Negroes who wish to vote but can't register will be registered by the Negroes themselves.

"We expect to register at least 400,000 Mississippi Negroes who would like to vote," he said. "We want to show that at least 400,000 Negroes really want to vote so no one can say that the Negro is apathetic about voting. The issue is not apathy—the issue is fear."

He said the Negroes would have a "freedom election" in

Florida Braces For Invasion Of Collegiate Set

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The vanguard of 60,000 to 70,000 vacationing college students lolled on the beach here Friday and city authorities braced for the annual "spring invasion."

Planned entertainment, designed to keep the youngsters together and cut down on rowdiness, begins at 2 p.m. Saturday and will continue through April 4.

A band aboard a truck will roll up and down the beach, providing popular music, and there will be nightly programs at the municipal bandshell on the oceanfront.

the Whitten district and we will show that we have more people who want to vote for Fannie Hamer than can possibly vote for Whitten."

Then, he said, "we will contest Whitten's election here in Washington."

Moses contended Eastland had announced an investigation by his Senate Judiciary Committee into the make up of a Fifth Circuit federal court panel which had given decisions favorable to the Negroes. The makeup of the panel was changed, he said, and the investigation was dropped.

"This is an example of tampering with the judiciary," he said.

Business Club Officers Named

JONESVILLE (Special) — Randy Gurie has been elected president of the newly formed Block High School Business Club.

Others elected were Bonnie Bradford, vice president; Glen-da Davis, secretary; Rhetta Sensintaffar, treasurer; and Vicky Cox, reporter.

Selected as the name for the new club was "Block Business Leaders." Members hope to enroll the club as a chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America, possibly next year.

A total of 39 members enrolled in the new organization. Club sponsor is Mrs. Rosa Sensintaffar.

ABOUT BUYING CHINA!

When the bride selects her china it is a lifetime purchase, therefore it is an important decision — one that should be given a lot of thought. The pointers below will help you avoid false economies when making your selection.

- TEST THE TRANSLUCENCY . . . Hold it to the light. You should be able to see the outline of your hand through it.
- EXAMINE THE GLAZE . . . Be sure the glaze is smoothly applied throughout the entire plate. Let the light catch the plate so you can detect any unevenness.
- LOOK AT THE PATTERN . . . It should work out equally well on salad plate and on the cups and saucers, as well as on the dinner plate. How will food look on this plate? Will it compliment the pattern?
- EXAMINE THE TRIM CLOSELY . . . If it is well applied, the gold or platinum will have a rich, deep tone.
- CONSIDER THE SHAPE . . . The shape of the plate should be practical. A knife should rest easily on the edge. The handle on the cup should be comfortable to hold.
- DON'T LET PRICES CONFUSE . . . The most expensive is not necessarily the finest. Fine china need not be excessively expensive.

Come in and let our expert staff advise and counsel you on what every bride should know about selecting her china.

IMPROVEMENTS URGED

State Education Study Is Asked For Upgrading

By SAM HANNA
World Political Writer

BATON ROUGE — The State Board of Education was asked Saturday to tackle a program of upgrading education while cutting back on illiteracy to improve Louisiana's image.

Nash Roberts, a board member from New Orleans, offered three ideas for improvements, including a "study of excellence" in schools to determine where changes should be made.

He called on William J. Dodd, who succeeds Supt. Shelby M. Jackson in May, to retain a "national testing service to conduct a study at every grade level."

FAVORS TESTING

"We ought to have a state-wide testing grade-by-grade to determine the effectiveness of our teaching as well as our education program," Nash proposed.

Dodd, presently a board member, replied, "I don't know about having a national testing service to do a study, but I said in my speech to the Public Affairs Research Council on Thursday that one of my objectives is to measure our teaching and learning in our schools."

He added, "We should have some testing by some agency to determine the excellence and the progress as well. We also want to find out where the good work is being done."

Roberts noted that Louisiana spends almost $300 million annually on education. Comparing it with industry, he explained, "it's like turning out a product. You should know the excellence of your product."

Dodd replied, "We do need to know that the student is learning before he gets out of school. After he's out, it's too late."

Nash, taking the floor at the end of a two-day meeting that dwelled mostly on routine matters, said he thought the board could better its work by "considering programs to improve our education."

"We need to do something,"

Study On High School In City Is Likely Soon

BATON ROUGE — (Staff special) — Supt. Shelby M. Jackson may send a team from the Department of Education to Monroe this week for a study of a new southside high school, W. E. Whetstone said Saturday.

"I asked Mr. Jackson to send a team as quickly as possible and he assured me that he would," the fifth district board member explained. "Mr. Jackson said a team would be sent this week if possible."

Whetstone said Mack Avant, former superintendent of the Ouachita Parish system and now with the education department, may head up the survey.

The Monroe city school board asked for the study, according to law, after receiving petitions requesting the construction of a new high school on the southside of town.

During Saturday's state board meeting at the state capitol, Whetstone brought up the question of whether the state board had funds for adult education in cases where local boards refused to finance the program.

"We have a great demand in Monroe among the colored race for adult education," he explained. "If the local board refuses to finance the program, does the state board have funds for it?"

Jackson said the legislature had reduced funds for various programs in the education program, explaining, "our problem of illiteracy can be traced to a lack of money."

Board members also were advised that a 25-man superintendent's committee would present a new report on consolidation.

A 1958 report was submitted for background while it was noted that no steps had been taken to follow up on recommendations contained in the report.

The 25-man committee will meet here Wednesday to discuss a proposed change in the distribution formula. The change would represent a loss of revenue for 11 school systems in the fifth district.

When asked for his position on the proposed change, William J. Dodd, incoming superintendent, replied: "My position is what I've been saying all along. The only way I know to do on the formula is to be fair and equitable to everyone."

Holy Week Services To Begin Today

Twin Cities Area
Special Church
Observances Set

The long-ago triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem when the multitude strewed palm branches in His way, will be recalled in services today, Palm Sunday, at churches throughout the Twin Cities area, marking the beginning of Holy Week.

Some churches will hold special services during the week, recalling various phases of the great drama which lead to crucifixion and then resurrection of Christ. Next Sunday, Easter services and programs will climax the Holy Week observances.

SERVICES LISTED

Some of the services and programs announced by local churches for today include: St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 8 a.m., blessing and distribution of palms, holy eucharist; 10 a.m., shortened morning prayer, distribution of palms and procession, dialogue, reading of the Passion narratives and holy eucharist.

Edgewood Baptist Church, 7 p.m., Easter cantata, "Hallelu-

Cuba Extradition Request Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States rejected Saturday a Cuban request that two defectors who hijacked a military helicopter to Florida be returned against their will.

The only way Army Capt. Guillermo Santos and Andres Izaguirre, both 20, can be forced to go home is through extradition proceedings instituted by Cuba in American courts, a State Department spokesman said.

RETURN DUE

But the United States agreed to turn over to Cuban authorities Sergio Roque, a 17-year-old crewman who wants to go home, and the body of Capt. Jose Arcadio Garcia, the pilot killed in the hijacking.

Cuba pressed for the return of Santos and Izaguirre through the Czechoslovakian Embassy, which handles Cuban affairs in Washington in the absence of U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations.

Czech counselor Jaroslav Zantovsky presented to William Bowdler, deputy coordinator for Cuban affairs, a Cuban note charging the two defectors with desertion, kidnapping, treason and murder.

State Department legal authorities said the desertion and treason charges are political and not grounds for extradition. As for the kidnapping and murder charges, authorities said it would be up to a judge to decide if they are politically related.

Even though Washington and Havana have no diplomatic relations, the United States still has an extradition treaty with Cuba. Under it persons who have committed crimes can be extradited. But political crimes are excepted.

Santos and Izaguirre have said they seized the helicopter in Havana and that shooting started when Garcia refused to fly to the United States. Roque did not participate in the scuffle.

Soviets Knock U.S., Reds' Beds Squeak

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet delegation which recently visited the United States complained Saturday it was given so little food that delegation members lost weight drastically.

Also, some beds squeaked so loudly the Russians couldn't sleep. The complaints were aired in Molody Kommunist, an official publication of the Young Communist League.

Writing the article was Kuzma Severinov, a miner who said he and other Russians visited the United States last November and were farmed out to various American homes, including that of Marguerite Friedman of Boston, a language teacher at an unidentified institute.

Miss Friedman, Severinov reported, lived in a converted horse barn and began showing off the refrigerator, the deep

Promotions

Two Reserve Officer Training Corps Cadets at Louisiana Tech in Ruston have received promotions to Airman Second Class.

The two, Oliver Hollenshead and Terry H. Laurent, are both members of the 305th Air Force ROTC Cadet Wing, Laurent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Laurent, of Monroe, is majoring in electrical engineering while Hollenshead, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Hollenshead, is majoring in petroleum engineering.

Music Recital

Kathryn Trimble, a Monroe freshman at Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg, Va., will participate in a student music recital there Wednesday.

Miss Trimble, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William Bradley Trimble, Sr., 501 Erie Ave., will sing Falcorini's "O Bellissimi Capelli" and an old Irish tune.

Viet Nam Act To Cambodia Lifts Tension

Series Of Moves
Appears To Win
Prince Sihanouk

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — South Viet Nam carried out an unprecedented series of conciliatory moves Saturday to prevent a Vietnamese attack on a Cambodian border village from growing into a major crisis that could hurt its fight against communism.

Cambodia announced it would protest to the United Nations Security Council against what it called "brutal aggression" by the United States and South Viet Nam, but first indications were the conciliatory moves had won the liking of Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

GOODWILL MOVE

For the first time in the stormy nine-year relationship of the two countries South Viet Nam apologized for the attack, offered to make "full restitution" in the form of reparations and sent an emissary to the village in a goodwill gesture. The U. S. Embassy also expressed regrets.

Sihanouk was reported especially pleased by the action of Vietnamese Brig. Gen. Huynh Van Cao in flying to the hard-hit village of Chantrea to deliver his government's apology, turn over a symbolic sum of money and send incense sticks to the Buddhist temple to atone for his wrongs.

There were these immediate results: —Sihanouk was reported to have instructed the army and police to prevent any demonstration against the U.S. and British embassies as result of the Chantrea incident.

—The Cambodian Foreign Ministry assured the U. S. Embassy there would be no repetition of attacks such as the sacking of the embassy this month.

—Sihanouk issued an order opening the country to Western correspondents again.

—There were reports Sihanouk would not cancel the Vietnamese-Cambodian border talks originally scheduled for Saturday but would hold them on Monday.

Cao's visit to the village appeared to be the deciding factor in helping cool Sihanouk's wrath. Cao labeled the attack a "shameful mistake" and told how he walked through the ruins talking with villagers who had lost relatives.

Railroad Gets Order To Avert 4 Union Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad obtained a temporary restraining order in U.S. District Court on Saturday night to head off a threatened strike by four unions.

Judge Henry Brooks issued the order at the railroad's request and set a hearing for March 30. The unions had threatened to walk out at 10:30 p.m., in a dispute over work rules.

The L&N issued a statement saying it had not received direct notice of the unions' intention to strike but obtained the order on the basis of statements which union officials gave to newspapers and press associations.

The walkout would have affected about 5,000 employees belonging to the locomotive engineers, firemen and engine men, conductors and brakemen and railroad trainmen unions.

Libyans Refuse King's Quitting

CAIRO (AP) — The Libyan radio reported early today that King Idris of Libya abdicated and then withdrew his abdication when the Libyan people demonstrated against it.

The radio, monitored in Cairo, said thousands of people demonstrated before the king's summer palace at Tobruk urging the king to keep his throne.

It said the king emerged from the palace and in a short speech told the demonstrators he was staying.

Reds Return Hurt Flier; Others Kept

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP) — Lt. Harold W. Welch, one of three U.S. Air Force fliers shot down over East Germany, was reunited with his fellow countrymen here Saturday after being held by the Communists since March 10.

The other two fliers remained in Communist hands. Welch, 24, a native of Detroit, had been hurt in parachuting from the plane.

CROSS CHECKPOINT

A blue U.S. Air Force ambulance that brought him from a Soviet army hospital in the East German town of Magdeburg, rolled through the fog-shrouded Western checkpoint on the autobahn in Helmstedt, refueled and carried Welch to Hannover Airport. There an Air Force plane picked him up and took him to the U.S. Air Force hospital at Wiesbaden for treatment of a fractured leg and arm.

The fate and whereabouts of his two comrades, Capt. David I. Holland, Holland, Minn., and Capt. Melvin J. Kessler, Philadelphia, were unknown. They are believed to be uninjured.

Welch, a navigator on the plane, was accompanied in the ambulance by Col. John A. Hennessen Jr., chief of surgery at Wiesbaden Hospital, who had visited the injured pilot twice in Magdeburg and had twice requested his release from the Russians. Both requests were denied at the time they were made.

Newsmen were not permitted to speak with either Welch or Hennessen in Helmstedt.

Those who saw Welch transferred from the ambulance to the plane in Hannover said he was wrapped in blankets and strapped to a stretcher. His right arm was covered with a white plaster cast.

Warmer Trend

To Begin Today

Mild weather is forecast for the Twin Cities today, marred only by a few clouds.

Low temperatures recorded this morning will quickly warm up during the day to hit a high of 64 to 68. The warming trend will continue right on through Monday, accompanied with a few widely scattered showers.

Mild variable breezes of 5 to 15 mph will drift through during the day, to become southerly 8 to 18 mph tonight, with lows only dropping to 44 or 45. Monday's temperatures will hit the mid-70s.

The cold front that moved in from the east Saturday, plunged the temperatures to a low of 40 and the mercury only climbed to 58 Saturday.

UNION PARISH INDUSTRY

Bonds Are Voted For Major Plant

FARMERVILLE (Special) — Two bond issues involving $318,000 were overwhelmingly passed in Union Parish and Bernice Saturday in the first steps towards building a sleeping garment factory to be located at Bernice.

The parish passed a $218,000 bond issue for the construction of the building for the factory which would employ 500 persons with votes of 829 for and 140 against with all but one precinct having reported.

The second bond issue of $100,000, was passed by the city of Bernice to expand the city's water system to take care of the factory needs by a vote of 347 for and one against.

In the parish wide vote for the $218,000 bond issue, property assessments for the issue totaled $1,421,766 while only $246,766 represented the against votes. The one dissenting vote cast in Bernice for the expansion of the water system at a cost of a $100,000 bond issue had properly assessed at $810 while the votes cast for had property assessments running in excess of $500,000.

The garment factory to be built would provide a payroll of $25,000 a week and the building to be built with parish funds will be leased by a national concern for 20 years. The company will be called the Bernice Manufacturing Corporation.

Contracts have already been signed for the leasing of the building and the actual establishment of the factory hinged on the passage of the two bond issues, which will be paid for through mill taxes.

Dr. W. C. Reeves, president of the Bernice Industrial Development Corporation (BIDCO) said several months of negotiations preceded the signing of the contracts on the factory.

He pointed out that several towns in Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas were considered as many as 70,000 by Easter weekend.

Hall said he had seen "sweat-shirts from every university you can think of."

Most of the students arrested went along quietly, but "we had to chase a few," Hall said. Most of those booked were boys. "One out of 10 will be a girl," he added.

He estimated 10,000 students were concentrated in a four-block-long, one-block-wide area in the heart of the famed beach. Businessmen estimated that 30,000 students were concentrated along a 25-mile stretch of the beach.

Things were quieter at Fort Lauderdale, some 250 miles to the south and long the favorite spot of vacationing students, but officials believed their city's turn would come next weekend.

Hall said he believed there would be more than 20,000 vacationing students here by Monday. Other sources expected

U.S. Ready To Consider All Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson made a personal move Saturday to try to get talks with Panama back on the track.

Johnson walked unannounced into a routine briefing held by press secretary George A. Reedy and surprised reporters by reading a detailed statement of his attitude toward the Panama dispute.

Johnson said: "We are prepared to review every issue which now divides us, and every problem which the Panamanian government wishes to raise. We are prepared to do this at any time and any place."

'MOVING ROOM'

Although Johnson described the statement as a reaffirmation of U.S. policy, key phrases appeared to be sufficiently vague to leave ample room for maneuver in any settlement talks.

Initial Panamanian reaction was favorable. Miguel Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, said he would have to study the Johnson statement but commented, "It's what we have been working to since January."

Johnson said he was sending his statement to Juan Bautista de Laval, chairman of the council of the OAS who has been chosen to try to mediate the dispute. De Laval moved at once to set up a meeting with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

After reading his statement Johnson opened the floor to questions, launching what proved to be another impromptu news conference.

During the questioning, the President said that "obviously" restoration of formal diplomatic relations between the United States and Panama would have to precede any review of divisive problems.

The President had this to say in his statement about the machinery for such a review: "As soon as he is invited by the government of Panama, our ambassador will be on his way. We shall also designate a special representative. He will arrive with full authority to discuss every difficulty. He will be charged with the responsibility of seeking a solution which recognizes the fair claims of Panama and protects the interest of all the American nations in the canal."

Johnson said the instruction to be carried by a special representative would "not prohibit any solution which is fair and subject to the appropriate constitutional processes of both our governments."

The President emphasized that his statement repeated, referred to a "review" of problems that triggered bloody rioting in Panama nearly three months ago.

"I don't say discuss," he said, "because that is a stick word. Some of them do not quite understand what it means."

Last Sunday evening, an OAS committee announced that the United States and Panama had agreed to resume diplomatic relations, then "discuss and negotiate" common problems. The Johnson administration disavowed the OAS announcement which prompted some criticism of Johnson, notably in Latin America.

The President's latest statement on the knotty dispute obviously was designed to put new life into settlement talks in the wake of Sunday's fiasco.

On other questions raised by newsmen, Johnson said:

—He does not see any sign

POLICE FORCE DOUBLED

Florida City Awaits Students' Invasion

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An invasion by college students free for Easter vacation, variously estimated at 10,000 to 30,000 strong, and bent on a good time kept a double shift of police officers on the run Saturday.

Police Capt. W. C. Hall said, "I wish I was somewhere else."

He reported some 50 merry-makers booked Saturday, making a total of just over 200 so far. The charges included underage drinking, disorderly conduct, possession of alcoholic beverages by minors, "drinking on the streets and littering the beaches."

Hall said he believed there would be more than 20,000 vacationing students here by Monday. Other sources expected

SNOWSHOE EASTER BUNNY?

Cool Spring Puzzle To Northern Parts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's spring, so the calendar says. But the coy way the weather acted around the Northern Hemisphere when the sun crossed the equator Friday gave a lot of people grounds to wonder, if not to complain.

"Unless there is a fast improvement," said a plaintive Canadian Press dispatch from Canada to sunny New York, "conditions would seem to favor the snowshoe rabbit for most of the Easter Egg deliveries."

Ten inches of snow blanketed Canada's prairie provinces and the Maritimes had up to 13. Residents of a broad belt of the United States extending from the Texas Panhandle to Indiana, hit by snow deposited in some cases under blizzard conditions, could sympathize.

Millions dressed in their holiday best thronged cemeteries of Japan under overcast skies and intermittent rain to burn incense and offer flowers to their ancestors. Though plum and peach blossoms already have come and gone, the cherry blossoms that are regarded as the true harbingers of spring were still hibernating.

Younger Japanese crowded skiing and skating resorts in the mountains, where snow and ice were melting fast.

Europe had a hodgepodge of weather, mostly foul. Icebreakers still bucked in shore fields in the eastern Baltic.

The sun peeped intermittently through broken clouds over Britain and temperatures rose toward the mid-50s after days of snow, sleet and cold rain. But only optimists shed their topcoats. The London forecast: more rain.

The usually sunny Riviera was gray under heavy clouds.

Rain drizzled dimly on the violets and primroses peeping out of the woods and mountain slopes of northern Italy.

Bathers were out on some beaches in Sicily, which isn't unusual at this time of year, but there was skiing in the Sicilian mountains, which is unusual anytime. There was a heavy snowfall there Wednesday.

Spring in Paris was just that—a pleasant, 58-degree morning and afternoon showers. Midday strollers swarmed along the Champs Elysees, the grand boulevards and thoroughfares of the Latin Quarter.

Recent near-freezing temperatures had kept buds and flowers of Paris from fully developing, but fruit trees were blossoming in western Brittany and in the south.

Berlin and large parts of northern Germany registered snowfall, rain and frosty temperatures, but the mercury rose to 46 in Bavaria.

With slushy snow in the streets of Vienna and the temperature only slightly above freezing, Austrians figured their spring still was about 10 days away. They looked to a bulbous herb to tell them for sure.

"There is a simple rule," one said. "When the snowdrops blossom, spring has really arrived."

Polish peasant women sold primroses in the snow-covered streets of Warsaw. Spring and summer fashions were on display in shops of that Communist capital. A cold wind chilled window-shoppers.

Deadline Near On Restoring Of Checks By VA

F. E. Ragland, Ouachita Parish Veterans Association service officer, said Friday that suspended VA checks can be restored if income reports are filed by veterans and widows by April 15.

Ragland said the checks were suspended by the government because of the veterans and widows failure to file income reports which were required Jan. 31. However, he said the government mailed duplicate income cards on March 15 to all veterans and widows who have not made their income reports, and they have 30 days in which to return them.

He pointed out that those who fail to make their income reports by April 15 will be charged with an overpayment for all the checks they received in 1963.

Ragland said the income cards just mailed out are exactly the same as those received by pensioners in December. He said they are pre-punched and should not be folded, creased or mutilated in any way. Ragland added that anyone needing aid in filling these cards out should come by the VA office on the second floor of the Ouachita Parish courthouse building, Room 204, for his assistance. He stressed that these cards must be returned by April 15.

Tax Exemption Signings Urged

Ouachita Parish residents were warned again Friday by parish Tax Assessor Bert Coverdale that April 15 is the deadline for signing Homestead exemption application forms.

Coverdale said his office on the first floor of the parish courthouse will remain open at noon hours during the week and from 8 a.m. - 12 noon Saturdays so that homeowners who are working will have an opportunity to come by and sign their forms.

He urged homeowners not to wait until the last few days before deadline time to come by and sign the applications. The office will continue to be open during its regular hours of from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

for outstanding library progress at the Louisiana Library Association's Awards Dinner held Thursday night, at the Washington Youree Hotel in Shreveport.

STATE CONVENTION

Awards Presented To Area Libraries

The Ouachita Parish High School library has received a Modisette Award from the Louisiana Library Association for "outstanding progress."

Other Modisette Awards were presented to the Union Parish Public Library for "greatest improvement" and to Mrs. W. B. MacMillan of Vermillion Parish for outstanding contributions as a library trustee.

The recognitions were a highlight of the Louisiana Library Association's three-day convention which closes today in Shreveport.

An expanded program of public relations and group services was cited as the basis of the Parish library. The Ouachita Parish Public Library was runner-up in the same competition. Ouachita's high school library was recognized for its "varied program of library service."

Mrs. MacMillan received the trustee award for "dedicated service to the cause of libraries since 1924." She is a member of the Vermilion Parish Library Board, having held the posts of president and vice president since joining the organization in 1940. She has been an active member of the state library association since 1940.

In her presentation address at the Washington Youree Hotel, Allen Parish Library Board President Mrs. Weldon Lynch of Oakdale called the Ouachita Parish high school library the oldest in the parish, dating from 1909 when it had 250 volumes.

Now a suite of five rooms, the library contains shelving space for 15,000 books.

In remarks on the winning Union Parish library, Mrs. Lynch also lauded Mrs. Agnes Harris, head librarian, for the library's distribution of booklists, direct mail publicity and radio and television programs which increased the use of the facility. The Union Parish library was established in March of 1956.

Accepting the award, Mrs. Harris attributed it to "the work of a dedicated staff and board of trustees."

The three awards pay tribute to the late James Oliver Modisette who for 15 years served as chairman of the Louisiana Library Commission, now the Louisiana State Library, and for two terms as president of the Louisiana Library Association.

State Librarian Miss Sallie Farrell presided at the presentation dinner and Crowley City Judge Edmund M. Reggie reported on National Library Week activities.

More than 400 persons attended the program.

Flames Destroy Home, Damage Another House

One house was destroyed and another extensively damaged in a mid-day fire in West Monroe, according to the West Monroe fire department.

The blaze, which originated in the house of Ada Lee Benton, Negro, 102 Lee St., quickly spread to the adjoining house at 104 Lee, where Louie Lee Turner, also Negro, lived.

The Benton house was a total loss, fireman said, and the Turner house was badly burned. The cause of the fire was still undetermined late Friday night.

Three units from the department fought the blaze from 11:55 a.m. until after 1 p.m. No one was injured in the incident.

New Cargoliner Set For Launch

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP)—The 550-foot cargoliner SS Mormacvega will be launched Saturday.

The vessel is the second of six being built by Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton Industries for Moore-McCormack lines of New York.

The first, the SS Mormacargo, was launched in January and now is being outfitted at Ingalls.

The vessels, with a designed speed of 21 knots, are rated the fastest of their type in the world. They have electronic controls for speed, pumps and steam boilers.

The six ships are being built for Moore-McCormack under a contract totaling $62,850,000. They are being launched at intervals of two months.

Auschwitz Survivor Testifies

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — A nervously squirming survivor, whose body still bears the scars of Auschwitz, refused Friday to testify against the accused master torturer of the infamous Nazi death camp because he said the trial "is a shame on our country."

"I don't want to hurt Mr. Boger," Karl Seefeld told the court. "I must be just to an SS man."

Wilhelm Boger smirked in the prisoners' dock. The inventor of the "Boger swing" torture device did not grin, however, during the testimony of two other witnesses during Friday's session.

A judge asked Seefeld if he feared revenge from friends of Boger and the 21 other former Auschwitz officials on trial for taking part in the murders of up to 4 million persons in the Nazi camp during World War II.

"No, no," protested Seefeld, whose pre-trial testimony charged Boger with trampling and kicking him in the face. "This trial, it is a shame on our country."

Chief Justice Hans Hofmeyer impatiently read Seefeld's statement in which he described watching Boger batter to death an inmate's twin babies just to get their baby buggy to send home to Berlin.

"The woman leaned over her babies to protect them," the judge read.

Hofmeyer looked at Seefeld. "I, uh, remember the babies, but I don't know if Boger killed them," Seefeld said. "I just don't remember."

"If you saw something like that, you'd remember it all your life," the judge said. "Are you afraid of vengeance by the comrades of some of the accused? I notice you come from Stuttgart, the same place as Boger's family lives."

Seefeld shrugged nervously and replied:

"I refuse to testify. I have a good job now. I'm a cook and I just want to be left alone. My customers don't like this trial. They say it should have been staged much earlier..."

3 Negro Youths Fined For Theft In City Court

Three Negro teenagers were fined $350 or seven months in jail for theft in Monroe City Court action Friday. Judge W. M. Harper was presiding.

They were John Ross, 18, 3017 Polk St.; Wyatt Wilson, 17, 1510 Texas Ave.; and Willie O. Moore, 18, 120 S. 11th St.

In other action, Bobby Garrett, P. O. Box 4192, was fined $30 or 30 days for theft by check.

Six cases involving traffic violations were also handled.

Fined $10 or 10 days for reckless driving was Clifton Hall, 30, 606 Vidalia St. Leonard Taylor, 32, Apt. 6-D, Foster Homes, for feited a $30 bond on a similar count, and reckless driving charges against Bernice Girault, 59, 2905 Myrtle St., were discharged.

Forfeited $10 speeding bonds were Leonard Kaye, 25, 102 Wil-low St.; Richard Miles, 26, 414 N. 24th St.; and Narcissis Ware, 46, 408 Benson St.

Several other minor cases were also processed.

Wife Pays Fine For Being Beaten

MOSCOW (AP)—A court in the Gorky District recently fined a Soviet husband 20 rubles —$22.20— for beating his wife. Then authorities forced the wife to pay the fine, since her husband was broke and out of work.

The case was spotlighted Friday night by the government newspaper Izvestia, in making its point that petty offenders be given tougher treatment.

LAST SILVER DOLLARS?

Coin Seekers Line Halls Of Treasury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The staid corridors of the U.S. Treasury took on the feverish atmosphere of a bargain basement Friday as hundreds of purchasers lined up to buy silver dollars that may well become collectors' items.

Men, women and children carrying sacks and equipped with wagons flocked to the Treasury premises where bankers usually tread.

They were drawn there by the prospect that the government may be dispensing the last store of silver dollars to be minted and has just put on sale a sealed vault of relatively scarce "Morgan dollars" that have been evaluated by some coin experts at $2.

The "silver rush" has been quietly gathering steam in recent days and was given further impetus Friday by the refusal of the House Appropriations Committee to allow the coining of any more silver dollars.

It was estimated that about 150 purchasers were in line when the Treasury's coin office opened for an hour at 9 a.m. EST. For the hour-long afternoon exchange at 2 p.m. EST, probably another 125 were on hand.

"It's the biggest thing since the California Gold Rush of '49," one Treasury official said.

The department, because of the sudden rush, imposed a limit of $50,000 for each single purchase. Most sales are made in $1,000 lots which total up to a 60-pound load for a purchaser.

One customer Friday piled a red wagon with a dozen bags and laded the back of his car until the springs sagged.

Officials said the object of all the excitement was a relatively scarce "Morgan" silver dollar minted between 1878 and 1904 and named after its designer.

Although Morgans normally retail for $2 apiece, dealers in the crowd said they would hold onto theirs in hopes the price would go higher later.

They did not rule out the chance of finding a rare coin which could bring as much as $2,000.

In recent years, the only kind of silver dollar the Treasury sold was the "peace dollar," which was struck following the first World War to commemorate the armistice.

Since as many as 84 million peace dollars were run off in a single year, they are not considered a collector's item.

But on March 11, the Treasury opened some vaults that had been sealed since 1935 — the last year when silver dollars were produced — and found them full of Morgan dollars.

When the Morgans were discovered, the Treasury had about 18 million silver dollars left in its vaults. The number now is down to 13 million, officials estimated, and if the House committee's decision sticks, the supply could dwindle even further.

A housewife from Washington Court House, Ohio, said she was in town visiting relatives and happened to be touring the Treasury when she saw the line.

"I don't want to corner the market," she said. "All I want is a couple of rolls of twenty."

A dealer from Philadelphia said he had $24,000 to buy 24 bags.

Another dealer, who described himself as "one of the biggest in the country," said he had been commuting to Washington and buying five bags every day since March 11.

Officials said there were eight vaults still to be opened. They did not know whether these would contain Morgan dollars or some other, less valuable kind.

Three Registrars Are Questioned

HARRISONBURG (Special)—Three more Northeast Louisiana vote registrars have been questioned by the Justice Department on registration procedures. They are Douglas Stockman of Catahoula, J. P. House of Concordia and Charles H. Crane of Winn Parish.

They were questioned by federal investigator Louis Kauder of the Civil Rights Division here Wednesday.

Louisiana Solon To Propose Bill Against Beating

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A bill to protect children from savage beatings by parents or guardians will be introduced at the next Louisiana legislature.

State Rep. John G. Schwegmann of Jefferson Parish said he was drawing up a bill based on a California model law which has been adopted by 11 other states.

The phenomenon of a mother or a father inflicting vicious injuries on their offspring is known as the "battered child syndrome" and is more common than you think.

Dr. H. B. Rothschild, chief of the pediatrics department at Touro Infirmary here, said child battering seems to be on the increase.

The proposed law would have physicians report to police in medical cases which they suspect might be child battering—just as they now must report gunshot wounds to police.

"There are a number of physicians who usually don't want to get involved in these cases for fear that they may be sued," said Schwegmann. "Under this bill they would be forced to report it and at the same time would be free of any liability."

Rep. Schwegmann said there

Patman Deplores Loss Of Tax Source

WASHINGTON (AP)—The estate of Alfred I. du Pont, which will soon "slip away forever from the payment of any income taxes" by reverting to a foundation, a congressional report said Saturday.

"Once again, the 'cream' from one of our nation's great fortunes will go completely tax-free," the report said. "Once again, the 'skim milk' incomes of the hard-working majority of the American people will be forced to bear a still heavier share of the total tax burden."

The report of a House Small Business subcommittee, headed by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., focused on the Nemours Foundation, ultimate beneficiary of the estate of Alfred I. du Pont, which was worth more than $292 million by the end of 1962.

Patman called it "a gigantic loophole in our tax laws urgently needing reform."

The Delaware-based du Pont fortune, the report said, "has been used to build up an extraordinary economic empire controlling wide banking, industrial, railroad and real estate interests. These interests center in the State of Florida, but they also spread into many states."

The estate's principal beneficiary is the Jessie Ball du Pont, 89, widow of Alfred I. du Pont who died in 1935. In the 12 years 1951 through 1962, Mrs. du Pont drew more than $58 million in taxable income from the estate, including $6.6 million in 1962.

When Mrs. du Pont dies, "the taxable income now paid for her will end," the report said. "Instead, that major part of the estate's disbursements will then go to the tax-exempt Nemours Foundation, which of course does not pay any income tax."

The foundation's principal mission is to maintain a family mansion called Nemours in Delaware and its grounds and gardens, including a "classic temple of love" for the pleasure and benefit of the public.

Mrs. du Pont's brother, Edward Ball, is a trustee of the estate, which controls among other things the Florida East Coast Railway.

As chairman of the railroad, Ball has fought a bitter 13-month battle with 11 railroad unions. The dispute has been marked by violence, including several dynamitings of trains.

Other major assets include the St. Joe Paper Co. of Jacksonville, Fla., which has plants in many other states and controls one million acres of woodland in Florida and Georgia. It also controls the Apalachicola Northern Railroad.

MYSTERIES UNVEILED

More Spy Secrets

SPY MYSTERIES UNVEILED. By Col. Vernon Hinchey. Dodd, Mead. $3.95.

In an era when every other veteran of wartime spying seems to have a compulsion to tell all in print, it would be inevitable for one of the brotherhood to write a book not on just what went on behind scenes, but behind the hindmost scenes.

This now has been done by an Englishman whose qualifications as an insider are not spelled out on the book's dust jacket, but who mentions casually in the text that he was a member of the British Secret Service and that "I think I can claim in all modesty to know as much about spies and counterespies as the next man."

If the long and obviously fictional conversations that he inserts to coliven his narrative do not keep you from accepting his authority at face value, you may be astounded by such revelations as these:

That Gary Powers was shot down over Russia because an undercover agent tampered with his altimeter, with the result that his U-2 plane did not reach the altitude he supposed it did.

That Dr. Richard Sorge, the German who probably saved Russia during World War II by his spectacular espionage in Japan, actually survived supposed execution long enough at least to murder the Japanese girl who betrayed him.

That A. K. Graves, a German spy, was brainwashed by the British before World War I and induced to steal Germany's code; one of many results was that Britain intercepted the Zimmerman note that helped draw America into the war.

That the Germans lost the crucial battle of the Marne in World War I because they believed a story that the British permitted credulous spy to relay, the Russians had landed in England to make a cross-channel attack on the Imperial armies invading France.

Triangle Of Hate Is Set In Malaya

The Ordeal of Major Grishby. By John Sherlock. Morrow. $4.50.

There is a starkly bitter quality about Sherlock's novel. It gives fictional life to a situation which arose in Malaya in 1948 and in that respect it is a slashing indictment of British colonialism and some of its backward-looking administrators.

As a literary drama, it presents a triangle of hate, told with vivid force.

After suffering humiliating defeat at the hands of the Japanese during the war, the British in Malaya found themselves struggling against the crippling raids of Chinese Communist jungle fighters. London's answer was a masterpiece of impractical theory — a massive, blundering campaign to corral the Malaysians in "resettlement" camps and "indoctrinate" them against Red propaganda.

In Sherlock's tale the man charged with carrying out this program was General Burke White, who had learned to hate all Orientals in a Japanese prison camp; an insensitive, stiff-necked disciplinarian who saw no reason to open his eyes to truth and reality.

At the same time London had given a secret commission to a middle-aged, retired and malaria-ridden major named Harry Grishby, who had been a brilliant guerrilla leader against the Japanese. Working independently, he was to seek out and destroy Chen Tak, a young Chinese whom he had tutored when the British were using Communists in the jungle war.

Grishby's ordeal, made more horrible by Burke White's double-crossing tactics, is a tragic story of a man trying to recapture the rugged valor of his wartime days. Burke-White is destroyed by his own hate. Chen Tak, who had sacrificed his personal life to the Red cause, no longer believes in his mission. So all three men are losers in the end.

The story is not a pretty one. It is filled with brutal scenes of torture, jungle fighting and harsh internal struggles.

Retired Hooper Battles

I Was Dancing. By Edwin O'Connor. Atlantic-Little Brown. $4.75.

O'Connor's short novel uses a backdrop of droll comedy to tell a story with heavy pathos. It concludes with a master scene of psychological drama.

The framework of the narrative is a climactic day in the lives of Waltzing Daniel Considine, 78, and his son Tom, 44. Dan had wandered the whole world as a vaudeville hooper, rarely coming home, but he had sent back money for Tom's education, clear through law school.

One autumn midnight, a year earlier, old Dan had appeared at his son's door, unannounced, with his little belongings, to stay a few days. It had been 20 years since Tom had seen his father, and then only briefly at the time Tom's mother had died. Tom's wife never had seen the old man. At first the gabby old boy's talk about his travels had seemed interesting.

But in a year's time, Dan's presence, his odd quirks of habit and his obtrusiveness had given Tom and his wife the jitters. Their privacy had been shattered. One month before this particular day, Tom had told his father gently that he would have to go to a rest home, at Tom's expense, a rest home called Happy Valley, where Dan's crabbed and whining sister Delia already was ensconced.

So on this final deadline day, old Dan had plotted ways and means of clinging to his son's guest room. He was visited by oddball friends, comes all. Billy Ryan, a cliche-spouting old quack who pretended to be a doctor. Father Feeley, a women-hating, sardonic priest. And Al Gottlieb, a lugubrious old tragedy-lover who had been Dan's sycophantic fan for many years.

This story is more than comedy, more than a compassionate look at the problems of retirement. It has sharp, dramatic conflict in the final scene, when old Dan uses every trick he can summon in confrontation with Tom.

Bishop Left JFK Book In Present Tense

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF PRESIDENT KENNEDY. By Jim Bishop. Random. $3.95.

Bishop had just completed the manuscript of this book when President Kennedy was assassinated.

The author had used his well-known "The Day..." technique. He says in a prologue that he wrote the account in the present tense in order to give the reader a feeling of being present in the White House. And after Kennedy's death he decided to let the manuscript stand just as it was.

The chronology begins at 7 a. m. and runs well past 11 p. m. In order to get the feel of one representative day, Bishop spent four consecutive days in research last October, with his wife helping him to take notes. Bishop had access to the private quarters of the White House.

There is a two-fold result from the author's procedure of piling hundreds of details into a flowing pattern. One is that he achieves a sense of intimacy through the little personal touches on family life, the small incidents and conversations involving Mrs. Kennedy, Caroline and John.

The other is that he gives the reader a close look at the step by step, operating techniques of the household staff and the President's official staff — the latter including Kenneth O'Donnell, the appointments secretary; McGeorge Bundy, the assistant for foreign affairs; Theodore Sorensen, the speech writer and advisor; Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, the private secretary; Pierre Salinger, the press secretary; and David Powers, the Boston Irishman who became the President's crony.

Bishop has written a frankly admiring portrait of the President and his family. He has not hesitated to give his personal reactions to what he observed. It is a picture that goes beyond black and white into color, and is all the better for that.

that the resignation of his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, indicates that associates of the late President John F. Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy are anxious to leave the Johnson administration.

—The President "was not disturbed" by Salinger's resignation Thursday to seek the Democratic Senate nomination in California, Johnson said Salinger told him about his plans barely two hours before announcing them.

Johnson talked to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara on Saturday morning about the hijacking of a Cuban helicopter flown to Florida after two defecting Cubans killed the pilot. He declined to comment on the matter.

—Comment also was withheld on a Soviet decision to release an injured Air Force officer — one of three seized after their reconnaissance bomber was shot down inside East Germany.

State Education Study Is Asked For Upgrading

taken in 1970 we ought to try to elevate the standard of our people," Roberts stated. "We may be able to develop our own program of testing. It may be possible some of our illiterates are unjustifiably rated as such. We need to lift these people." Jackson said he didn't have the figures on the state's illiteracy at hand, but noted that the state had made "great progress" in improving the illiteracy rate during the past several years.

"It's not as bad as they say," Jackson said.

Later, during another discussion, he said the illiteracy problem could be traced to a "lack of funds."

Roberts also contended that the board should give consideration to changing the present distribution formula that determines the amount of state revenue allocated to each parish for education.

"I don't want to get into that now, but we need to make a change," he said. "It needs revising."

A 25-man committee of superintendents is scheduled to meet in Baton Rouge on Wednesday to consider a change proposed by Orleans Parish school officials.

Under the proposed change 11 school systems in the fifth district would lose revenue.

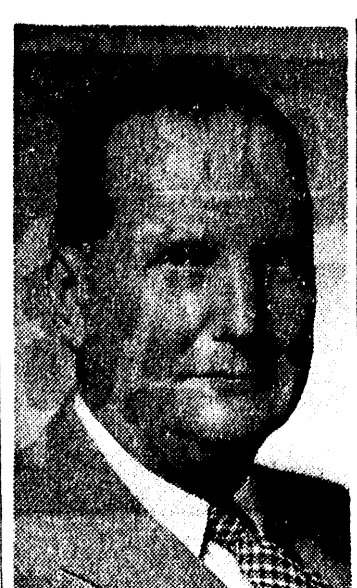

Roberts, commenting on his suggestion for a state-wide survey of the schools, advocated that the board should "take steps to make changes in its approach to education."

"We are putting a lot of money into education," he said. "I'm not saying that we don't need more, but we have little or no quality control over education."

The board adjourned shortly before noon after voting to hold its next meeting, April 17-18 at Hodges Garden.

Running the Scales

By JOHN CALE

The final week of the Lenten season provides us a break in critical coverage, long enough maybe for a little aesthetic meditation.

How does the critic's bug ever bite anyone? We remember the day it happened. Our high school choir had performed for morning assembly back in the early days of the public school music program, and a friend remarked, truthfully perhaps, "It stank."

"Why?" asked this pursuer of the baritone line, thus accused of a smelly performance. The friend was certain he was right, but he didn't answer the question. Thus a music analyst was born and a better critic sought a more practical outlet in chemical engineering. It has been a merry chase trying to find the answer to the big "Why?" however. It's just as big a riddle trying to tell why something is good sometimes.

SYMPHONY

The Dallas Symphony, after a first rate reading of Dvorak and Brahms here last year, returns Tuesday, March 31, for a return engagement on the Northeast Concerts series.

Pianist LeRoy Anspach will appear as guest soloist to perform the "Concerto No. 1 in E Flat" by Franz Liszt with the Dallas organization. Anspach is a resident of Monroe and is music director at St. Paul's Methodist Church.

He is a native of Philadelphia who came South during World War II and married a Monroian, the former Eloise Temple, while stationed at Selman Field. He has performed with the New York Philharmonic, the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh symphonies and the Robin Hood Dell orchestra. He has also played three recitals in New York's Town Hall.

Anspach's playing of the Liszt concerto will follow the opening Overture to Weber's "Euryanthe" on the Dallas orchestra's program here. Following the intermission, conductor Donald Johanson will lead the orchestra in the "Symphony No. 4 in F Minor," by Tchaikowsky.

LOCAL
Of special interest will be the Holy Week musical at the Mer Rouge First Methodist Church featuring Dawn Taylor Gandy, Monroe soprano, and William Huckabay, organist of Mer Rouge. The program is slated for Tuesday and will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Huckabay, a graduate of LSU, Florida State University and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, will open the program with five lenten preludes and the "St. Anne's Fugue," by J. S. Bach. Other organ works will include the "Prelude, Fugue and Variations," and the "Prelude, Fugue and Variations," by Cesar Franck. There will also be organ works by the French composers Messiaen and Alan.

The soprano soloist will be featured in the cantata, "The Way to Emmaus," by Jaromir Weinberg.

WINNER
Rex Morris, pianist, and a junior at Rayville High School was chosen one of five top performers at the New Orleans Philharmonic

Society auditions last week. He is a student of R. Frank Parker and the son of Mrs. Gloria Cobb Morris. Young Morris will be piano soloist with the Monroe Youth Symphony in an early May concert for the performance of the "Concerto in E Flat K. 271," by Mozart.

Three members of the La. Tech faculty — Alfred Tellinghausen, tenor; Elizabeth Martin, cellist, and Helen Tucker Woodbridge, pianist — will present an Easter program at 3 p. m. today in the Little Theatre of Howard Auditorium on the Tech campus. Selections will include Bach's "Cantata No. 160 for the First Easter Feast Day," and a cycle of six songs for tenor voice by Ralph Vaughan Williams; the "Sonata in G Major for Cello" by Sammartini, and the "Sonata in D Minor for Cello and Piano" by Shostakovich.

Monroe City Schools

As Education takes on new dimensions in our world today, I feel a need and a responsibility to serve in the capacity of a school board member for the City of Monroe. With thirty-five years experience in the classified field of finances, I feel that I am competent to serve the City School Board in an efficient and business manner. I have a deep personal pride and interest in the schools of our city, and I pledge to you that, when elected, I will strive to build better schools for our youth, since the youth of today will be our citizens of tomorrow. I sincerely believe that our young people of today are the greatest natural resource that our nation has, and I believe that their education must be of the finest quality.

My only purpose in seeking a position on the city School Board is to give the citizens of Monroe my best efforts in advancing the cause of education in our city. I believe the School Board should face the problem of school financing with an intelligent view and I feel that my experience in the field of finances can be a valuable asset in this area. I feel that I am qualified to hold the position which I seek, and I pledge that I will strive to give the citizens of our city a full return for each and every dollar spent on education.

In order to meet the ever-increasing demand for additional facilities, I believe that we must initiate, as soon as possible, a wide long-range planning program. This program should have the co-operation of the teachers and parents, as well as the members of the school board. Such a planning program could possibly eliminate the necessity of additional bond issues to provide new school buildings.

I believe in a close relationship between the educational system and the community. The people who pay the taxes should be kept informed on the different phases of educational problems.

I strongly believe that a person who serves as a school board member should be thoroughly familiar with school financing, school curriculums, existing physical facilities, school personnel and school policy. I also strongly believe that a school board member should be convinced that the child is the most important factor in the school system.

If you, the citizens of Monroe, elect me as one of your five school board members, you can be assured that I will conscientiously devote as much time as necessary to my duties as a school board member. I solicit your vote and support on behalf of my candidacy for school board member for the city of Monroe. You may be assured that A. T. White will strive to serve you to the very best of his ability.

Program Given For Faster Mail By Postmaster

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced a six-part program Saturday to reduce delays and help eliminate damage in mail delivery. He pointed out that the cost of rewrapping damaged parcels now is running about $2 million to $3 million per year, and most complaints received by the Post Office concern delays in local delivery. But he said his new program does not represent any crisis. "With about 70 billion pieces of mail — some of it undergoing about a dozen handling steps — we would be fantastically infallible if we didn't have some delays," he said. "The delays involve only a very slight fraction of one percent of our mail and the overall performance of our employees is remarkably good," he added.

India Tinderbox Exploding

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The tinderbox that is India is exploding with bloody fury in a dozen places. Great trouble may be ahead.

Bitter religious strife that could ignite wholesale massacre has broken out in widespread areas. Border fighting with Pakistan is heating up, increasing the danger of war.

In the past week, Hindu and Moslem mobs have fought in the central and eastern sections of the country. Nobody knows the actual death toll, but at least 89 persons were killed and hundreds injured.

The central government, which has not had firm effective leadership since Prime Minister Nehru suffered a stroke Jan. 7, ordered regular army units in to try to stop the communal fighting from spreading.

But it is centuries-old hatred that sets the Hindu majority on the Moslem minority in India and more rioting — with retaliatory killing of Hindus in neighboring Moslem Pakistan — seems almost certain.

On the Pakistan frontier in the east, hundreds of refugees have crossed in both directions to escape the gathering storm. More than 150,000 Hindus, Christians and Buddhists have fled into India in recent weeks.

Also Has Unusual Talents

Jay Michele, professional magician, mentalist, escape artist, and comedian, is now available for appearances at clubs, banquets, or private parties and teas. For the past fourteen years, Jay has been active in the entertainment field and his appeared at many of the nation's top night-clubs.

Recently after hypnosis became an everyday topic, Jay and his wife Renee, developed an act wherein they attempted to read the audiences minds, and discovered they were correct over 90% of the time. It was after this that they also decided to inject a bit of hypnosis in the show for fun and also to prove that there really is something to the art of mindreading.

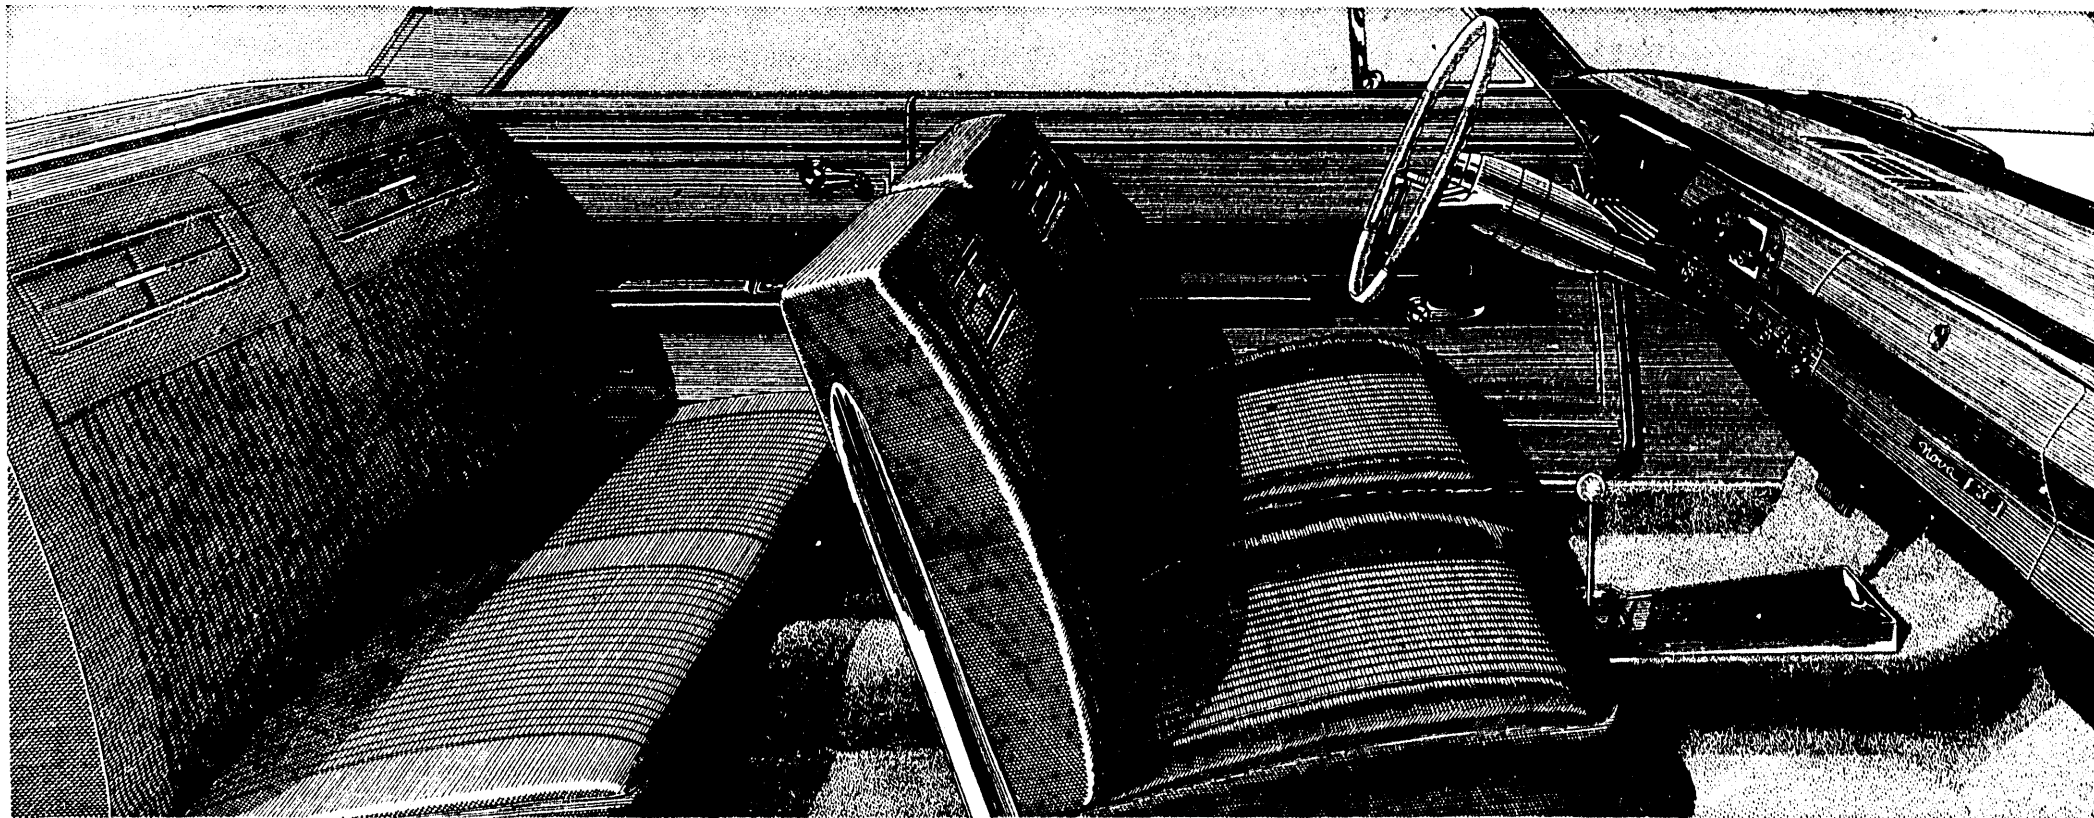

Jay is known throughout the Northern and Midwestern states as "The Modern Day Houdini" and has proven to thousands that he has all the talent and more than Houdini himself had. Jay has released himself from straight jackets while suspended from helicopters, and has escaped from trunks, safes and coffins.

Jay and Renee Michele reside in West Monroe and welcome any telephone calls concerning their abilities. If you have a special event occurring in the near future, and would like unusually good entertainment, dial 387-1186.

'64 Chevy II Super Sport with V8 power

...and just the place to enjoy it

Chevy II Nova Super Sport with Bucket Seats

Find out for yourself what this Chevy II can really do. If there are hills nearby, let it give them a good going-over. Then see how quickly it gives slow-moving trucks the run-around. With its new extra-cost V8 all you ever have to do is give the accelerator an inch, and this Chevy II Super Sport Coupe will take a mile.

And this great highway performer looks the part it plays so well. A glance at its all-vinyl interior will tell you that. Those inviting-bucket seats are made of ultra-soft foam cushioning. The door-to-door carpeting is so thick you can feel it through your shoes. There's your choice of either the floor-mounted Powerglide or Four-Speed Synchro-Mesh transmission. Both are optional at extra cost, along with a Positraction rear axle, simulated wire wheel covers, AM-FM radio and a host of other accessories.

And for all its new power, Chevy II rides so softly it seems to glide along the highway. That's because it has high-mounted independent coil springs in the front and Mono-Plate single-leaf springs in the rear. Its unitized well-insulated Body by Fisher shuts vibrations out and keeps road noise down to a whisper.

With everything Chevy II Super Sport has going for it, it's no surprise your Chevrolet dealer is anxious to show you its price tag. Because that's the only thing about it that isn't super.

Former Local Pastor, Wife To Mission Field

A native of the Twin Cities, Rev. James H. Green, and his wife, recently were appointed missionaries to Mexico by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board meeting in Richmond, Va.

Rev. Green is the son of R. T. Green, 117 Halsell Drive, West Monroe. Before his appointment he had served for two years as pastor of Happy Hour Baptist Church, Lufkin, Texas. Previous pastorates include the Cypress Baptist Church near West Monroe and Oenaville, Texas, Baptist Church.

He is a veteran of Navy service, and while stationed in Japan assisted Christian nationals in evangelistic work.

After leaving the Navy he attended Northeast State College here, and later attended Baylor University, Waco, Texas, where he received a bachelor of arts degree. He graduated from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, with a bachelor of divinity degree.

He is married to the former Barbara Hanscom, a native of Chicago, Ill. They have three children.

A NEW KIND of giant computer, the 465-L, is being installed at Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Omaha, Neb., where electronic thinking machines play a varied and increasingly important role. The 465-L, in addition to digesting information and supplying quick answers to the most complex

AT COMMAND STATION

Behind Each Blastoff
Is Whirl Of Computers

By BILL W. DEAN
STRATEGIC AIR COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Omaha, Neb. (AP) — Behind every thundering blastoff is the soft whirl of computers.

Without them there would be no missile age.

"Who could have done it in longhand?" asks Lt. Col. H. T. Grusin, with a grin. Col. Grusin is one of the human links between computers and U.S. military missiles.

Computers do far more than missilemen's mathematics. They brief generals and pay privates, plot trajectories and guide jet pilots, warn of attack and play war games. Their uses — and their numbers — increase almost daily.

"In 1951," Maj. Gen. C. H. Terhune Jr. reported recently, "there was one digital computer in use within the federal government. At the opening of business last July 1 there were 800 in use within the Defense Department alone."

"It has been estimated that by 1970, the federal government's annual electronic data processing bill for equipment alone will exceed $2 billion," said Terhune, commander of the electronic system division of the Air Force Systems Command at L. G. Hanscom Field, Mass.

"We are on the verge of a revolution in electronic data processing that may influence the course of the civilization in the 20th century as profoundly as the industrial revolution affected it in the 19th," says Maj. Gen. Keith K. Compton, Strategic Air Command chief of staff.

It takes a human crew three to six hours to lay out the flight plan for a jet bomber mission. A computer can do it in half a second.

A computer makes light work of plotting a missile trajectory and that may include 8 million computations.

In SAC's intelligence section, where Col. Grusin does his business with computers, an electronic complex called "finder" can handle 100,000 observations of events.

In what is perhaps this nation's most awesome piece of military paperwork, the single integrated operation plan — SIOP — computers play a prime role.

head, target-by-target blueprint for nuclear war drafted and continually updated here at SAC headquarters by a team of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force specialists. It provides battle orders for Navy Polaris submarines and SAC planes and missiles alike, as well as every other U.S. on-target delivery system for nuclear weapons.

During fiscal 1963, the Defense Department spent $447 million on automatic data processing. More than one-third — $179 million — was spent by the Air Force. A government inventory shows the Strategic Air Command has 120 computers, 19 of them at SAC headquarters.

One of the fabulous things about a computer is its memory, an attribute that makes it particularly valuable to military intelligence. No end of facts can be stored on spools of magnetic tape.

Union Theater
Curtain Raised

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The curtain has risen on the new LSU Union Theater, providing the university community and the Baton Rouge area with an unusual multi-purpose theater.

Part of the new $5.5 million dollar LSU Union complex which opened earlier this year, the theater will complement the LSU University Theater's cultural offerings by bringing professional stage productions, artistic and musicals to the city.

Director of the new Union Theater is James Wockenfuss, formerly theater manager at the University of Wisconsin. Describing the Union Theater as "possibly the best equipped theater in the Southeast," Wockenfuss said that among university campuses, "there are very few that have a theater of this scope."

Gov. Wallace's Presidential Bid Turns Light On Demos

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The first northern campaign of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in what he terms a serious bid for the presidency is turning the national political spotlight on an all-Democratic conflict in state GOP leaders who wanted Wisconsin's preference primary to prevent a showdown between supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. The competition is on the Democratic side of the ballot just as it was in 1960 when Sen. John F. Kennedy battled Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of neighboring Minnesota.

Arms Buildup Pushes Viet Nam War Into Unmatched Phase Of Brutality

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Viet Nam's war against Communist insurgency has entered a phase of violence and brutality unmatched at any previous stage.

"The hate is building up on both sides. There are many more scores to settle now," one long-time observer noted as reports flowed into Saigon of Communist Viet Cong butchery and of the killing of civilians by government air attacks.

Violence has been part of Vietnamese life for 20 years. It is being compounded now as both the Viet Cong and Saigon government build up their arms and equipment.

The Viet Cong are supplementing their supplies, clandestinely brought in across the Cambodian and Laotian borders, by raids on lonely government outposts and small convoys.

The United States aid commitment to South Viet Nam is more than replacing the weapons and ammunition lost to the Viet Cong.

Included in American military aid is napalm, liquid petroleum jelly that explodes across villages in a rush of fiery death.

A newer weapon here is a phosphorus explosive fired from artillery and also from fighter bombers. This erupts in a white cloud, burning through everything it touches.

With explosives such as these, civilians are bound to be hurt. Both Americans and Vietnamese argue that they have no choice but to use them.

The spectacle of children lying half alive with napalm burns across their bodies was revolting to both Vietnamese and Americans entering a village on the Cambodian border after it had been under air attack by government planes Thursday.

The Viet Cong guerrillas retreating into this village had made it a target for government planes. Several Viet Cong were killed.

That innocent children died in this raid, and the prospect that many more may be killed as the tempo of actions continues to rise are sobering facts to the Americans here.

"The moral dilemma we face here is what we faced in Korea and every other war we fought in," one American officer said. "We don't want to see the civilians killed and yet they are killed because that is a horrible byproduct of war."

Such a byproduct came after 300 Viet Cong entered the village complex of Ben Cau in Tay Ninh Province several weeks ago and held the population hostage. The military decided to direct artillery fire on the village, virtually razing it and taking scores of civilian casualties.

But the Viet Cong force was decimated and this was the object of attack.

In government operations the civilian casualties are byproducts, but the Communist guerrillas terrorize civilians as a method of fighting war. They will burn a village to the ground rather than let people side with the government.

Harshness of the present stage of war is seen in treatment meted out to prisoners. Paramilitary corpsmen taken prisoner by the Viet Cong a few weeks ago were found slaughtered a few days later.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Can someone tell me how to iron a big tablecloth?
When I finish one I find I have many wrinkles in it from just moving it on the ironing board.

Gus

DEAR GUS:
If you have an old kitchen table, spread a few blankets on top of it and cover it with a sheet. Iron your tablecloth on this.
If your kitchen table is too good to use as an "ironing board," put a quilt or blanket on the floor, and place a sheet on top of it and iron on the floor!

You can swing the iron in great big circles instead of little ones. It will always be flat, too, because the floor is flat.

This method also is good for ironing curtains, sheets, etc.

For those of you who have three or four sheets to iron every week, stack one on top of the other. All the sheets get ironed at the same time. By golly, it's terrific.

Many people all their skills with water, let them boil a while after cooking meat, etc., then scrub them with a brush, and pour the water down the sink.

Here's a word of caution:

Take a piece of newspaper, lay it in the bottom of your sink and then pour the residue down the drain!

The newspaper will catch most of the grease and silt most of the oily residue out of the soiled water, but the water itself will go down the drain, thus avoiding many stopped-up drain pipes.

After the water drains from the sink, pick up the soiled newspaper and toss it in the garbage.

Ted Black

If you doubt it, try it! I wet a single sheet of newspaper before pouring the residue down. I was amazed!

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME By JIMMY HATLO

RAIL DRAMA

On some occasions when oldtimers gather to talk, dramatic events long shrouded in the dim shadows of the past are recalled.

This was the case recently, when two long-time residents of Olla, L. H. Taylor, and Lee C. Russell, got to talking about early-day railroading and an engineer they idolized, who along with four other persons met an untimely death in "The Tragedy at Kansas City Cut."

To substantiate their recollections, they talked with early day residents who remembered the train wreck in that area in the summer of 1917. They checked through old records and accounts and gathered photographs to provide a clearer report on the tragedy.

RESEARCH COMPLETED

With this research completed, Taylor pieced the information together in collaboration with Russell, and produced the following account giving the setting for the drama and the events leading up to the wreck:

"We were in the midst of a war with Germany in 1917 and President Wilson had issued his famous 'work or fight' order and called upon Americans for their support and all-out production, whether it be from their fields or factories.

"The lumber company at Urania with the entire population of the town responded to the plea of the president and their daily production of lumber was being pushed to capacity. New records of productivity were being rolled up daily, but their output depended upon the Natchez, Urania and Ruston Railway, as 95 per cent of the logs processed were delivered mill-side by it.

TEAMWORK

"Teamwork in the efficiency of the rails was paramount. There was no friction as Morse Miles and his steel gang built new spurs, laid more rails and kept up the main line to maintain the flow of logs, unhampered, to the mill.

"The operating force of the rolling stock loyally and eagerly discharged their duties to the hungry saws of the giant mill. These men worked long and late to keep up with the demands of the foreman for more and more logs.

"Jake Posey was the most popular of the engineers of the Natchez, Urania and Ruston Railway. The younger generation idolized Jake. He was their own Casey

The hey day of the steam locomotives has passed, but there are some who remember when the engineers who ran those 'iron horses of the rails' often were accorded considerable local fame, especially by the younger set. Here is a recollection by area oldtimers of a drama involving a popular engineer when steam rode the rails.

Jones in the flesh. It was Jake who ran the heavy trains of logs from the "front" to the mill.

"Jake felt his responsibility keenly. He knew that he must move the logs steadily and speedily to the saws.

MILL POND LOW

"August 10, 1917 dawned sultry. The mill pond was low in logs and water, and the logs apound would soon be eaten by the busy saws. Fresh logs were a must before noon, else the big lumber operation would grind to a halt.

"Jake arose at 4 a.m. and after a hearty breakfast, kissed his wife and two young sons, and soon thereafter he reached the round house. His engine was ready and at five he pulled out of the yards with 30 empties onto the main line and headed for the front.

"Climbing through the big hills of Winn Parish he was soon approaching Kansas City Cut, the highest peak of the N. U. and R. rails. Passing through the cut slowly, he started his descent and soon leveled out for the run through Hinton to the front. Arriving, he found the 'Shay' locomotive awaiting him with 32 loaded cars.

EXCHANGE COMPLETED

"The exchange of cars being made, Jake assumed the burden of the heavy train and the responsibility of its delivery to Urania before high noon. He halted his charge at Hinton just long enough to take on passengers. These always rode in the engine cab with the enginemen.

"The passenger list consisted of Mrs. Pallie Arthurs and her three small sons, Wilburn, 'Biddy,' and 'Sweet.' They were visitors at Hinton and were returning to their home in Oakdale.

"Moving slowly at first the train steadily accelerated and Jake fed the steam with all the expertness at his command. As he approached the last grade before reaching Kansas City Cut, the pull of the heavy logs had considerably slowed his progress. Once over the hump the descent of the steep hill into the gorge was extremely rapid.

MOMENTUM

"It had to be this way as Jake had to depend upon momentum to carry him through the cut. Jake had the throttle of his engine wide open as they sped down the long hill toward the gorge. It was here that his tender left the rails, flinging those aboard it to safety.

"His fireman jumped from the cab, but Jake stuck to his post, and when they found him, scalded to death by steam, his hand was still gripping the air valve. Yes, Mrs. Arthurs with little 'Sweet' in her arms died with her three sons, all victims of the scalding steam or the avalanche of logs that poured down the valley on them by the hundreds.

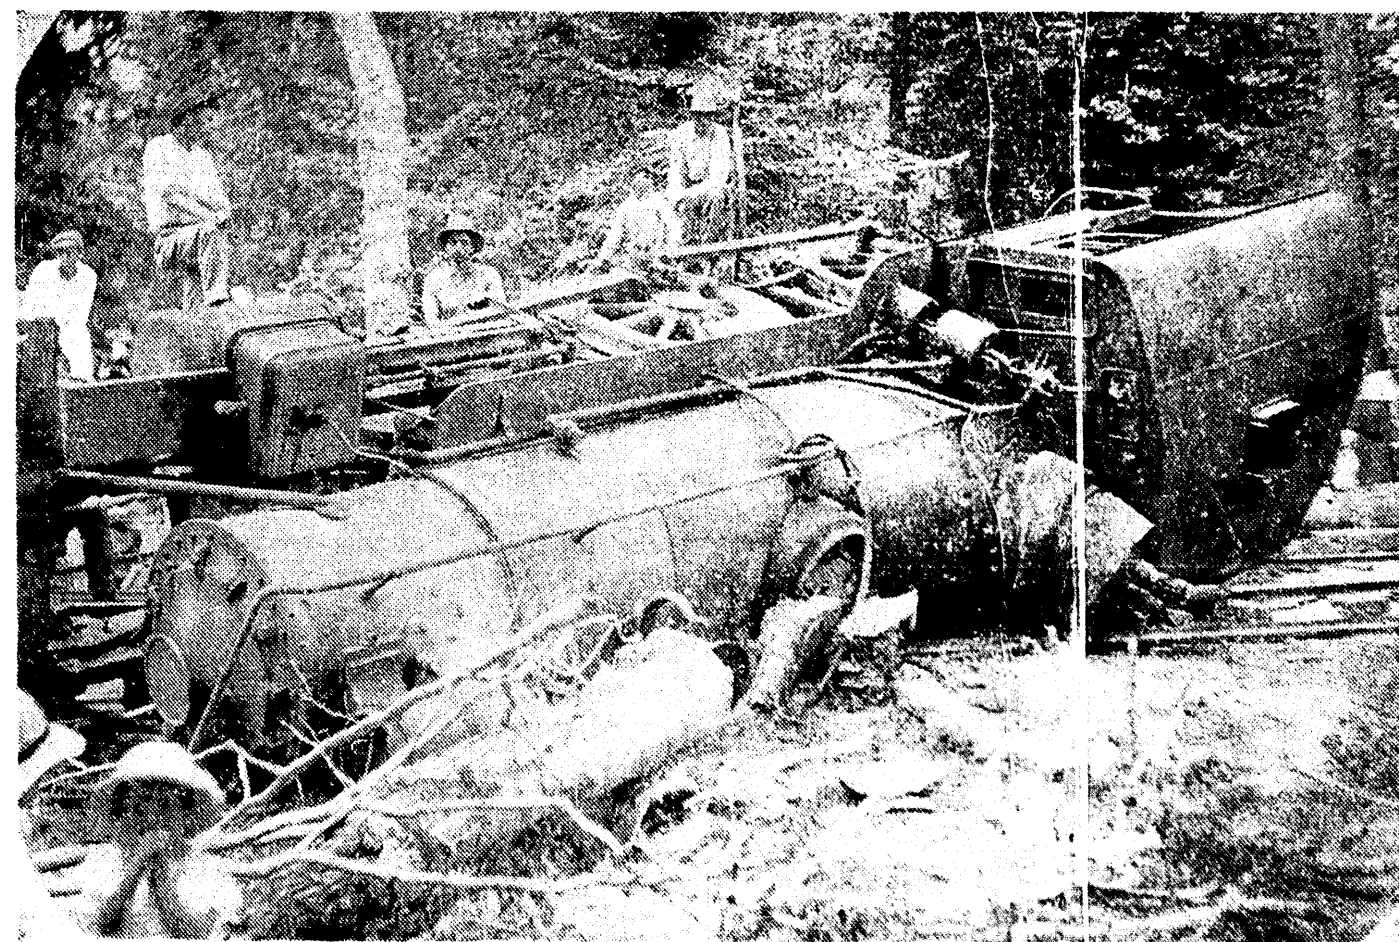

"The mother and sons were buried in one huge grave the next day in Urania Cemetery, in a scene of great sorrowing. Jake, our idol, our fearless engineer, found eternal rest in New Union Cemetery. We at Olla and Urania were stunned for weeks over this great tragedy. But even to this day, we oldtimers frequently find ourselves recalling Jake and his ride to doom."

THE STEAM LOCOMOTIVE in the foreground was one of the prime movers of logs by rail in the Urania area around 1917, and it was a locomotive of this type which was involved in the long-ago tragedy at Kansas City Cut.

VICTIMS OF THE rail disaster at Kansas City Cut were Mrs. Pallie Arthurs and her three sons, "Biddy," Wilburn, and "Sweet," and engineer Jake Posey. The drawings are from old photographs.

JAKE POSEY'S last log train run to Urania ended short of its goal as shown in these photographs taken after the train's derailment on a steep grade under an avalanche of logs.

Monstrous Monuments

By JIM BECKER

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— Sometimes you wonder why we worry about the Russians all the time.

Just take a look at the statues and buildings they've stuck up all over Eastern Europe, and you realize they can't be that smart, after all.

You would think anyone would have better sense than to shoot up a country and then disfigure the landscape with statues showing the local people just how they did it.

Well, wouldn't you?

The Russians don't.

Take Berlin, for example. Or Warsaw. Or Vienna. The Russians are supposed to be trying to win friends in those places, too.

RETAINING WALL

First they set up a government in East Berlin that is so popular they finally had to build a wall to keep the people from running away.

Meanwhile, they put up a lot of wedding cake buildings that would be condemned by the board of good taste in any civilized community. And the buildings started falling down before the plaster was dry.

Just to show what nice fellows they are, in West Berlin they tossed up a hideous stack of concrete festooned with statues of Russian soldiers and tanks busily blowing up the town.

That must be pretty inspiring stuff to people who are trying to put the place back together again.

And Warsaw.

It was one of the most shot-up towns in World War II, so the Soviet contribution to the rebuilding effort was a 300-foot tower that looks like the Los Angeles City Hall with concrete icicles hung all over it.

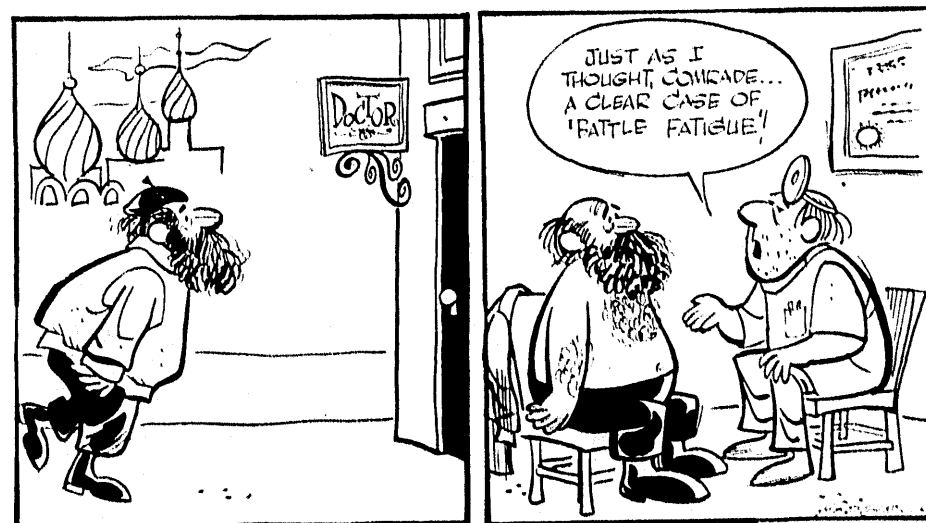

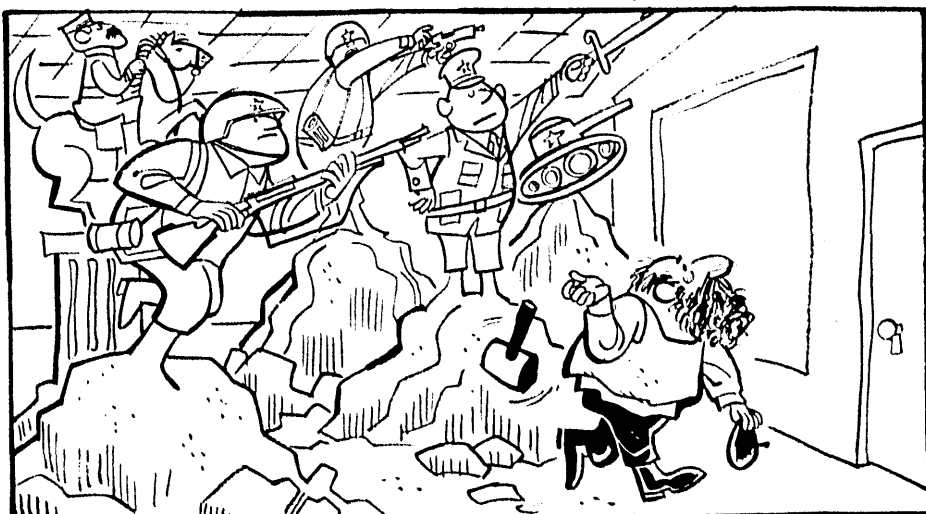

The Poles, who are very civilized, say that the tower has the best view in Warsaw, because you can't see the tower from there.

ADDED TOUCH

As an added touch, the Russians tossed in the world's ugliest monument, a little gem about the size of Grand Canyon, showing the Soviet army to the rescue.

This makes real sense to the Poles, who know that the Russians waited across the river until all the non-Communist leaders got killed off fighting Germans.

And then there's Vienna. After the war, while the Viennese were busy putting the opera house back in shape, the Russians were down the road hammering out a little concrete

Taxes, Education And Industry

Both Governor-Elect John McKeithen and State Superintendent of Education-Elect William J. Dodd set forth sound and badly needed philosophies of state government at Baton Rouge in their talks last Thursday before the conference on government sponsored by the Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana. If the announced plans of each are put into effect Louisiana's governmental image will be changed completely and the doors will be wide open to attracting new payroll making industry that will lift the state into lasting realms of prosperity.

Mr. Dodd emphasized that the proposed $50,000,000 per year in salary increases for public school teachers must be accompanied by new standards and qualifications for teaching and by both reduction of jobs and continuing analyses to determine the fitness for job holders throughout the State Department of Education. Mr. Dodd also approved the privately financed study of excellence in Louisiana high schools by PAR a year ago which was blocked by a surge of opposition from school people.

These are basic steps toward removing Louisiana from last, or close to last, in literacy among 50 states as shown in data compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Census, the National Education Association and the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mr. McKeithen, in addition to again pledging a bill of governmental importance, prepared basically by the non-political privately financed Council for a Better Louisiana, emphasized that his own recent travels and talks with out of state industrialists have made him realize that if industry is to be attracted to Louisiana the conditions that keep it from coming here must be remedied—including establishment of government that will inspire trust, outside the state as well as in it, plus reformation of the relation to industry and building up of better public school education.

This is exactly in accord with a World editorial two days before the March 3 general election for governor. In that editorial we pointed out that crash programs of sending teams into other states to try to get industry to locate in Louisiana are useless unless we recognize why industry will not come here and do something about it; in other words virtually reverse our past approach to the problem of making outside industry want to locate—or expand—in Louisiana. The simple facts are, as we said on March 1st, that professional survey of the attitude of outside industry as to Louisiana found that:

"... industrialists placed Louisiana at the bottom of the list of Southern states for the location or relocation of industry. The basic reasons for this attitude toward our state are the results of the unstable political climate, the fear of punitive taxation, mismanagement, and the poorly educated population lacking the skills needed by industry."

What these conditions have meant for Louisiana is shown in the fact that this state has 20,000 fewer manufacturing jobs now than in 1947, where all other Southern states show good, sometimes huge, increases in their total of manufacturing jobs. Where Louisiana lost 20,000 such jobs through failure to attract industry or keep it here, Arkansas hiked its total by 33,000, Mississippi by 34,000 and Texas by 167,000.

Mr. McKeithen has pointed out that Louisiana with a reputation for high taxing actually "does well" as to taxation of its private citizen groups but cracks down on various types of industry in what often is punitive manner.

Revision is needed here and also in the administration of property taxes at all levels of government. At present varying methods of assessment mean that one piece of property in one parish may be taxed several times as much as property of identical value in another parish. Equalization of the assessment system and full enforcement of the tax laws quickly could solve all Louisiana's fiscal problems and open gates to a prosperity flood.

Mr. McKeithen has a tremendous job on his hands if he is to remedy the present roadblocks to location of payroll making and revenue producing industry in Louisiana. The miserable image of our state government which has grown through the years and is attributable to no single administration, the sacrifice of education itself for creation of jobs and payrolls in our schools, and inequality of the tax structure cannot be changed overnight.

Perhaps no single administration can bring about such changes. But it is encouraging to find the governor-elect recognizing what must be done and the urgent need for doing something.

De Gaulle In Mexico

With regard to the visit of President Charles de Gaulle of France to Mexico, there are several random thoughts we would like to express.

We wish De Gaulle would stay away from Mexico. For a good many years, that nation and the United States have been on more than ordinarily friendly terms. United States has had no desire to make a conquest of that country. Mexico has liked our friendly, non-aggressive attitude and has been content to rest somewhat under our protection in world affairs, at least until the late President John F. Kennedy abandoned the Monroe doctrine. We don't like the idea of a national chieftain going into Mexico and talking about "joining hands in a changing world." He may want to change it to his way of thinking.

De Gaulle has been described by Henry J. Taylor, columnist, as a great man but one who is "playing ball" with Soviet Russia and Red China. We liked De Gaulle all right as long as he spent his time looking after the interests of France — and for that we admired him — but we don't like his excursions into other countries to try to bring about a "changing world." As far as we are concerned, the United States, under democracy and free enterprise, was as good as we can ever expect it to be, so we are suspicious of "changing world" ideas.

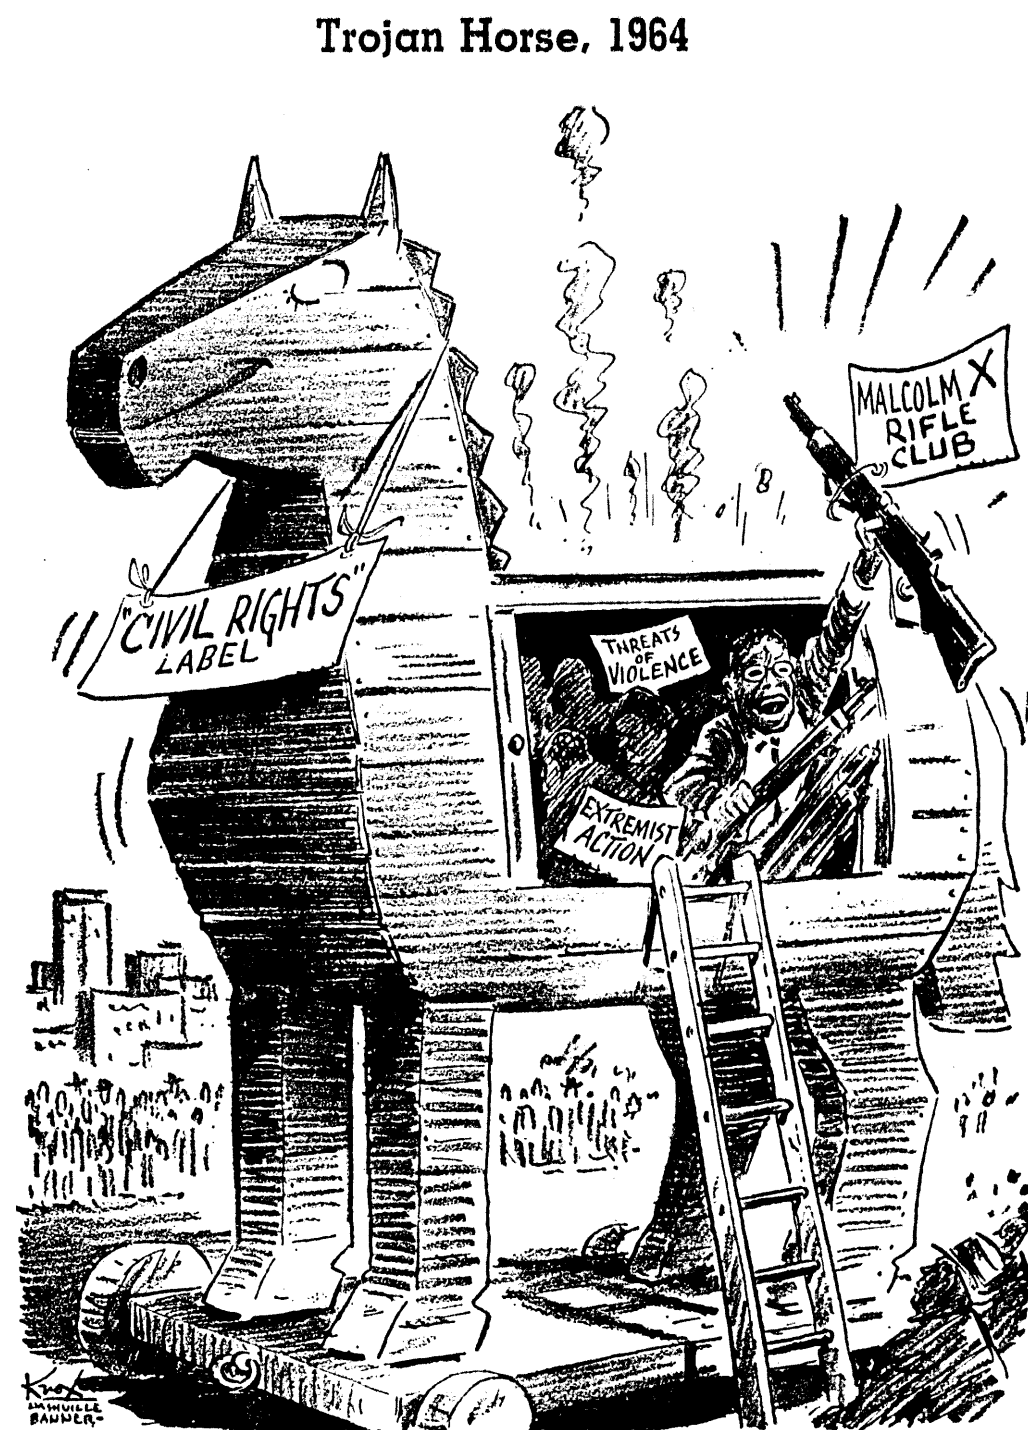

United States officials expressed some concern that De Gaulle's visits might harm the United States "image." We are not much concerned with the "image" idea — preferring reality — but would like for Mexico to know this country as a true democracy, a friendly nation and one seeking to prevent either infiltration or invasion by communist foreign forces.

De Gaulle is a "grand old man" and that is one of the good things about it, especially the "old" part. If he were a younger man, with his pushing ways, he might try to be another Napoleon or Hitler or Stalin or Khrushchev or Mao.

Often the names of satellites are acronyms — words formed from the initial letters of compound names. Examples are Samos (Satellite and Missile Observations Systems), Midas (Missile Defense Alarm System) and Tiros (Television Infrared Observation Satellite).

Breeding animal output in the United States is 90 per cent greater than in 1919-1921.

The new radio telescope in Puerto Rico has as its primary mission the study of the ionosphere. This portion of the atmosphere extends 50 to 400 miles above the earth's surface and makes possible radio communications.

No 'Overheating' Of Economy Seen

JOHNSON BOOM — Top Administration economists are now convinced that the recent tax cuts are not going to lead to an "overheated" economy or present any inflation perils. Some industrial companies and bankers, however, do see mild inflation later in the year. Administration's watchdog committee made up of Assistant Secretaries of Treasury, Labor and Commerce, is keeping a close watch for hikes in prices and wages. Contracts of auto workers, aluminum, electrical, meat packing and aerospace workers expire before November. Some labor unions have indicated that they will not go along with the Administration's request for wage restraint. But all President Johnson's powers of persuasion will be used on labor leaders and business executives to keep wages and prices from an inflationary advance. Reports of boom conditions come from many parts of the country and it is coming to be termed the "Johnson boom."

1964 BORROWING — 1964 promises to be a borrowing year, not only for the Federal Government, but for businesses and citizens generally. United States Government, will have to borrow $8,000,000,000 or $9,000,000,000. Expectation is that tax revenues will in time increase revenues, but not this year. Consequence is that the limit on the debt ceiling will have to be raised again this summer. There will continue to be heavy private borrowing on mortgages for building and consumers are also expected to do more than usual borrowing. Some merchants say indications are that many wage and salary earners are using their additional take-home dollars as down payments on new purchases.

FILLING DEMOCRATIC PURSE — Outlook is that Democratic Congressional Committees will have the fattest wallets in recent years. Six thousand tickets were sold for the $100-a-plate for the Congressional Committees campaign in Washington Thursday night.

Featured were prominent party personalities headed by President Johnson and former President Truman. Democrats want to pick up at least twenty new members of the House of Representatives. Big effort will be made in Senate races where of 35 seats at stake, only eight are Republican. Some losses by the Democrats are regarded as inevitable, but Democrats believe that if President Johnson retains his present strength he will null through several Democratic Senators who otherwise would lose. Democratic Senate seats believed to be in greatest jeopardy are those now held by Muskie in Maine, Williams in New Jersey, Young in Ohio, Edmondson in Oklahoma, Moss in Utah, McGee in Wyoming and Engle in California.

DISUNITY IN BIG STATES — Disunity is plaguing Democrats in four States with 137 electoral votes. Perhaps the most somber situation is in California where the fight in the Democratic primary over the seat of ailing Senator Clair Engle could split the party in the Presidential election. In Ohio, the largest industrial State carried by Richard M. Nixon in 1960, the Senate fight between venerable Senator Stephen M. Young and Col. John Glenn, the astronaut, isn't helping an already troubled Democratic situation. There is a bitter Senatorial primary race in Pennsylvania that has put Democrats calling each other names. The New York Democrats are floundering and have no Democratic Senatorial candidate and little chance to get one with much vote-pulling potential. None of the four States have gubernatorial elections this year.

CIVIL RIGHTS MAIL — Liberal Northern Republican and Democratic Senators are surprised at the large number of letters they are receiving from constituents against civil rights legislation. Senator Kenneth Keating, Republican, New York, says New Yorkers have been misled by misinformation being put out in the South and mailed to northerners. Northern Senators note that a large portion of the anti-civil rights mail comes from suburban residents.

GOVERNORS AT CONVENTION — All of the 16 Republican Governors in the nation are expected to be delegates to the National Convention in San Francisco. Four of them — Rockefeller of New York, Scranton of Pennsylvania, Romney of Michigan and Rhodes of Ohio — will be voted for on the first Presidential ballot taken. Governor Mark Hatfield of Oregon may be the temporary or permanent chairman of the convention. Governor Paul Fannin of Arizona may be the Goldwater floor leader during the balloting. Nearly all of the G.O.P. Governors will be chairmen of their delegations.

STEEL DUMPING — President Johnson heard an alarming report on steel dumping in this country from United Steelworkers President David McDonald and Roger Blough, United States Steel Chairman. Much of it is manufactured in West Germany, Britain, Japan, France, Belgium and Luxembourg and dumped in this country at less than its fair value, the union and industry leaders charged. They urged President Johnson to take personal action to bring about revision of the outdated Anti-Dumping Act of 1921. Steel men pointed out imports of steel were more than 5,500,000 net tons in 1963, the equivalent for jobs of about 35,000 steel workers, who would have been paid about one quarter of a billion dollars. At its present rate of increased consumption of foreign steel in the United States it would cost the jobs of another 15,000 steel workers in the next three years.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Sunday, March 22, the 82nd day of 1964 with 284 to follow.
The moon is approaching its full phase.
The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.
On this day in history:
In 1765, the British Stamp Act became law in the American colonies.
In 1775, Edmund Burke spoke for more than three hours in the British Parliament for conciliation with the American colonies.
In 1794, Congress passed legislation forbidding slave trading with foreign nations.
In 1941, the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River began producing electrical power.

A thought for the day—British statesman Edmund Burke said: "People will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors."
Senator Soaper Says
Somehow we can't believe that the trouble with our amateur athletic program is that the amateurs are too amateur.
All hunters of exotic game will envy Secretary McNamara his fact-finding trip to Vietnam, a part of the world where the fact is about the most elusive quarry a man could pursue.
Congressman Sludgepump says he will do anything the party thinks would be helpful, although he draws the line at suicide.
Safety belts would be helpful, of course, but about the safest accessory that could be added to the automobile would be square wheels.
Foreign travel is unusually attractive this summer with almost every country offering stimulating cultural festivals and anti-U. S. demonstrations.

'Fair Trade Law' Binds Retailers

A FIRST-CLASS ROW is going to break out in the immediate future, when the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives reports out the so-called quality Stabilization Bill (H.R. 3669) which is, with elaborate qualifications, a Fair Trade Law binding retailers to observe the prices set by manufacturers for their products. The Bill is enormously interesting, among other reasons because there is a curious division of ideological sentiment towards it. It looks like something the manufacturers brought in; but the principal pressures for it are by the retailers. Its principal backer in the Senate is Senator Hubert Humphrey; yet Humphrey's boss and idol, the late President Kennedy, swore he'd veto it if ever it got within reach of the White House. The AFL and CIO are adamantly opposed to it; yet many of the congressmen they own lock, stock and barrel have come out in favor of it. The eloquent Representative Bruce Alger of Dallas, among the half dozen most conservative congressmen in the House, has raised his right hand to utter a mighty oath against it because it would "abolish capitalism as we know it"; and the eloquent Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota, among the half dozen most conservative senators, has vigorously endorsed the Bill. What goes on here?

Let us look at it, first, philosophically. Can I sell you, for resale to others, an article with my trademark on it, and specify the conditions of resale? I should think the case for the affirmative is overwhelming. If the article bears my trademark, then my reputation is at stake when it reaches the consumer, and I should be permitted sovereignty on the matter of how to guard my reputation. If a discount chain choose to sell my $50 high quality vacuum cleaner for $10, as bait-merchandise to induce you into his store, that may be very good business for him, but very bad, eventually, for me in terms of the public psychology about the true value of my vacuum cleaner. Should I have no recourse?

Opposed is, I think, the rather slender argument that once the retailer acquires merchandise, it is his to dispose of as he sees fit; it being, from the moment of his acquisition of it, his, not the manufacturer's. But doesn't this confuse the retailer, who is merely the middle-man, with the consumer, who is the true ultimate owner? No one would question the right of the owner of a Ford car to install a cute little extra carburetor in the engine; but surely the local dealer doesn't have the same right? The Bill, moreover, makes a useful distinction when it says that if the retailer strips all identifying marks of the manufacturer off the product, and refrains from using the manufacturer's name in connection with the sale of it, then indeed the retailer may do as he sees fit with it; otherwise not. Economically, the manufacturer is greatly at the mercy of the retailers who are free to play around with the price of his product. Justice Louis Brandeis pointed out years ago that price-cutting "has been the most potent weapon of monopoly — a means of killing the small rival to which the great trusts have resorted most frequently." And the discount houses have recently boasted that they will control 80 per cent of the nation's retail business by 1970. Projecting current economic trends, aren't the discount houses the principal monopoly threat of the future? If so, isn't it wise that corrective legislation should gravitate towards nascent monopolies? Again, the Bill makes a useful distinction, by refusing to cover the sale of the products of monopoly producers. To whose disadvantage, then, is the Bill? The roaring answer is: the consumer's. It is said that the moment the Bill passes, and the discount houses fold up, the consumer will be stuck with higher prices all the way around.

But if the consumer is asked to pay higher prices he will, by the immutable laws of economics, buy fewer of them. And why should the manufacturer be satisfied with fewer sales? His price, per product, was the same before the Bill, as it would be after the Bill; and only the manufacturer in question has the right to enforce the provisions of the Bill. If the manufacturer chooses to let a discount house sell his goods at a discount, he would continue to be free to do so. So why should he be free to do so, rather than run a loss? Because other retailers would conspire to boycott him if he did? But there are already laws on the books against conspiracies in restraint of trade. Moreover, there are any number of discount houses that peddle their own brand of merchandise, and they would be unaffected by the Bill, and would keep pressure on the manufacturers to keep the retail prices at an effective competitive level.

The philosophical and economic arguments put me on the side of Senator Humphrey. Perhaps he will reconsider his sponsorship of the Bill?

States It's Easy To Quit Smoking

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: All this fuss about smoking makes me sick. I was a pipe smoker for 25 years. I smoked three times a day, from breakfast to lunch, from lunch to dinner, and from dinner to bedtime.

One morning I decided that I had smoked long enough. I haven't smoked since. Anyone who really wants to quit can do so unless he is lacking in intestinal fortitude. All one needs is enough character to quit and mean it. — Mr. D.

Comment: How true! It seems to me people press too hard when they try to stop. It also seems they are more successful when the urge to quit comes from within than when told by a doctor or friends to give up the weed.

All you have to do is quit. Make no firm resolves; don't picture yourself standing in front of thousands of your smoking compatriots, receiving a medal for your evidence of will power and sudden abstinence. Overcoming the smoking habit is a purely personal problem. One does it one way, another does it differently.

Some people have told me that the only way to stop smoking is to gradually taper off; others say the sudden amputation of the habit is the most successful way. Some chew gum; others substitute hard candies; every time they have a desire to smoke again.

Whatever the method, make it easy. Just stop without fanfare. I tried it a few months ago (after years with the pipes, cigars, and cigarettes, although a moderate smoker) and just quit, for no immediate reason at all. I didn't have to. Perhaps I was just testing myself. So far I've passed with flying colors. I can't vouch for tomorrow.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I suffered with stomach ulcers for years. Nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me to try sleeping on my right side. He said my food would digest faster. I had always slept on my left side because it made me feel more comfortable. I took his advice and since then have not been troubled with constipation or stomach ulcer pain.

It has been five years now, and I am able to eat anything and I have gained weight and feel like a new person. I hope this will help someone else who has the same trouble. — Mrs. W.

NICE THEORY, BUT—

Comment: Why should I be so cruel as to stick a pin into your pretty bubble and bust up your apparently strong conviction that you have a simple and effective cure for ulcer? I hate to do it, especially because you want so much to help others with similar problems.

But that is really my reason for writing; not so much to disabuse you of the soundness of your idea, as to protect any other persons who come within ear-shot of your friend who has advanced this theory of ulcer management.

Right off let me say there is nothing to it. If there has been any improvement, perhaps it's due to other reasons; you may be less worried, less resentful, happier. All these states are favorable to ulcer treatment.

Besides, when you go to sleep on your right side you do not stay on it. During sleep we change position at least a dozen times. It makes no difference on which side you go to sleep on.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Can you tell me if there is any chance of my starting a family? I am 55 and had my last period about two years ago. My husband is 63. It is very important to us. — Mrs. N.

Comment: I don't want to raise false hopes. I'd say there is little or no chance. The reason I qualify my answer with the word "little" is that I always like to leave a little room for miracles. (Write to me in care of this paper for my leaflet, "How To Manage Your Menopause." Enclose 15 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

The Week In Focus

by Jack Gates

De Gaulle And Johnson

Apparently you can give French President Charles de Gaulle the edge in his first major jostle with President Johnson — and he did it without laying a glove on the U. S. president.

DeGaulle, it seems apparent, came through with flying colors on his visit to Mexico, while during the same week, President Johnson more or less put the Latin Americans in a tizzy.

The two men had a short talk in Washington last November at the time of the funeral for the late President Kennedy. It wasn't a formal talk; that was to come this year. But then there was some confusion about it. Johnson wanted the meeting in Washington; de Gaulle wanted it on an island in the Caribbean. So there was no meeting. Then the Frenchman irritated the American government further by recognizing Red China, and to top it off, decided to visit Mexico as part of his plan for getting good will and probably business for France in Latin America.

JOHNSON

Meanwhile, Johnson arranged to make a major speech to Latin American ambassadors at the Organization of American States on the very day that DeGaulle landed in Mexico. If it went right, Johnson would get as much front-page space as DeGaulle since his talk was on how the U. S. and its southern neighbors could pull together better. But it didn't go all right. While De Gaulle did all the nice things in Mexico, Johnson apparently didn't in his speech, or at least the ambassadors didn't think so. This is how it happened: For weeks a special OAS committee had been trying to get Panama and the U.S. to settle their dispute over the Panama Canal Zone. Last Sunday night, the OAS announced the two sides had agreed to sit down and discuss and negotiate their differences. Latin American diplomats said before the OAS committee released its announcement it had sought and got the approval of a ranking state department official. Later the official denied this. At any rate a few hours after the OAS announcement, Republican Senators denounced it. A few hours after this, a high U.S. source made a joke of the OAS announcement by saying there had been no agreement. Then on Monday, Johnson went to the OAS to make his speech. He astonished the ambassadors by injecting something that wasn't in the prepared speech. He made official what the "high source" had said the night before. He said there had been no meeting of the minds with Panama. Regardless of how the U.S. felt, it would have been better for Johnson to have ignored that angle in his talk. As a result, Latin America is all upset, while de Gaulle left a beautiful impression on all in Mexico.

DE GAULLE

At any rate, several reports continue to persist in Washington over the situation. One is that Latin American ambassadors are reassessing the outlook for their countries' relations with the Johnson Administration, and the other is there is a major disagreement between Johnson and his hand-picked director of Latin American affairs, Thomas C. Mann, over the Canal Zone question. At a White House reception Monday evening, Johnson thumped the chest of more than one Latin American member of the mediation Commission with his forefinger and insisted that by its conduct it had confused the issue.

One thing seemed apparent: There was an agreement reached, but Johnson feared counterpressures in Congress and U. S. public opinion.

On other points in his speech before the OAS, which was on the Alliance for Progress, Johnson declared the "full power of the U. S." is ready to assist any American country whose freedom is threatened from another continent.

Meanwhile, de Gaulle left Mexico Thursday after his crusade for closer ties between Latin America and Western Europe. During the four-day visit, he paid high tribute to Mexico, praised his own country and said he could see their cooperation as a world policy "which can favorably reach far beyond our frontiers." De Gaulle and Mexican president Adolfo Lopez Mateos pledged their countries to increased collaboration by means of periodic consultations on all matters, especially those relating to foreign relations, economy, trade and culture. De Gaulle also promised to support Latin American countries in their desire for better treatment for their exports to industrialized nations. He also implied that France would take the initiative in increasing trade between the European and Latin American common markets.

On the surface, U. S. officials discount de Gaulle's visit, but under the outward calm, there is a fear that Latin American may turn more and more toward France.

One significant item appeared in news dispatches, despite the tremendous welcome given the late President Kennedy on his visit to Mexico City, he was not allowed to speak from the famous balcony in Mexico City — which is the highest honor that can be accorded a visiting head of state. DeGaulle was allowed to speak from the balcony.

The Johnson Program

In addition to his full plunge into the Latin American diplomatic field, President Johnson also tossed Congress several major items.

On Thursday, the President asked Congress for $3.4 billion for a "no waste" foreign aid program which he promised would be increasingly efficient in strengthening other countries to withstand communism without further U. S. help. He claimed that U. S. economic and military assistance to 76 lands can help frustrate "the grim recruiting sergeants of communism and build a world in which the weak can walk without fear." The amount sought reportedly is the smallest amount since the start of the peacetime foreign aid program. It was just about what Congress granted the last time after chopping $1.5 billion off the previous request. Hearings are expected to start Monday on the bill.

Meanwhile, Rep. Otto Passman of Monroe, longtime aid foe and chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee that considers the program, predicted a substantial cut. He said the President's request was an asking price and Congress would set the "settling price."

Earlier in the week, the President sent his proposal to Congress calling for "total victory" in the war against poverty. In the long-awaited request, he asked Congress to approve a five-point $962.5 million program to help open the doors to prosperity for the nation's poor. He proposed creation of a new federal office of economic opportunity, headed by Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, to lead the battle. Two days after the message, Congress went to work on it and there were predictions that a bill would be ready for House action in six weeks. Meanwhile, Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, Republican of New Jersey, said he and his fellow Republicans would oppose the "catch-all" form of Johnson's bill and vowed to take a long and hard look at it.

Later in the week, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara suggested that idle military bases be used as training centers for the proposed 100,000-man job corps — key plant in the bill. This number is the estimate of the young men between 17 and 21 who are rejected for military service.

World Communism

It seems that World Communism's internal crisis is assuming an explosive look. In effect, Soviet Premier Khrushchev's camp is being served an ultimatum by its opponents: Adopt a more offensive policy toward the West or face an open contest with a rival Red movement for global leadership.

Actually, the battle is shaping up between the "haves" and the "have-nots" of the communist world. The have-nots — principally Red China and its allies — are telling the Russians they have gone soft, and that they must either get behind violent revolution all the way or get out of the revolutionary business.

The latest attack launched against Russian leadership — which is actually an echo of the Red Chinese, came from North Viet Nam. That nation's party secretary, Le Duan, delivered a scorching speech to his own Central Committee in Hanoi outlining difficulties engendered for world communism by the Red Chinese-Soviet squabble.

The time, therefore, seems to be approaching when Khrushchev's supporters will be obligated to take action. Perhaps the fireworks will come next month when Khrushchev's 70th birthday celebration provides an excuse for a rallying of Communist bloc leaders in Moscow.

KHRUSHCHEV

In his address, Le Duan, accused Khrushchev of being afraid of revolution.

MEANWHILE, the U.S. has told the Soviet Union that their warming relations will be jeopardized if the Soviets continue to hold three U. S. airmen shot down in Communist East Germany some two weeks ago. So far the Soviets have refused to release the men and have implied they may be tried on spy charges. The three were captured after their bomber was shot down over East Germany. One of the men was injured. An American doctor was allowed to visit him, but the Soviets rejected a note demanding his release.

Later in the week, the U. S. stepped up its diplomatic efforts to get the three released when Secretary of State Dean Rusk called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. Rusk told the ambassador that the men were not on a spying mission when the bomber was shot down and that Soviet failure to free the airmen will affect other relations between the two nations.

This, in itself, may be the approach to a tougher line Khrushchev may be developing in reply to the criticism that has been hurled at him by his one-time friends in the Communist world. If so, the cold war may become frigid. . . .

Washington Report

Generally, much news developed around Washington and throughout the Nation the past week aside from diplomacy.

THE DEFENSE department announced a task force of 6,800 Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine personnel will go to Iran next month for joint maneuvers with that country's forces.

IN CONGRESS, President Johnson urged members to give government workers a pay raise — even if it doesn't vote itself a salary boost. The House, in a surprise move the previous week, had voted down the pay bill because of apparent fear of retaliation by voters to raising their own senators' salaries by $10,000. Other federal workers pay raises went down the same drain. . . .

ON THE CIVIL RIGHTS issue, Senator Richard Russell, leader of the bloc opposing passage of the dangerous bill, shook up backers of the bill with his proposal for a voluntary racial relocation program. Under the proposal, Negroes would be relocated at government expense throughout the nation, giving each state a more equal share of them. Then, too, he said, it would aid President Johnson's anti-poverty program by encouraging relocation and betterment of both Negroes and whites of lower income status. Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey termed the proposal a "Dixie decoy" and said whatever its merits, the Russell plan was essentially a diversion — "a smoke screen."

A SURVEY HAS SHOWN that more than $1.8 billion in U. S. military planes have been lost or badly damaged in crashes over the past three years. Pilot error and material failure were listed as the chief causes in more than 2,000 major military aircraft accidents in 1961-1963. Critics of the U. S. missile systems have suggested, among other things, that there is much more assurance about the reliability of manned aircraft. . . .

CHARGES AND countercharges continued to flow in the investigation of the Bobby Baker case. Republican Senators Carl T. Curtis and Hugh Scott, both members of the Senate Rules Committee which is investigating the case, charged that "someone" behind the scene is running the case because the Democrats, or some of them, are attempting to close the investigation. Scott termed the Baker probe "one of the most sordid scandals in recent memory." Senator B. Everett Jordan, Democrat and chairman of the committee, fired back and recessed the committee. Later in the week, Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, Republican of Ohio, formally demanded a House investigation into charges that "political influence of the highest degree" was involved in granting a federal charter to a bank in which Baker was a subscriber. Currently the probe is in recess. . . .

THE GOVERNMENT'S widespread and largely unregulated use of polygraphs, or lie detectors, will come under congressional scrutiny next month. The House information subcommittee scheduled public hearings April 7-9 to explore the possible need to regulate lie detector tests, which are even used by U. S. military advisers in South Viet Nam to determine whether natives are loyal to the Saigon government. Some congressmen are questioning whether an individual's constitutional rights are violated if his employer requires a polygraph test before or after he is hired. . . .

ANOTHER APPOINTEE of the last President Kennedy is leaving the White House. He is Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, who resigned to return to his home state of California to run for the U. S. Senate. Salinger will be succeeded in the White House job by George Reedy, described as a friendly, pipe puffing giant of a man and a close friend of President Johnson. With Salinger went Andrew T. Hatcher, the assistant press secretary and one of the highest ranking Negroes in government. . . .

Overseas Roundup

Southeast Asia, with South Viet Nam at the hub, and Cyprus, continued to be the world's major hot spots the past week.

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI (AP)—The train slowed down as flat, brown fields dotted with mud-walled villages began to be replaced by a clutter of thatched huts, crude buildings and garish vendors' stalls.

Krishen looked out the window at an alien world: the Indian city. It was a dismaying sprawl that meant uncertainty for an illiterate villager. It also meant hope of earning a living for Krishen and the family he left behind in his village.

Krishen disentangled himself from the others packed into the third-class compartment. Peddlers squatted by the station, selling cigarettes and betel leaves to chew. Bearded Sikh drivers lounged by rickety taxis. Men in dhotis strained every fiber of their thin, underfed bodies to heft grain sacks onto a bullock cart. A cow ambled along, oblivious to the confusion, heat and din.

No Baggage

Unencumbered by baggage, Krishen set forth to search for work. The street would be his home, his bed beside a wall, his restaurant a man squatting on the sidewalk cooking unleavened chappatis. The reason for his meager existence would be the few rupees — about 60 cents — that he could earn in a day's casual labor and send back to his village.

There was not enough family land for him and his brothers to support all their families. Krishen left his family in a brother's house.

His shy wife, the mother of three at 20, keeps busy with such chores as carrying water from the well. She sits on the mud floor doorway of the nearby bare house, a cheap cotton sari hiding almost everything except the red powder spot on her forehead that signifies Hindu devotion, and sits grain while watching naked babies and dogs and chickens play in the packed earth lane.

The brother steers a simple wooden plow that scratches the earth behind a weary bullock, preparing a field for sowing by slinging seeds from a sack. He raises wheat that the women cut, stalk by stalk close to the ground, and sawn sugar cane for sale to a nearby mill.

The village has no school, no post office. A path through the fields connects it with a larger village.

There, some shops and houses have kerosene pressure lamps instead of simple wick lamps or the light of a fire made with cow dung. Bicycles are signs of prosperity.

Krishen's village, one of 560,000 in this crowded country, is part of unchanged India.

Caste still determines rights. Untouchables are barred from drawing water from the well, for fear they might pollute it, but they provide the midwives.

On South Viet Nam, the U.S. said that the nation has developed a sound central plan for fighting the Communist Viet Cong, including national mobilization, creation of a highly trained guerrilla force, and new equipment. Full U.S. support was pledged "for as long as it is required to bring Communist aggression and terrorism under control." The big step was the pledge by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh that his government intends to purge itself and that Saigon's wealthy leisure class will be thrown into the anti-Communist war. This was bad news for thousands of draft dodgers who have carried on as usual in Saigon while other Vietnamese and Americans die in combat. Meanwhile, the guerrillas shot down two U. S. Army aircraft, killing six Americans and one Vietnamese. The two crashes brought to 110 the number of Americans killed in action since the U.S. buildup in 1961.

In Cyprus, fighting broke out again late in the week between Greek and Turkish Cypriots despite UN and British peace efforts. It was the first serious flareup since Canadian troops began arriving a week ago as the van of a UN peace force. The most serious fighting broke out around the Turkish Cypriot village of Ghaziveran. Turkey has warned that it will invade Cyprus until Greeks refrain from killing Turkish Cypriots. The Turkish fleet, with many transports loaded with troops, has been maneuvering in the eastern Mediterranean. And in Ankara, the Turkish Parliament gave Premier Ismet Inonu full backing in the Cyprus crisis, including an invasion if he felt it was necessary. . . .

PRESUMABLY, the U.S., after a series of political blows from Cambodia, has decided to turn the other cheek to its volatile ruler, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. This seems apparent from the U.S. endorsement of South Viet Nam to seek restoration of diplomatic relations with Cambodia. Many believe that supplies to the Communist Viet Cong are also flowing through Cambodia. The U.S. policy there is aimed at keeping peace among the non-Communist nations and defeat Red China's divisive policy. Washington lost hope long ago of persuading Cambodia to join any kind of alliance against the Communist bloc, but still hopes to persuade it to remain genuinely neutral and to close Cambodian soil to North Vietnamese men and arms bound for South Viet Nam. This can be achieved only at conference tables, it is believed, and this accounts for U.S. willingness to maintain ties with Cambodia despite continuous provocations. . . .

THE INDIAN government says it has learned that Red China and Pakistan have agreed to coordinate foreign and military policies affecting India. India, it was said, is revamping its policy on the assumption that in the future it will face two hostile neighbors working together rather than separately. Reports of skirmishes potentially dangerous along the Indian-Pakistan border are reaching New Delhi in increasing numbers. . . .

AND IN LONDON, authoritative British sources say the Soviet Union again has been forced to dig deep into its gold reserves to meet the heavy bill for wheat purchased from the U.S. and other Western countries. The Soviet Union was understood to have offered four tons of gold, valued at about $4.5 million, on European markets in the past few days. Experts say the offer apparently was only the first of a series, following the unprecedented Moscow gold offers of last year. . . .

Unchanging India Starvation, Sorrow

LIKE THESE oxen, going around and around for hours separating wheat from chaff, India's agricultural problem goes on and on. The population explosion has aggravated the problem of feeding too many mouths with too little land. Government plans for improvement have made meager headway. In most areas farming still follows centuries-old, inefficient methods. (AP Newsfeatures Photo) scavengers and undertakers on whom other villagers depend.

The petty government official of the area is still king despite efforts to encourage local self-government. In most areas, big land holdings remain in single family control despite efforts at land reform.

Results are meager from government schemes of civic and agricultural improvement in the half or more villages reached so far. Farms are tightly conservative. In many areas, new methods are adopted slowly if at all.

Some villages have awakened to better seeds, better ways of plowing, the use of irrigation and of fertilizer. Others have failed to tap massive government irrigation projects built for their benefit.

Stagnant

Food production has remained stagnant instead of rising in accordance with government plans. A large part of India's population is badly underfed.

Lethargy and resignation are ingrained in the Indian culture and Hindu teaching that life is to be endured as penance to obtain a better rebirth. Overcoming this is the most basic problem facing India.

India has 135 million men and women working on the land, 100 million of them cultivating their own fields and the rest trying to survive with casual employment. The landless ones probably average less than five cents a day to live on and the others little more.

Underlying all India's other problems is the surge of population. The 1961 census showed 438 million persons — about the total of all of Africa and Latin America combined — in an area one-third that of the United States. India's population now is pushing 470 million.

The national government has conducted a birth control program for years. Some state governments encourage sterilization by making small payments. But the problem of a population increasing by some 2.5 per cent a year is basically untouched.

The hope of men like Krishen is jobs in new industries.

Last Decade

In the last decade India has expanded its industrial base. Some of the new factories, from a massive steel plant to a fertilizer plant using electricity from one of the biggest dams in the world, are owned by the government. Some are private enterprises.

Industrial development has been very uneven. The Punjab area just north of New Delhi has shown spectacular energy in starting new industries. So have a few other areas. But large regions remain industrially, as well as agriculturally, in the Middle Ages.

Krishen will need luck because of stiff competition for jobs paying about $25 a month or less, a good salary in India. Industrialization has not prevented the number of unemployed from rising past a current mark of around 15 million.

India has been fortunate. It has had stability in the 15½ years since independence from Britain. In the century and a half that they ruled India, the British built the basis for a modern nation. Railroads tied the country together. An elite civil service provided sound administration.

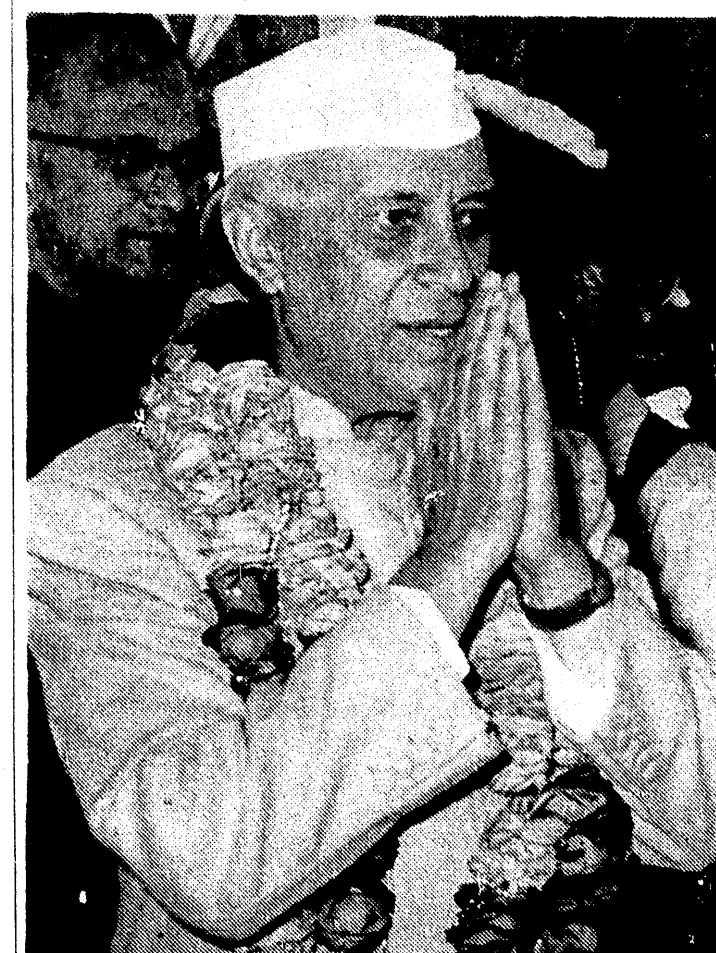

India's geography varies from frosty Himalayan heights to monsoon-drenched coastlands dotted with coconut palms. The people are just as diverse. Color consciousness is strong, resulting in racial discrimination that is no longer related to Hindu caste — the original word for caste meant "color." Light-skinned Indians are considered superior.

India's people speak dozens of languages. Hindi, the tongue of north India and the main official language, is understood by fewer than half.

The English language still ties India together but the many other tongues create strong regional influences that could pull India apart.

Has Been Strong

Under Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru the government

THIS IS the Nehru India remembers, palms pressed into the traditional greeting, going among the people. Now the premier, while officially recovered from a mild stroke in January, no longer can dominate and lead as he has through the years of India's independence. Some fear that when he goes the Indians, with the problems of hunger and unemployment still unsolved, may turn to dictatorship. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

De Gaulle Gives France Peace, Place In Sun

By DAVID MASON

HAUGHTY, tall Charles de Gaulle can mingle with a crowd, as here after a speech in Cognac, but in French and world affairs, as in physical stature, he stands out. Fifty million Frenchmen (actually about 48 million) include many who see and feel the inflation, housing and other problems behind France's shiny new surface, but they can't be wrong about her increased influence in the world. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

CHARTER FROM CONGRESS

U.S. Leadership In Space Must

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has a charter from Congress calling for establishment of U.S. pre-eminence in space.

To reach this goal, NASA will have the spending of something between $35 and $50 billion in the decade 1960-70.

Whether the space agency is exercising wisdom and foresight in the spending of such vast sums is a matter of considerable debate in and out of Congress.

The experiences to date—plus congressional reaction to them—undoubtedly will influence the scope and direction the space programs take in 1964 and thereafter.

A tendency to give NASA less than it asks has already appeared. Congress cut the agency's budget request for fiscal 1964 by $600 million to $5.1 billion.

Since the space agency was formed in 1958 out of the old National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, its impressive scientific achievements and plans have been widely reported.

Relatively little has been told about how NASA spends its money and whether the agency receives a dollar's worth of goods and services for each dollar spent.

The House Committee on Science and Astronautics has assembled figures which show that between July 1, 1961, and March 31, 1963, NASA awarded 68 contracts involving more than $5 million each.

During that period 40 of these contracts were renegotiated and the amount of work to be done for NASA was expanded about $900 million.

In awarding the initial contracts NASA says it fully realized that the work would have to be expanded and the original contracts were just to finance a start.

There were "cost overruns" on 19 of the contracts and they added about $200 million to the bill.

A "cost overrun" involves expenses beyond the initial estimate by the contractors. All NASA's major contracts are on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

A classic example of what can happen when costs exceed estimates and when NASA changes its mind on engineering requirements is the NASA contract with McDonnell Aircraft Corp., of St. Louis for the production of Project Mercury space capsules.

SIX CAPSULES

The initial $19.5 million contract called for production of six space capsules of a single design.

Ultimately NASA decided it needed 20 capsules and they should be progressively modified to improve design after each launch and on the basis of new information.

This additional work came to $70 million and cost overruns came to $50 million.

The Western Electric Co., signed a $33-million contract to provide the Project Mercury tracking and ground instrumentation systems.

NASA asked for additional work amounting to $20.7 million. The cost overruns came to $15.2 million.

In discussing contract procedures generally before the Senate Space Committee, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said: "as everybody knows some of these companies have been eliminated quoted tens if not hundreds of millions below cost in order to get contracts, knowing that after they do that, and once they have the contract, there will probably be a minimum of 10,000 engineering changes."

Each engineering change of any importance comes under the heading of additional work.

In response to a question on the subject of underbidding, NASA replied it had "no recourse against overly optimistic contractor estimates other than its ability to evaluate the probability of accuracy at the time of the contract award."

Then there is the matter of duplication resulting from a lack of planning.

FOR PROGRAMS

George M. Low, deputy director for programs in NASA's Office of Manned Space Flight, told the House Space Committee: "We didn't develop our master plan for the entire Apollo program soon enough."

Project Apollo is the $20-billion plus program to land a man on the moon by 1970.

Low's admission came after questioning about the building of duplicate test stands for the first and second stages of the moon missile called Saturn.

Test stands for the Saturn's second stage exist at Santa Susana, Calif. Identical stands are being built at the Mississippi

PARIS (AP)— "Under the direction of Gen. de Gaulle, the Fifth Republic has given France peace, a stable economy, its place in the world — and this while assuring the prosperity of Frenchmen and social progress."

So goes the preface to a glossy 36-page booklet published recently to tell the French they never had it so good and to tell the world to sit up and take notice of France.

The booklet deals with France since 1958, when Charles de Gaulle was swept back into power on the heels of a revolt, and established the Fifth French Republic.

Some Frenchmen and foreign observers scoff their way through sections of the pamphlet which gives a rosy view of agriculture, education, housing and salaries.

Few Would Argue

But few would argue with a statement that "France has again found her voice and her rank in international life."

This voice and this rank can largely be attributed to De Gaulle himself. Through a combination of well-studied but often surprising moves, De Gaulle has succeeded in neutralizing most of his opposition at home and making the world swallow a lot of Gallic medicine.

He has angered and baffled his closest allies with many unilateral acts conducted with an almost disdainful attitude that he knows what's best, and that history will be on his side.

Gaullists, bathing in a sort of euphoria, argue that everyone eventually will understand. But some Gaullists themselves have trouble explaining what the haughty brigadier general is up to.

His allies grumble and fume, but in no major instance have they taken measures which have succeeded in putting De Gaulle back into the limit one might imply from France's population — 48 million — and size — some 212,000 square miles.

Many of the claims in the glowing government pamphlet cannot be contested.

But all that is Gaullist does not glitter, and even if much does, some people ask if time will not tarnish the sheen of today.

What is life like in De Gaulle's France?

The government booklet treats the question alphabetically and starts with a surface impression, listed under "Affaires Culturelles." Most of the French capital's history — rich monuments and buildings have been scrubbed of decades of grime. The sprawling city shines. Thousands of man hours have been employed to scour and sand blast the giant Louvre Museum, De Gaulle's Elysee Palace, and hundreds of ordinary apartment and business buildings.

But in some of these gleaming buildings, bath tubs and central heating units are rare and families are crowded into dark, inadequate quarters.

Some estimates say the big city housing crisis will not be solved for 20 years, although the government claims France is building 1,000 homes a day.

France is at work and the country is booming by most every statistical yardstick which can be applied.

Unemployed workers receiving government assistance dropped from 42,000 in 1959 to 19,000 in 1963. Most employable persons who are not working at a given moment are shifting from one job to another. France has imported many unskilled and semi-skilled laborers to satisfy the demand for such jobs as domestic help and construction work.

But nearly full employment and the business boom have brought with them inflation, cutting the real value of the worker's paycheck and frequently sending him out on strike. The government launched a serious effort to stabilize the economy last September and has been pressing down hard since to keep the lid on.

Many ordinary Frenchmen began abandoning bicycles and motor scooters more than five years ago and moved behind the wheels of cheap but ever improving cars. Now they have driven themselves into an almost continuous traffic snarl in Paris and other big cities and overburdened France's highway network—most of which consists of narrow, bumpy, two and three-lane roads. "Auto-routes," France's version of superhighways, run only 217 miles out of some 18,000 miles of main roads.

Product Grows

France's gross national product has grown more than 5.1 per cent a year since 1958, government statistics show. For the period 1959 to 1963, the GNP grew more than 25 per cent — one of the greatest growths in Europe and greater than that of the United States.

Agriculture is one of De Gaulle's big headaches. Farmers in Brittany have let piles of artichokes go unmarketed because of low prices, blocked roads with their tractors, marched on city halls and clashed with riot police. The government is attempting to rearrange France's archaic marketing system and open the way for more foreign outlets, but the task will be long.

France's schools are inadequate for the soaring population. University crowding has brought angry students streaming into the streets to campaign for better living quarters, classroom space and other facilities.

France's social security program is one of the most highly developed of Europe. Medicine is to a large extent socialized, with most treatments paid for up to about 80 per cent. Family allocations substantially augment the worker's paycheck. France is one of the leaders in the fight against cancer, tuberculosis and polio.

De Gaulle has deeply committed France to a costly nuclear program, although this too was well on the way before he returned to power in 1958. Eighteen reactors have been installed and a huge isotope separation plant at Pierrelatte will provide necessary plutonium. The state run electricity system is preparing for the day when atomic energy will provide power. France claims to be the first producer of uranium in Western Europe.

But first and foremost, De Gaulle has turned his nuclear scientists to the job of producing his bombs, or as government literature prefers to call them—his "force de dissuasion."

Production Good

those the United States dropped on Japan, began late last year. Mirage IV supersonic jet planes are coming off the line. In the Pacific, scientists and engineers are preparing a testing base for hydrogen bombs.

Some Frenchmen would prefer to see nuclear funds diverted to road and school building.

De Gaulle's quest for nuclear independence, to give France "its place in the universe," has created a major point of difference with the United States.

De Gaulle, however, argues in effect that no country can aspire to be a world power unless it has a nuclear arsenal. He also presented his "force de frappe" striking force as a necessity for France's own protection, while at the same time agreeing to scrap it if everyone else does likewise.

De Gaulle ordained a year ago that Britain was not prepared to become a Common Market member—a holy controversial decision that many thought was more political than practical. De Gaulle clearly did not want the British on the continent he is insisting on preserving for French leadership.

France, he believes, must assure for itself and for Europe an independent third-force role, standing between the Soviet Union and what he almost scornfully refers to as the "Anglo-Saxons."

In another pair of moves which stirred much wrath in the United States, De Gaulle called for neutrality of Southeast Asia, and then recognized Communist China.

De Gaulle also is preparing to spread France's "rayonnement" radiance to Latin America, and he plans a series of official visits there this year to underscore this effort.

Fantastic Uses Of Laser—A 'Light Gun'—Are Told By Its Inventor, Obscure Young Scientist

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Three years ago Ted Maiman was an obscure young scientist, lost in a cubbyhole office at a large research center.

Then he invented the laser—a fantastic "light gun" that drills holes in diamonds, bounces visible rays off the moon, holds promise of being a miracle tool.

At 36, Maiman now heads his own laser-making firm, Korad Corp., founded in October 1962 and already grossing $1.5 million a year.

Rich Suits

He wears rich suits, houses his ex-schoolteacher wife and 5-year-old daughter in an exclusive neighborhood, and occupies a paneled executive suite six times the size of the partitioned desk-space where he worked out the equations of his laser.

The combination of technical aptitude and business ability showed itself early in Maiman's life. At 12, an age when most "whiz kids" are happy to tinker with neighbors' radios for free, Ted opened his own appliance-repair shop, put the profits into a school fund.

Today Maiman is one of the few corporation presidents who holds a Ph. D. Maiman often slips a lab coat over his silk shirts to supervise the solution of some technical problem in the shop.

At the time when laser are still experimental devices — no one will attempt to guess their full potential—Maiman is making them commercially for other research organizations.

More than 500 companies, universities and government agencies are working with lasers, spending an estimated $50 million annually to perfect them and adapt them to practical uses.

Among the big organizations in the field: Westinghouse, RCA, Raytheon, Perkin-Elmer, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Lear-Siegler, IBM, Hughes Aircraft, General Electric, Bell Laboratories, and American Optical.

Undismayed

Against this array of Goliaths, Maiman is undismayed. "Not everyone who wants to experiment with lasers wants to go to the trouble of making wood.

It'll be a long time before you can buy a laser at the corner drugstore. Current off-the-shelf prices run from $10,000 to $45,000, depending on complexity.

It probably will be an even longer time before most people have any use for one—but that day, too, may come. They would make great cordless drills for the home workshop. Someday they may be used to reproduce your daily newspaper in your home.

Right now lasers are so new that Maiman calls them "a solution looking for a problem." They resulted from scientific curiosity rather than practical requirement and all the uses for them simply have not been discovered yet.

In simplest terms, a laser is an electronic device which amplifies light and emits it in a narrow beam, with such control that it can take the film off your teeth without touching the enamel, strip paint off a piece of furniture without harming the wood.

It also has been used to drill teeth, burning away decay so fast the patient feels no pain, and to weld retinas back on eyeballs before the patient can flinch.

For Eight

The letters of the word "laser" stand for "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation." It's a take-off from the earlier word "maser," which stands for "microwave amplification," etc.

Maiman gives full credit to the maser and its inventor, Dr. Charles I. Townes, for the principle that electromagnetic radiation can be emitted in close-packed parallel beams—instead of scattering in all directions as light and radio waves ordinarily do.

Townes succeeded in doing this with microwave—very short wave—frequencies, but neither he nor a number of other scientists could find a material that would do this with visible frequencies.

Maiman was the first to find ruby red in between pulses.

It was synthetic ruby, a crystal which many other researchers had rejected because, theoretically, it wouldn't work.

A good laser material is one which, when its atoms are excited or stimulated with light, gives off more light.

Early tests indicated that ruby was only 1 per cent efficient.

Hughes to become vice president. "But I had a hunch," says Maiman, "that other people Quantatron, and in October 1962 were not investigating ruby thoroughly."

Maiman, working at Howard Carbone, whose Linde division is Hughes' big research laboratory a major producer of synthetic at Malibu at the time, recalls: rubies and sapphires. "There was a lot of pressure on me from my superiors because ruby, however," Maiman says, "I kept working with ruby when 'We know it has limitations and recognized experts in the field we are constantly hunting new materials, even those that have to stimulate ruby continuously. Maiman was born Theodore which meant a build up of heat Harold Maiman in Los Angeles, that ruby couldn't stand. I He won his B.S. at the University of Colorado in three years, light, exciting the material with switched to Stanford for his flash lamps. This gave a higher masters and took his Ph. ## Soviets Lying About Medicine

By REINHOLD ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)— Soviet authorities keep saying that Soviet medical care is the world's best, and that it is free for everyone. The fact is that certain sectors of the Soviet medical program are not free.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new Communist party program, issued in 1961, said the party must provide — by 1981 — "free medical services for all citizens, including the supply of medicines and the treatment of sick persons at sanatoria."

To learn precisely what is free, and what is not free, an interview was requested with top Soviet medical officials. After a wait of several weeks, permission was granted for an interview with Alexei Safonov, chief of the Soviet Medical Services Board.

The first question was: "Could you please tell us what Soviet medical services are free, and which must be paid for?"

Replying with a booming, self-assured voice, Safonov began: "As you know, medical services in the Soviet Union are free."

Then he spoke for approximately 30 minutes, listing in detail precisely what medical services are free — hospitals, clinics, doctors, etc.

When he stopped, having apparently exhausted the list, he was asked again: "Which Soviet medical services are not free? Is medicine free?"

Yes, he replied, it is free in the hospitals.

Are prescriptions obtained from drug stores free? "No," Safonov admitted reluctantly.

Are eyeglasses free? Another reluctant, "No."

Are false teeth free? "No." "But," he quickly added, "all these things cost less than their actual value."

He was then asked why Britain, a capitalist country, was able to provide these things as part of its national health service while the Soviet Union—the world's first Communist country—did not.

"When a person becomes 70 years old he will probably need a walking stick. Must we pay for the stick?" he replied.

"Anyway," he added, "the level of medical care in England is very low. It is equal to that which we had here in the 19th century—sixty years ago. Most Britons must go to a general practitioner and do not have easy access to specialists, as do all Soviet citizens."

He was then asked: "If what you say about British medical care is true, why did the Bolshevik dancers create such a sensation during their visit to England? British newspapers reported that almost all of them went to London dentists to get their teeth fixed."

Safonov's answer: "This was perhaps due to a change of climate, or perhaps the English food. As you know, climate has a great influence on teeth."

After further discussion, Safonov acknowledged that some Soviet citizens prefer to pay a doctor or dentist in the hope of getting better treatment than at a state clinic.

"Yes," he said, "there is some of this, but the amount of time which Soviet doctors use for private patients is only about one-hundredth, or one-thousandth of the total time spent on all patients."

The amount of time spent on patients in Soviet state clinics was recently criticized by the deputy Soviet minister of health, Alexander Serenko.

Writing in the newspaper Literary Gazette, he said: "A practitioner—in a state clinic—has 12 minutes to receive a patient, talk to him, examine him, and think and write a prescription. This is a 'norm' and this norm was established before the war."

"This or any other norm should not be applied to the creative work of a doctor."

Five Jets Men Shipped Off To Broncos

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Jets sent five players to the Denver Broncos in exchange for four Saturday in a trade believed to be the biggest ever made in the American Football League.

Weeb Ewbank, the Jets coach, said Wahoo McDaniel, a middle linebacker from Oklahoma University, was the key man in the trade and that the rest of the deal grew out of the Jets' efforts to get him.

The Jets also received Gordy Holz, defensive tackle; Bob Zeman, all-AFL safety man in 1962, and Gene Prebola, a tight end. All four players have been in the AFL four seasons and were Denver regulars last year.

Denver got two Jet regulars, guard Aid Fournet and defensive tackle Charley Janerette; Jim Price, an outside linebacker who played regularly part of the 1963 season; Dick Guesman, defensive tackle and placekicker who was New York's leading scorer last season, and Ed Cooke, a linebacker and defensive end.

McDaniel, 26 years old and weighing 240 pounds, is expected to fill a weak spot in the Jets defense.

"As far as we are concerned, he was the key player. We needed help on defense and were willing to give up some older players to get it," Ewbank said. "I also think Holz will do a better job for us than Janerette."

Bruins Rip Duke For NCAA Title

KANSAS CITY (AP)—UCLA's blistering fast Bruins, directed by All-American Walt Hazzard, ripped into Duke with a devastating attack that beat the Blue Devils 98-83 Saturday night and brought the Bruins the NCAA national basketball championship.

The overwhelming victory before 10,864 howling fans in Municipal Auditorium and a national television audience capped a perfect season for the unbeaten Bruins, who gained their first national championship with their 30th straight victory.

UCLA's total of 98 points was a record in NCAA title play, compared with the 92 by LaSalle in 1954.

Bill Buntin led Michigan to a 100-90 victory over Kansas State for third place.

The Bruins, shortest team in the final field with no starter over 6-foot-5, built their biggest victory on a blazing fast break. Hazzard's ball-handling and an aggressive press defense that had the Blue Devils bothered and bewildered.

The key to the victory was a string of 16 straight points reeled off in a span of three minutes, 51 seconds midway through the first half. That lifted the Bruins from a 30-29 deficit to a 43-30 advantage and for all intents and purposes the game was over.

The tall Blue Devils, the Atlantic Coast Conference champions, didn't get closer than 10 points again.

The Bruins had heroes galore. Gail Goodrich, Hazzard's backcourt running mate; Kennedy Washington, a 6-3 jumping jack who came off the UCLA bench with a 26-point effort, and Jack Hirsch were among them. Hazzard, however, was the main figure, directing the attack and producing assists by the handful before he fouled out with 6:14 remaining.

Hirsch made two key steals and set up baskets on each of them in the decisive first half burst.

Goodrich, a 20-year-old junior, started it on a fast-break lay-up, producing eight points in the spree. Hazzard had one key steal and a big assist. Goodrich finished it off with a couple of free throws after the Hazzard steal for a 13-point lead and the Bruins had it in their pocket.

Their pressing, harassing defense forced the Blue Devils into countless mistakes and loss of the ball, and served as the perfect complement to UCLA's running game.

The Blue Devils, with two 6-foot-10 men in the starting line-up, also sported a pressing defense, and the combination with a fast pace made it a rough one.

There was a brief flare-up late in the last half when Jay Buckley of Duke took a backhanded swing at UCLA's Erickson after they had gone up for a rebound. It was Erickson's fifth personal and Buckley was charged with a technical.

It didn't really matter by then. The Bruins had expanded their advantage to 50-38 at the half and just kept pulling away.

Goodrich was the leading scorer with 27 points. Regular center Fred Slaughter played only briefly, going out in favor of Washington who topped both teams in rebounds with 12.

Jeff Mullins led the losers with 22 points and Buckley had 18 before he fouled out in the closing moments.

The victory made UCLA only the third team in NCAA history to finish the season with a perfect record. The others were San Francisco with a 29-0 mark in 1956 and North Carolina 32-0 in 1957.

NORTHEAST ENDS DRILLS

Offense Dominates Indian's Scrimmage

World Sports Editor

Northeast State put on a good offensive demonstration before approximately 1,500 spectators at Brown Stadium here Saturday afternoon in a three-team scrimmage which climaxed a "successful" spring football practice, the school's first under new Head Coach Dixie White.

White, who was an assistant at Louisiana State before coming to Northeast this year, said after the scrimmage, "I think overall it was a successful spring training. My staff and I think we know a lot more about the team. We feel we know now who will be playing for us next year and we have installed our basic offensive and defense."

In the scrimmage, which was divided into six 10-minute quarters, the Red and White teams scored two touchdowns apiece against the Gold unit. No points were scored against either the Red or White clubs.

All of the scores except the last came on long drives.

In the opening half, the White unit marched 95 yards in 15 plays for the first touchdown of the day. Quarterback Johnny Garrison, who turned in a number of outstanding runs, went over from the three on a keeper. Halfback Lynn Mitchell ran over the first of three two-point conversions.

Later in the half the Red team drove 87 yards in 10 plays with halfback Butch Bryan, another standout in the game, sweeping end from five yards out. Quarterback Dee Faircloth passed to end Wendell Drost for the two-point conversion.

The Red team returned after the half to march 96 yards against the Gold club in seven plays. Halfback Alton Thomas got this touchdown on a four-yard jaunt around end. Faircloth promptly hit Drost again on the PAT try.

The last touchdown was made by the White team on a 27-yard drive. It was set up when punter Robert Charles Payne got a low snap from center and was forced to run.

Fullback David Elkin, who ramrodded the march, went over from the one five plays later. Mitchell, however, was stopped short on a pitchout for the extra point.

White indicated the scrimmage was typical of the team's performance in past sessions and that perhaps the only improvement was on the wide sweeps. Bryant, in particular, got loose on a number of good end runs.

"There has been quite an improvement in our basic running attack since we started," White said. "However, we still lack the passing we want."

He said Faircloth, the reserve quarterback who moved up to first team duty this spring, had an off day and was definitely a better passer. All three teams intercepted several aeriels during the scrimmage.

White picked out Garrison and Bryant for their offensive performances. Garrison, a transfer from Delta Junior College in Miss., was the key man in the White team's touchdown, eluding several tacklers on a 22-yard run one time, then going 23 yards with the draw on the next play for scrimmage.

A real scrambler, Garrison back to pass one time, appeared trapped, but managed to escape for a 28-yard gain.

Bryant turned in the key play in the Red team's 87-yard touchdown march, picking up 30 of the total on one sweep. He also pulled in a Faircloth pass and galloped 36 yards to the Gold four on the other Red touchdown drive.

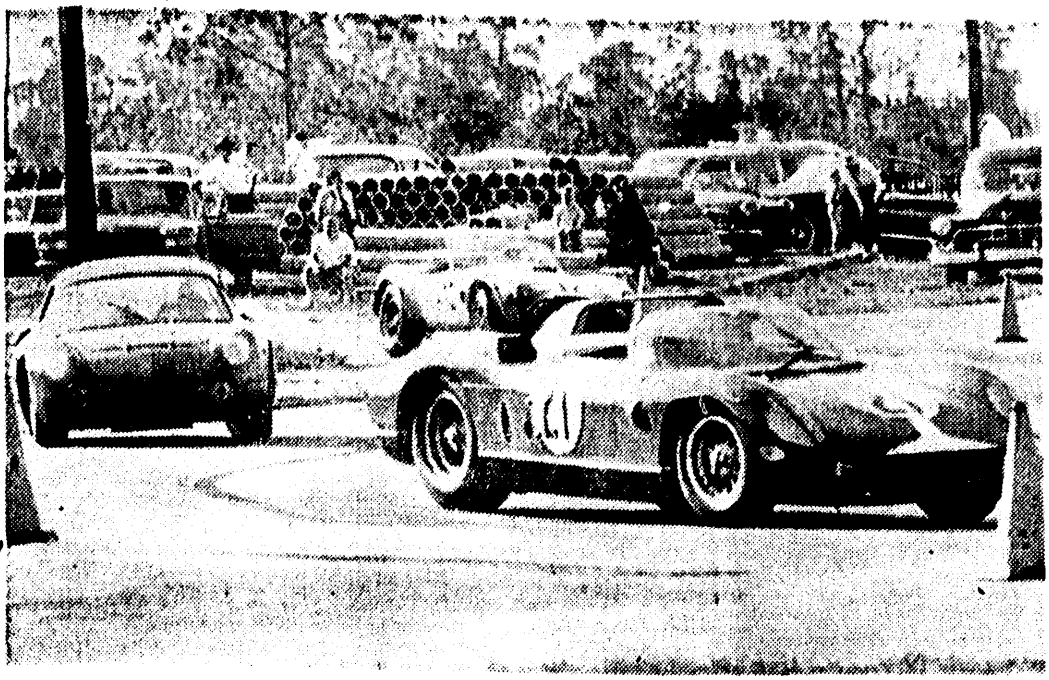

White cited guard Sam Corzine for turning in the day's outstanding line performance as a blocker and linebacker.

Defensively, he singled out the White team's effort in the second half.

"I think next fall we will be ready to start adding to both our offensive and defense," White said. "So far we have been going slowly and sticking to the basic elements of both phases."

"I am particularly proud of the hustle and enthusiasm the team has shown. And I am proud of our staff. They have done a wonderful job of learning a new system and teaching it."

DISLODGED NICKLAUS

Casper Takes Lead In Doral Tournament

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Plump Billy Casper shot a five-under-par 57 on a wet course and in gusty winds Saturday to surge from seventh place to the lead in the third round of the $50,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

Casper's 54-hole score of 207, nine under par for the 7,028-yard course, dislodged Jack Nicklaus, Rex Baxter and Bob Shave who had shared the top spot.

Baxter took an even par 72 and dropped a stroke behind Casper at 208. Jack Rule, riding a 68 up the ladder, went into a three-way deadlock for third place with Nicklaus and Shave, who settled for 73s.

For the bulk of the field, scores ran higher than Friday when Nicklaus, Baxter and Butch Baird broke the course record with 66s.

Saturday play was delayed for almost an hour at midday by a drenching rain.

Casper shot eight birdies and three bogeys during a strong but erratic round.

The 32-year-old Casper, winner of the Doral inaugural two years ago, launched his round by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt following a sharp recovery when his tee shot landed behind a tree. He also birdied the second with a six-foot putt.

A bogey slowed him at the fourth when he missed the green, but he birdied the fifth and sixth with putts of 15 and six feet and birdied the eighth after chipping from off the green to the lip of the cup.

After a 10-foot putt brought him another birdie on the 10th, Casper bogeyed the 13th by driving into a sand trap, then birdied the 14th and 15th with approach shots that left him putts of only two and four feet.

He ended the round in anger, however, when he three-putted the 18th for a bogey. He blamed it on a house photographer who he said had upset him by winding his camera.

Victory in the Doral would bring Casper a $7,500 prize, by far the biggest he has managed this year. Although he has won 21 titles on the tour, including the 1959 U.S. Open, his game has produced only $2,612 this year.

Sam Snead and Joe Lopez, an unemployed club pro from Miami, wound up the third round in a tie for sixth at 210 after rounds of 73 and 72, respectively. Both are 51.

Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, who with Nicklaus have

Tech Schedules Football Game With SWC Club

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech and Rice University will open the 1965 football season with a game on Sept. 18 to be played in Houston, Tech Athletic Director Joe Aillet announced Saturday.

It will be the first meeting of the two teams and Tech's first game against a Southwest Conference club. Coach Aillet of Tech and Rice Athletic Director and Head Coach Jess Neely have paralleled careers at their respective schools, each assuming his present post in 1940.

Coach Aillet said, "We feel honored that Rice has selected Louisiana Tech as its opening opponent in 1964. I have a great deal of respect for Coach Neely and consider him one of the outstanding men in collegiate football. We are delighted we were given that date on the Rice schedule."

Tech has long had a series with another major college foe, Southern Mississippi. The Bulldog 1964 grid slate has already been filled and includes games with five Gulf States Conference teams plus intersectional opponents Tennessee Tech, Arlington State, East Texas State, Louisiana College, and Southern Mississippi.

made up "The Big Three," were far behind.

Palmer was on the practice tee an hour before the start of the round, but could do no better than 73. He is a stroke over par for the 54-hole route at 217.

Player leads him by three strokes at 214.

Dill And Hall Rebel Captains For 1963 Team

UNIVERSITY, Miss., (Special) — A pair of All-America linemen, Kenny Dill of West Point and Whaley Hall of Trussville, Ala., were identified as the permanent co-captains of Ole Miss' championship football team of last season.

The announcement was made by Coach Johnny Vaught at the seventh annual Alumni Awards Banquet.

Added recognition went to Dill when he was named recipient of the Team Leadership Award, which is presented annually by the Birmingham chapter of the University Alumni Association.

As 1963 co-captains, Dill and Hall succeed All-America quarterback Glynn Griffing of Cullman and wingback Louis Guy of McComb. Also as joint Rebel captains, Dill and Hall continue the sharing of honors extended last January when both were named the Outstanding Linemen in the Southeastern Conference, Hall by the Birmingham Quarterback Club and Dill by the Atlanta Touchdown Club. End Woody Dabbs of Clarksdale was the Team Leadership Award winner last year.

Dill, a center and linebacker, and Hall, a tackle, enrolled as Rebel freshmen together in 1959. Last summer, both gained preseason All-Southeastern nominations. Both were All-Conference selections in the Associated Press and United Press International polls. Dill was the only unanimous choice among linemen on the AP team.

As All-Americans, Dill was named to the FWAA-Look, Associated Press and N.Y. Daily News teams and Hall to the American Football Coaches and UPI teams. Both were starters in the 1962-63 Ole Miss teams which won back-to-back SEC championships and which went unbeaten both seasons with a combined 16-0-2 record. Through their three varsity seasons the record compiled was 25-1-2.

Demons Gain Doubleheader

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Undeclared Northwestern State swept a double-header from Nicholls 1-0 and 3-2 Saturday.

Tommy Stewart sent the winning run home in the nightcap with a bases loaded single.

Stewart, who pitched the opener, and Charlie Johnson tossed two-hitters for their victories.

NSC is now 4-0. Nicholls is 1-4.

Exhibition Baseball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Minnesota A team 9-8 in 12 innings and Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati 6-5 in 14 innings. Baltimore and Detroit played a night game.

The Yankees got a measure of revenge for their four straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers in the World Series when they faced Koufax for the first time this spring.

Roger Maris homered with a man on in the first, and four singles plus a messed-up cut-off play added three runs in the second. Koufax struck out five and walked three in six innings.

The Giants now have a 12-1 record in spring games, and have made 51 runs in their last four victories. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower sat in on the victory at Palm Springs.

Juan Marichal pitched five innings and allowed only one hit. Rookie outfielder Jesus Alou went five-for-six for the Giants.

The Colts had their biggest outbreak of the spring against the Twins while Talbot's four errors in right field let in six Houston runs. He dropped two fly balls and let two base hits get through him.

Catcher Bob Tillman drove in four runs with a homer and a double for the Red Sox. Relief ace Dick Radatz finished up after Monbouquette became the first Red Sox pitcher to go seven innings.

Low Burdette went five innings for the Cards and gave up solo homers to Gino Cimoli and Jim Gentile.

Jij Bunning and Ryne Duren combined on a two-hitter for the Phils. Bunning went the first six against the Senators and gave up both hits, singles. Duren allowed only two walks in the last three innings.

Three Mets, Ron Hunt, Rob Taylor and Frank Thomas, had three hits each as the Mets rose up against the White Sox. Jay Hook pitched the first five innings for the Mets.

The Braves got the winning run home in the 12th inning on a sacrifice fly by rookie infielder Lee Bales. They battled back from a 6-0 deficit to give the Twins their second defeat of the day, after the Minnesota B team also lost. Harmon Killebrew hit his first homer of the spring for the Twins.

Julio Gotay doubled the winning run across in the 14th inning for the Pirates. Gene Alley hit his fifth homer of the spring for Pittsburgh in the second and 10th. Frank Robinson tied the game in the ninth with a two-out solo homer and Marty Keough homered for the Reds in the 12th.

COMIN' UP AFIELD Saline Area Top Outdoors

State Begins Work

When the wing of the Cessna dipped toward Catahoula Lake, a band of Canvasbacks jumped to the sky, then beat it into the wildlife country that stretches from lake-to-lake below Jonesville.

From our view upstairs, it looked like you could step from one lake to another, because the swampland in the lower part of Catahoula and LaSalle is laced with water.

It was easy to see why the Jena-Jonesville area is reputed as one of the best fresh water fishing spots in Louisiana. Spring water was beginning to re-stock the streams below.

Later, as we boated down-stream in Saline Bayou, we got a groundflood look at the 50,000 acres recently purchased by the Louisiana Wildlife & Fisheries Commission.

Second of its kind to be bought in Louisiana, the new public area will be known as the Saline Wildlife Management Area. In fact, wildlife crews had begun on a sign at the main entrance when we drove into the area.

The name of the new area is self-explanatory; it simply means that the state will develop the section for public hunting and fishing. Bounded on the south by Saline Lake, the new area borders Catahoula Lake on the west, which means that it is backed up against the biggest waterfowl wintering grounds in North-Central Louisiana.

Small bayous jut off from Saline, offering the fisherman wonderful opportunities for his sport.

Of course, the swamp itself it made up of cut-over timber, just as all the Delta swamplands are. Its range, with proper care, in time will build a bigger deer herd for the sportsman.

In addition, the commission will construct small levees to flood portions of the area to attract ducks in their flights from Catahoula to Saline. The duck hunting should become the best in North-Central Louisiana.

Since an ample squirrel population is on hand already, the biologists probably won't have to worry about the small game species, but Richard Vancey, assistant wildlife director, was fast to point out that wild turkey would be stocked in the area. In time, Louisiana will have turkeys on a state-wide basis, including the Saline Wildlife Management Area.

Bob Kimball, the district biologist from Ferriday, pointed out as we drove along that the Saline area could sport a fine turkey population.

But one of the better features of the recently-bought property is its all-weather roads already

Chicago Mills Value

Since the future of the Chicago Mills Game Management Area could depend on the outcome of a proxy fight in the company, it would be well to examine what the public area has meant to the Louisiana sportsman.

Some 102,000 acres were placed under lease to the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission by the Chicago Mills Lumber Co. in Madison, Tensas and Franklin for public hunting.

Since the first antlerless season in 1958, some 3,958 deer have been killed by sportsmen on the game management area, according to a report compiled by biologists.

But perhaps the most important part of the report was the number of hunter efforts — 41,291. That means hunters made 41,291 trips into the area for deer. It does not include other hunts, like squirrels and turkey.

If each one of the 41,291 hunter efforts represents a $10 expenditure for gas, food, clothing, guns, ammunition and any other item that might be bought on a hunting trip, then the total would amount to over $400,000.

Traps Are Dog Hazard

Trappers of the LW&FC are moving into the Russell Sage Game Management Area in quest of wolf and bobcat that are leaving their signs in the state-owned game land near Monroe, and dog owners should be forewarned if they do not want their pets or hunting companions hurt.

Jack Rushing, Russell Sage supervisor, said the trapping operations are being undertaken to clean up on bobcat and wolf before the young turkey hatch comes off.

Little Man's Corner

The fishing was good and the little men made news afield. From Winnsboro, Larry Rogers and Bill Miller caught 46 large bream at Lake St. John on red worms. Mark Butler got some large bass at Lake St. John too.

N. A. Barnett, Ferriday, caught the limit of white perch at Lake Concordia. Bill Wall, J. L. Spinks, W. E. Fuller and Aubrey Logan, all of Vidalia, reported limits of perch from Deer Park.

Black Bayou Lake, near Monroe, was interesting this week

FRANK BROYLES' SYSTEM

Razorback's Organization Key To Football Successes

By EDGAR COLTHARP
World Sports Writer

Frank Broyles, head football mentor at the University of Arkansas and an organization man from start to finish, gave Monroe a glimpse Saturday of the snap, crackle and polish that make a successful big time college coach.

The personable Razorback leader, with four of his assistants, conducted a football clinic at Northeast State for area high school coaches.

By the time Broyles had finished his keynote lecture at 9:30 a.m. more than 100 coaches had registered for the event.

and hard work and you get the whole picture.

In an interview, during his lecture, and in casual conversation he exhibits a great deal of the type of exuberance he believes a coaching staff and team must have in order to win. "A team needs a trade mark of enthusiasm," Broyles emphasized. One way of instilling that trait is through organization, and organize Arkansas has done.

doubt that Broyles was a master at forming a smooth functioning team.

The Razorbacks have played in four bowl games, won or shared the Southwest Conference title three times, and racked up a 37-13 record in the six years that Broyles and his ten member staff have controlled the football program at the school.

The coach's personal charm and unassuming manner almost make one prone to take an "at ease" position mentally when around him. But it takes only a moment of conversation to become convinced that a lot is going to be missed by relaxing.

"There is no set way to coach football. When you make up your mind how you are going to teach the game, go all the way," and other similar bits of Broyles' personal gridiron philosophy constantly crop up among the wealth of technical phrases and expressions that are mostly beyond the layman's range.

The Arkansas mentor is skilled in both types of communication, common English and that peculiar jargon of football coaches.

He speaks of "scrambling," "anchor," "monster" and other words of a technical nature with such authority that there is no question of Broyles knowing what he is talking about, even though most listeners would be left far behind.

The "scramble" term refers to a blocking system used by many teams today that was developed by Northeast's head coach, Dixie White, when he was an assistant under Broyles at Arkansas.

The scramble block is the only type used by the Razorbacks now.

When asked for an opinion of White and the task before him, Broyles replied, "I feel Dixie will do a good job here. It's certainly a good opportunity for him and his staff."

"Of course the job can't be done in a year or less. It takes

FRANK BROYLES, University of Arkansas football coach, lectures to more than 100 high school mentors at Northeast's football clinic Saturday. Broyles and four assistants conducted the event at the invitation of Dixie White, Indian head coach and a former Broyles aid.

Two Surge Up To Take Over Western Meet

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—The temperature dropped and scores soared Saturday as Betsy Rawls and Kathy Whitworth came out of the second round of the Women's Western Golf Tournament with a first place tie at 154.

Winds gusting to 25 and 30 miles per hour as a cold front moved into North Florida and sweaters and slacks replaced shorts and blouses on the rolling, scenic Hills Country Club course.

First round leader Ruth Jess-sen, who was two under women's par with her opening day 73, ran into a demoralizing pine tree and shot an 83, which put her into a tie for fourth place. The thermometer is expected to read about 40 when the players take the field at 7 a.m. CST for a scheduled 36 holes of golf today. The double round was forced when rain canceled Thursday's opening.

Miss Rawls, of Spartanburg, S.C., said she was pleased with the one-over-par 76 she added to her earlier 78. "I feel I've got something going now," she said, then went to the practice tee to continue working on her game.

"This is a rough course," said Miss Whitworth, who has fired a 77 each of the two days. "Just one hole out there can change the entire picture."

Miss Jessen's first day 73 was the only sub-par round at the halfway point. She was well in the lead after 10 holes Saturday, going into the No. 11 hole at even par.

CAPTURE HONORS HERE

Area FFA Contest
Winners Selected

A public speaker from Rayville and the Weston parliamentary procedure team won area Future Farmers of America contests at Northeast Louisiana State College here Friday night.

Walter Cochran was the winning speaker and a team of Tommy McBride, Mike Staples, Bill Staples, Ricky Peel, Cliff Milstead and Glen Nash from Weston won the parliamentary honors in the Area II FFA Parliamentary Law and Public Speaking Contest. The boys, survivors of sub-district, district and now area competition, will compete next for state honors in the Louisiana FFA convention in Shreveport this summer. State winners will go to the national contest.

Advisor of the Weston team is E. L. Busbice while J. C. Letlow is the Rayville advisor.

The Weston group also won another award, a $15 check for coming the most "man miles" to attend the contest. Man miles are determined by multiplying the number of miles traveled by the number of people making the trip. Oak Grove was second and received a $10 check.

The Jena team was runnerup in the parliamentary law competition while Leroy Cureington of Winnsboro was second in the public speaking and Pat Risinger of Spearsville was third.

Judges of the competition were John P. Rudd of Dodson, J. W. Maxey of Calvin and Russell Sullivan of Winnfield, all FFA advisors.

Dr. J. Y. Terry of Winnfield was the area supervisor in charge of the contest.

Faculty Member
At Tech Named
To Dairy Post

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. Hal B. Barker, head of the department of animal industry at Louisiana Tech, is the new president of the Louisiana division of the American Dairy Science Association.

He was elected at a meeting at Louisiana State University and succeeds Dr. J. H. Gholson, professor of dairy science at L.S.U.

Other new officers are: vice president, Dr. H. G. Nelson, professor of dairy manufacturing, Southeastern Louisiana College, Hammond, and secretary, Dr. L. L. Rusoff, professor of dairy nutrition at L.S.U.

WALTER COCHRAN of Rayville receives congratulations from L. L. Price, acting dean of the Division of Pure and Applied Sciences at Northeast Louisiana State College here after winning the public speaking competition in the Future Farmers of America area Parliamentary Law and Public Speaking Contest at Northeast Friday night. At right is Leroy Cureington of Winnsboro, runnerup in the speaking contest.

Rev. Verlyn Snell
Church Speaker

The general Free Methodist youth representative, Rev. Verlyn Snell, will be featured speaker at the Free Methodist Church in West Monroe, 7:30 p.m. Thursday. It was announced by Rev. Bill Roark, pastor.

A recent graduate of John Wesley Foundation of Asbury Theological Seminary, before his present assignment he was pastor of the largest Free Methodist Church in Oklahoma. He also is a singer.

Rev. Snell and Louisiana state officers of Free Methodist Youth are touring F.M.Y. organizations in churches throughout the state, conducting workshops for youth departments. The local workshop will start at 5 p.m. Thursday, concluding with a rally at 7:30 p.m. The church is located at the corner of Lincoln and McGuire.

Messiah Church
Friday Service

Messiah Lutheran Church will hold 8 p.m. Good Friday services at 112 Delano Drive, Monroe.

The pastor, Rev. Charles Vorkoper, said the service will commemorate the events that happened in ancient Palestine and will center around "the meaning of the cross of Christ to our life in 1964."

Pioneers Held

Executive officers and committee chairmen of the Ouachita Council of Telephone Pioneers of America held their meeting in the conference room at 316 Breard St. Mrs. Avie Wilhite, vice president, presided.

After the reports from the committee chairmen, Mrs. Wilhite gave a brief summary of the state meeting attended by all council vice presidents in New Orleans. This meeting was called by Murray C. Fincher, vice president and general manager of Southern Bell and incoming president of the state chapter.

Mrs. Wilhite stated that at this meeting four major plans were discussed to revitalize and broaden Pioneering on the local level. These plans included a Group Leader Plan, Long Range Planning Group, Publicity and Life Member Clubs. Fincher stated his objective for the next year would be to "make Pioneering mean more."

Kiwanis Official

Area FFA Contest Winners Selected

A public speaker from Rayville and the Weston parliamentary procedure team won area Future Farmers of America contests at Northeast Louisiana State College here Friday night.

Walter Cochran was the winning speaker and a team of Tommy McBride, Mike Staples, Bill Staples, Ricky Peel, Cliff Milstead and Glen Nash from Weston won the parliamentary honors in the Area II FFA Parliamentary Law and Public Speaking Contest. The boys, survivors of sub-district, district and now area competition, will compete next for state honors in the Louisiana FFA convention in Shreveport this summer. State winners will go to the national contest.

Advisor of the Weston team is E. L. Bushbee while J. C. Letlow is the Rayville advisor. The Weston group also won another award, a $15 check for coming the most "man miles" to attend the contest. Man miles are determined by multiplying the number of miles traveled by the number of people making the trip. Oak Grove was second and received a $10 check.

The Jena team was runnerup in the parliamentary law competition while Leroy Cureington of Winnsboro was second in the public speaking and Pat Risinger of Spearsville was third.

Judges of the competition were John P. Rudd of Dodson, J. W. Maxey of Calvin and Russell Sullivan of Winnfield, all FFA advisors.

Dr. J. Y. Terry of Winnfield was the area supervisor in charge of the contest.

Engagement Of Charlotte Stodghill Announced At Saturday Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Douglas Stodghill, 1101 Louisa St., Rayville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Ann Stodghill to Eugene Wathen Bryson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wathen Bryson Sr., of Greenwood, La.

The engagement was announced at a reception Saturday night, March 21 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Stodghill at Rayville. Hosts for the event between the hours of 7 until 9 p.m. were the Jesse Stodghills, Mr. and Mrs. M. Eloi Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Truman J. Green, Mr. and Mrs. W. Davis Cotton and Mrs. Lulu S. McMahon.

The bride-elect, wearing a pink silk sheath with overskirt and matching slippers, received with her fiance, her parents and the parents of the prospective bridegroom.

An all pink theme was carried out in the appointments throughout the home with pink camellias predominating in the arrangements of evening blossoms. Presiding at the reception table were Mrs. Charles E. Lloyd, Mrs. Hugh J. Stodghill and Mrs. David P. Burk Sr.

Approximately 250 guests called between the appointed hours.

The wedding is planned for June 20 to be solemnized at 7 p.m. in the Rayville Methodist Church. Officiating will be Rev. Warren Blakeman of Benton Methodist Church, Benton, La., and Rev. Fredrick W. Schwendemann, student at Perkins School of Theology, Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

Miss Stodghill has chosen Miss Carole Cotton of Rayville to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Charlotte McCarty, Rayville; Miss Rebecca Sue Graham, Kirkwood, Mo.; Mrs. John Cloyd Walker, Shreveport; Mrs. Robert Wendell Sorenson, Fairbanks, Alaska and Mrs. Ronald Lee McNabb of Ruston. Serving as candlelighters will be Miss Mary Margaret Higginbotham, Greenwood, cousin of the future bridegroom and Jack Green, Delhi, cousin of the bride-elect.

Mr. Bryson will attend his son as best man and named as groomsmen are Henry D. Roan, Greenwood; Howard M. Elder Jr., Louis G. Minor, William M. Blackman Jr., all of Shreveport and Lt. Edwin M. Higginbotham

Copies Of Paris Styles Closely Follow Unveiling

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

From this moment on --
"authentic," "nearly authentic," "remarkably similar," "Paris-influenced" American copies of French designs will pop up in department stores and women's club style shows around the country.
— fashion magazines will be rushing special Paris editions to newsstands everywhere.
— husbands, leery of what approval will do to their bank balances, will study their wives' reactions with real anxiety.
— psychologists will begin their semi-annual analysis of what French designers did to women's clothes this year, and why.
— historians will take notes of the modes for Spring of 1964 so that the future may be accurately informed.

From this moment on Paris couture ideas become public property, having been protected somewhat by gentlemen's agreements among editors delaying photo publication for nearly a month.

This deferment was enough at least to ship the originals at $800 and up into the hands of the couture house clientele before the line - for - line copies can become a part of the working girls' wardrobe.

There was never a dearth of a delay of word pictures, bare at the heels.

These flashed around the globe minutes after reporters breathlessly battled their way out of jammed showrooms at the end of the opening collections to make it to the nearest phone.

THE STORY
Everything is soft and feminine by day, softer and sexier by nightfall. The color formula is pastel or the spring traditional, navy and white. Huge floral prints currently a vogue in this country are "out." Tiny patterns are "in" and stripes are "in, in, in."

Pleats, unhappy news for lowprice copyists because they require so much fabric - flut-ter in all varieties, providing plenty of leg room for the increasingly active woman.

In even deeper is the daring of decollete with which Marc Bohan shocked the world last season. The real news which will never get its proper exposure in photographs because of editorial modesty is that necklines of daytime clothes are as low as an evening wear. Suit jackets barely button in time. Jumper necklines plunge BE-

LOW the waist.
Back in are belts, hats, and strapless gowns. The booty boy look of a season ago is suddenly gone. Skirt hems are status quo. Hairdos are soft, long-ish, sidarted and brushed coque-tishly over one eye. Shoes are

Marion Sims, Fiance Plan June Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Sims of West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marion Eunice to Charles Vernon Bunner of St. Louis, Missouri. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bunner, Garards Fort, Pennsylvania.

The wedding will be an event of June 21 at the Pleasant Hill Congregational Church in West Monroe.

Miss Sims has chosen her cousin, Miss Gay Beard of West Monroe, to serve as maid of honor. Bridesmaid will be Miss Ruth Bunner, of Morgantown, West Virginia, sister of the future bridegroom. Douglas Bunner of Garards Fort, Pa., will attend his brother as best man. Music for the wedding will be provided by Miss Ann Beard, organist and Miss Joyce Brown, soloist.

The bride-elect is a graduate of West Monroe high school and this time of year. To prolong her B. S. degree in her life, the Society of American Florists says to remove the Northeast Louisiana State College. Miss Sims is employed by the Ritenour Consolidated School District in St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Bunner was graduated from Mapletown high school, Mapletown, Pa., and is a graduate of DeVry School of Technology, Chicago, Illinois. He is presently employed as a technical engineer for McDonnell Aircraft Corp., at St. Louis.

EXTEND LIFE

Both flowers — cut tulips, iris, daffodils, and hyacinths — are excellent for arrangements at this time of year.

Suzanne Walter To Appear In Senior Recital

SUZANNE WALTER

Miss Suzanne Walter, daughter of Mrs. E. Fay Walter and the late Mr. Walter, will be presented in her senior piano recital on Tuesday, March 24. The program including works of Buxtehude, Bach, Beethoven, Liszt, Chopin, Gans and Bernstein, will be presented in the Winnsboro high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

Miss Walter is a state winner of the L.M.T.A. auditions which were held in Monroe last fall. She will fly to Greensboro, North Carolina on April 10 to compete in the southern division auditions in which she will represent Louisiana. She is a student of Mrs. Beatrice S. Moore.

The public is invited to the recital. A reception will be held following the program in the home of Mrs. E. Fay Walter, 403 Prairie Street.

Miss Walter plans to continue her study of music at Newcomb College, New Orleans, which she will enter as a freshman in the fall.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES PRESTON MAYO

Rita Hemphill Becomes Bride Of James P. Mayo

Miss Rita Pauline Hemphill, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. T. Hemphill of Monroe, became the bride of James Preston Mayo, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Mayo of Harrisonburg, on Monday, March 9. The bride's father performed the ceremony at 8 p.m. in the Bawcon Apostolic Church.

Vows were exchanged beneath a wedding arch, flanked by candelabra and split-leaf tropical palms. Suspended from the platform was a hanging palm tree and white wedding bells with white streamers. The chancel rail was garlanded with greenery and held lighted tapers.

Candlelighters were Miss Brenda Hemphill, sister of the bride and David Mayo Jr. Jack Allen Howell rendered two solos and was accompanied by Mrs. Patsy Bennett, who played traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her brother, the Rev. Joel W. Hemphill, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin, encrusted with pearls. Her veil of white tulle and rose-point lace drifted from a lace headress and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis, showered with white love knots.

Miss Gayle Hemphill attended her sister as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Pat Jones, Miss Doris Barnett and Miss Pat Ray. They wore identical floor length gowns of lavender satin peau de soie and brocade. They carried ivory fans with cascade bouquets of

New Officers Named By Review Club

The home of Mrs. W. T. Davis, 106 Glenmar, was gaily decorated with spring flowers in yellow and white when she entertained members of the Review Club Monday afternoon, March 16.

Mrs. Davis, president, opened the meeting by leading the group in the collect after which she gave a St. Patrick's Day reading.

During the business session the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Claude Smith chairman, Mrs. Allen Givens and Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., presented the slate of officers for the ensuing season.

New officers chosen include Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., president; Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., vice-president; Mrs. Ralph King Jr., secretary; Mrs. Sam Smith, treasurer and Mrs. Noland Harvey, member-elect to the advisory committee.

In observance of Federation Day, Mrs. Davis read excerpts from the Federated Club pamphlet and was assisted by other members in a brief program.

Mrs. George T. Walker introduced the program for the afternoon entitled "Appreciation - Economic." The study on travels in America was given by Mrs. Noland Harvey who reviewed Travels With Charley by John Steinbeck. The story is an account of Steinbeck's travels in a three-quarter-ton pickup truck with a French poodle named Charley, on a voyage of rediscovery in America.

"Make money your God, it will plague you like the devil," by Fielding was the introduction to Mrs. Thomas Dansby's review of The Day They Shook the Plum Tree, by Arthur Lev-

Green, who died in 1916, the richest and most detested woman in America, and the ruin of the lives of her children, who had no wish to perpetuate the name or memory of their forebears.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served a dessert course to Mrs. James Brown, Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Dansby, Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., Mrs. Prentice Gray Jr., Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Mrs. William Inabnet, Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Nat Spencer, Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Lester Martin and Mrs. Noland Harvey.

The bride graduated from West Monroe high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Mayo is a graduate of barber college in New Orleans. After a wedding trip to Miami, Florida, the couple will be at home at 1112 Fern Street in West Monroe.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Rev. and Mrs. Everett Mayo of Aimwell, La., Rev. and Mrs. Wes Busby of Meridian, Miss., Rev. and Mrs. David Mayo of Bastrop; Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Mayo of Harrisonburg; Rev. and Mrs. Richard Hancock of Bakersfield, Calif.; Miss Anise Mayo and Mrs. Harlan Nobles of Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Hemphill of Bude, Miss.; Mrs. Juanita Russell and Mrs. Linda Cramer of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mayo of Olla, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilks of Baton Rouge and Rev. and Mrs. Joel Hemphill of Bastrop.

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL D. McHENRY

Central Baptist Scene Of McHenry-Booth Vows

A mass arrangement of pink gladioli and greenery, flanked by pink tapers in branched candelabra formed a setting in Central Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Glenda Ruth Booth and Carroll D. McHenry, which was solemnized March 13 at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Booth, 213 Moore Ave., Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ross McHenry of Delhi.

Rev. Charles B. Littleton performed the double ring vows following a program of nuptial music by Mrs. James Perkins, organist and Harold Taylor, soloist.

Escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over tulle with voluminous skirt. The basque bodice featured a scoop neckline, etched with sequins and long tapered sleeves. A queen's crown of pearls and sequins with white tear drops held her waist length veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by white carnations and satin streamers.

Miss Bonita Flynn, maid of honor, wore a full-skirted gown of pink chiffon with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of rose pink carnations with pink satin streamers.

Serving as best man was Jerry Blake and ushers were Tommy Grafton and Walter Gates. Steve Boyte and George Booth, brother of the bride, served as candlelighters.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Booth was wearing a two-piece blue ensemble with matching hat, white shoes and gloves and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. McHenry, wore a turquoise dress with matching hat and

Harriet Ellen Buie Weds James Adrian Johnston

Historic Boeuf Prairie Methodist Church of Fort Necessity was the setting for the wedding of Miss Harriet Ellen Buie and James Adrian Johnston, which was solemnized at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 7. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marie Buie of Fort Necessity and the late W. S. Buie and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Johnston of Amarillo, Texas.

Rev. Theron McKisson performed the double ring ceremony following a program of nuptial music by Miss Karen Cuny, who played The Lord's Prayer at conclusion of the ceremony as the couple knelt on a white satin prie dieu.

Two pedestal baskets of white calla lilies, flanked by seven branched candelabra entwined with greenery formed a background for the vows. Calla lilies with fern and white tapers were used on the altar.

Escorted by her brother, Charles W. Buie, who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a short lace gown, styled with a double breasted jacket and long sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a circular crown and she wore a single strand of pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley atop a white Bible.

Matron of honor and only attendant for the bride was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles W. Buie. She wore an avocado silk model with bouffant overskirt, and a pillbox hat and short veil to match. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

B. Judd of Dallas, Texas, attended Mr. Johnston as best Necessity, served the wedding cake and Miss Mary Bostick of Gilbert, presided at the crystal punch service. Miss Jimmie Buie, cousin of the bride, attended the guest book at a table which held a memory candle, encircled at the base with yellow roses and fern.

For travel the bride wore a daffodil shantung dress with matching coat and black accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Johnston is a graduate of Stephens College at Columbia, Mo., and Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex. Mr. Johnston is a senior at Baylor University, College of Dentistry in Dallas.

Hand Of Friendship Tea Is ABWA Spring Event

The home of Mrs. Bernard Matravets, 1700 Auburn Ave., was the setting for the annual Spring Hand of Friendship tea of the American Business Women's Association, Sunday.

Guests were received in the foyer by the president, Mrs. John Morton; the tea chairman, Mrs. R. E. Brooks; Mrs. Alton E. Calhoun and the hostess, Mrs. Matravets. Mrs. Sarah Powell registered guests at a table graced by a tall white candle.

Highlighting the affair was a style show, narrated by Mrs. Oeal Strozler with models outfitted by Field's of the Twin City Shopping Center, with hats furnished by Rhea Lee's Millinery of Monroe. Modeling the Easter fashions were Juliana Matravets, Marjorie Avery, Floy McMillon, Charlotte McCall, Judy Strozler, Sarah Kelly and Kay Hammonds.

Miss Judy Strozler also rendered two vocal solos, "Easter Parade," and "Moon River."

The tea table was covered with a lace cloth over green linen and centered with a crystal footed container holding an arrangement of white carnations and bridal wreath. Serving green punch from a crystal bowl was Mrs. Norman McMillon while Mrs. Hollis Greene presided at the silver service.

Purpose of the ABWA Hand of Friendship Tea is to acquaint other local business women with the aims and purposes of the organization which includes promoting better understanding between employees and employers, elevating women in business and providing congenial social opportunities.

Guests attending the affair were Mrs. Martha Ayers, Mrs. Mary Ruth Cozine, Evelyn Logan, Aline Lonsberry, Beatrice Worley, Joyce Fowler, Lavern Shell, Mrs. T. L. Rittenhouse, Daurice Kenny, Polly DeRosia, Marlene Long, Mrs. Monroe Long, Mrs. Dell White, Mrs. Lea Rester, Mrs. W. H. Maddy, Mary Pilgreen, Edith Rossbach, Thelma Baggett, Alice Pankey and Linda Greene.

Members present were Mrs. Guy McDonald, Mrs. Sue Bruno, Mrs. Mabel Dowdy, Wanda Rogers, Mrs. Norman McMillon, Mrs. J. T. Avery, Mrs. Oeal Strozler, Mrs. John T. Gaddis, Mrs. J. P. Mosley, Mrs. Andy J. Couch, Frances L. White, Sara Powell, Mrs. Arnold Horrell, Mrs. John Morton, Mrs. Aubrey Maxwell, Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Miss June E. Cox, Mrs. Paul D. Wilhite, Mrs. Hollis E. Greene, Mrs. Clifford W. Byrd and Mrs. Jack E. Pankey.

Easter Plants Require Care To Retain Blooms

Easter plants should be attractive, enjoyable home decorations for many days.

Actually, flowering plants at this time of the year are doubly expressive. Their happy brilliance and shining glory are a perfect symbol of Easter. With proper care, they can remain indoors for some time as a much-desired reminder of the coming of spring.

Just one lovely flowering plant provides a fresh and bright accent note to a room. A collection of flowering plants, massed together, converts a corner into a veritable spring garden to be enjoyed despite outdoor wind and rain.

This year, notes the Society of American Florists, beautiful flowering plants can serve a third purpose, since March 30, the day after Easter, is National Shut-In Day. The glowing colors of tulips, sunny daffodils, traditional and regal Easter lilies, delicate hyacinths, and profuse azaleas can do much to perk up a "shut-in" at this time of the year.

The care needed by flowering plants to maintain their perfect loveliness for days isn't difficult, adds SAF, but it definitely determines their life span.

There are a few rules which apply to almost all Easter plants. They should be kept away from drafts and not placed close to radiators. They like a lot of light, but not direct sunlight. A relatively cool spot is good for them as are the same air and humidity that are healthy for a human being.

Of prime importance, says the Society, is the fact that these plants need plenty of water. Hydrangeas, for example, are exceedingly thirsty and may require water twice a day.

Azaleas should be watered every day. They also profit from a real dunking when the blooms seem soft. Just immerse the whole pot in water deep enough so it covers the top soil. When its soil is really wet, remove the pot from the water and let it drain.

Easter lily plants also should be kept amply moist. When a lily trumpet finally fades, SAF suggests snipping it off with shears so the remaining buds will receive adequate nourishment and come into full bloom. As the buds open, remove the yellow stamens so the pollen will not discolor the waxen purity of the beautiful flower petals.

Potted chrysanthemums dry out quickly. It is important to check daily to see if they need watering. This is also true of the flowering bulb plants, such as daffodils and hyacinths, which need water often.

With this minimum amount of care, flowering plants are excellent at almost any time, adds SAF, and can easily become a regular decorative feature of homes and offices.

Wedding Vows Exchanged By Olla Couple

Miss Juanita Cook became the bride of William Alton Guyon on Saturday, March 14 at 6 p.m. in a ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cook of Olla. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Fannie Guyon of Olla and Alton Guyon of Rosefield.

Rev. Dale Windham officiated at the exchange of vows in the presence of family members and a few close friends.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Sharon Garner, who wore a formal gown of yellow net over yellow satin. Attending Mr. Guyon as best man was Dale Fryor of Monroe.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of white lace and chiffon over satin, styled with a lace bodice, scoop neckline, long sleeves and a bouffant chiffon skirt. Her headdress was a small cap of white rose petals and her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums with greenery.

Following the ceremony the couple left on a brief trip after which they will be at home in Olla.

Lavish Fans Flit And Flirt

AP Newsfeatures The handiest weapon a female ever had, the fan to flit and flirt with, has come back on the fashion scene in time for Leap Year. During the recent Paris openings both the houses of Lanvin and Costello sent their models onto the runway peering coquettishly from behind lavish fans.

Assuming that these fans will successfully lure the man, designer Yves St. Laurent created a bridal head wreath that trails off into a braid laces with lilies of the valley and ending with a big bow. Sweeping along the floor, it resembles a matriador's pigtail.

MISS MARILYNN GAY REED

Marilynn Reed Engaged To Eugene Morgan Knapp

Wedding plans are being announced for the marriage of Miss Marilyn Gay Reed of Pineville, daughter of Mrs. James Lee Reed and the late Mr. Reed, formerly of Monroe, to Eugene Morgan Knapp, son of Dr. and Mrs. Billy J. Knapp of Alexandria.

The wedding will be an event on June 6 at 5 p.m. to be solemnized in Horseshoe Drive Baptist Church, Alexandria.

Miss Reed attended Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge and Alexandria and Louisiana College, Pineville. Mr. Knapp attended Northwestern State College, Natchitoches and is presently attending Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston.

The bride - elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. E. Carl Reed of West Monroe and of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Griffin of Pineville, formerly of Monroe.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Mrs. Lucy Beatrice Fitzpatrick From, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Denton, Texas, and Mr. Marion Trousdale Lipp, of Oak Grove, Monroe and Washington. The wedding took place Saturday afternoon, March 14, in The Shure Chapel of Washington's Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church.

Dr. Albert P. Shirkey, pastor of the Church, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by United States Congressman Otto E. Passman, of Monroe, and attending her as matron of honor was Mrs. Eleanor Glassford Gibson, of Washington. The bridegroom's attendant was his brother, Mr. Marvin N. Lipp, of Oak Grove.

They were joined, immediately following the ceremony, in the receiving line at a reception from France about a rapacious woman has been optioned for Marvin Lipp, of Oak Grove, and Broadway production by Roger the bride's two sons, James L. Stevens.

Turtleneck Rage Continues In Fashion Favor

The rage for the turtleneck collar, which started here, went to Paris and came back here, has now reached Italy. Like the once-ubiquitous bateau neck, the turtleneck has taken over all of fashion. The big spring dress look is a jumper with a white crepe turtleneck blouse. In Paris, Yves St. Laurent created a sensation with his holiday turtleneck ballgown. In Florence, almost every collection starred sleeveless, turtleneck dresses. Valentino had an orange chiffon turtleneck evening gown and one in white linen under a linen-edged leopard jacket.

Rules Given On Easy Care Of Leather

Leather is now such a year-round fashion, that women should know the simple rules for its care. Leather is a sturdy material which rain or snow doesn't harm, and which can be spot-cleaned with a soft cloth or sponge and mild soap.

Leather doesn't like heat, however, and should be stored in a cool, airy place on padded hangers to preserve shape. Sueded leather has a nap, appreciates frequent brushing with a suede brush to raise the nap and remove surface soil.

Leather should be cleaned before it becomes very dirty. Ingrained dirt is hard to remove without spoiling the color. The cleaner to whom a leather garment is given should send it to a leather specialist. Leather can't be cleaned like other garments, but if handled by those who know leather it will clean perfectly.

Welcome Garden Club Announces New Officers

Officers were named for the ensuing year when the Welcome Garden Club met Monday afternoon, March 16 in the Julia Wossman Recreation Center. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. W. T. Ellis, Mrs. J. R. Williams, Mrs. M. V. Clark, Mrs. Frank Pettit and Mrs. Leslie Clark.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Golsen, called the meeting to order and new officers were announced by Mrs. D. F. Dennis. They include Mrs. Golsen, president; Mrs. K. R. King, Queen Of Natchez Pilgrimage Begin Reign

At the brilliant Confederate Pageant Saturday night, March 21, David Kennedy Blough and Miss Imogene Sue Powlett, the Pilgrimage Garden Club's king and queen of the 1964 Natchez Pilgrimage, began their reign which will continue through April 5. Miss Powlett is second generation royalty as her mother, then Miss Jo Ella St. John, and her father, Brown Powlett, were the king and queen of the 1939 Natchez Pilgrimage, just 25 years ago. The 1964 queen is a freshman at Mississippi State College for Women and is a member of the Mamselles Social Club. Mr. Blough, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Blough, is a junior at Auburn University, where he is majoring in mathematics and also works at George C. Marshall Space Flight Center for the National Aeronautics & Space Administration in Huntsville, Ala., on the co-op plan. This year's Natchez Pilgrimage is attracting visitors from all parts of the United States. There are two five-hour tours each day; tickets are purchased at the Elk's Club, tour headquarters at the corner of Pearl and Franklin Streets. It requires three days to see all 30 houses included on the tour. The famous Confederate Pageant is presented every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights in the city auditorium. Negro Spirituals, "Highway to Heaven," are featured on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday nights. The Pilgrimage, which started March 7 will continue through Sunday, April 5.

Royal Purple Due For Return

While pink has kept its fashion grip for several seasons, designers have been slipping in here and there shades of what they feel will follow it—royal purple. Now the makers of Caprolan, a new man-made fiber, are giving it a push with a beautiful new tint that has a lively blush to the purple. Purple was in ancient times reserved for royalty because it was so rare. The dye came from the purpura shell-fish only, so there was little of it. Hence the phrase "born to the purple." Oddly enough, purple was also the first commercial dye ever developed. Nowadays any woman can be born to the purple, and dyes are busy on new mauves, lavenders and magentas they hope will prove as flattering as the vivid pinks have been. Heat fresh cocoanut in an oven to remove the shell easier.

Fort Miro DAR Chapter Welcomes New Members

Four new members were welcomed into Fort Miro Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, when it met Saturday, March 14 in the Julia Wossman Recreation Center. They are Mrs. Robert A. Warner, Mrs. Faye Cook, Mrs. B. A. Hynum and Mrs. Brooks Dawkins. Mrs. B. S. McRaney, chaplain, opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. John Gale led the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the American's creed. Miss Carrie Dee Drew, regent, presided over the meeting and welcomed the new members. Mrs. H. D. Montgomery gave a report on the Louisiana State Conference of DAR held in Alexandria March 3, 4, 5, which was attended by Miss Drew, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Pascal Norris, Mrs. Duncan Cook, delegates and Mrs. Harry Stone, public relations. Honors accorded Fort Miro Chapter at the conference included State Gold Honor Roll for outstanding accomplishments; a citation to Mrs. E. D. Shaw Jr., JAC chairman for the greatest increase in the number of new Junior American Citizens Clubs; first place for the largest number of new member applications; first place for the greatest increase in the number of subscriptions to the DAR magazine; honorable mention for press book and conservation report. Mrs. Pascal Norris gave a resume of a speech on communism made at the National Defense luncheon during the state conference, by Julian Williams of Tulsa, Okla., researcher for the Christian Crusader. Mrs. A. E. Montgomery Sr., chairman of historical markers, announced plans to place a granite marker on the west side of the Parish court house to mark Prairie de Canoes. Mrs. Norris, program chairman, introduced Col. Thomas S. Gunby, U.S. Army (Retired) who chose Panama as the subject for a timely discussion. Col. Gunby gave detailed background history of Panama and emphasized the 1903 treaty made by the United States with Panama in regard to the Canal Zone. He traced development of the present crisis with comments on what should be done to remedy the situation. During the social hour refreshments were served from a tea table presided over by Miss Drew. The hostess committee was comprised of Mrs. John Humble, chairman; Mrs. Emma Alexander; Mrs. Paul Batur, Mrs. Henry Biedenharn Sr., Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. Fagan Cox, Mrs. Joe H. Dixon, Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, Mrs. F. T. Preaus, Miss Ina Merle Thomas, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield Jr., Mrs. Frank H. Yelton. Other members present were Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. Culbert Lee, Mrs. John P. Zoll, Mrs. W. J. Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Health is the foundation of beauty. When health wanes beauty begins to fade. There are three main requisites for vibrant health—sound nutrition, exercise, and enough sleep. Most people give sleep the least thought, even though it is a vital beauty necessity, too. Studies show that the average person requires from seven to eight hours sleep a night. To help you get your quota, Justine Hannon, Director of Nursing at the Hospital for Joint Diseases in New York City, has some suggestions for you. This hospital was founded at the turn of the century and is primarily devoted to orthopedic problems. The body puts the brain to sleep, Miss Hannon said. While we are awake, messages constantly are going back and forth between the brain and body. When the messages from the body slow down, the brain can also slow down. When the two-way communication

Miss Valentine Is Bride Of James Clarkson

In a double ring ceremony Saturday, March 7, Miss Gladys Dale Valentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Matison Valentine of Monroe, became the bride of James William Clarkson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James William Clarkson Sr., Delhi.

Rev. O. J. Owens performed the candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. in Swartz Missionary Baptist Church in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. The couple exchanged vows before an altar flanked by pedestal baskets of white stock and emerald palms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white gown with an overskirt of Alencon lace. A pearl crown held her shoulder length veil and her bouquet was of white feathered carnations and stephanotis, which crested a white Bible.

Maid of honor and only attendant for the bride was her sister, Miss Mary Anne Valentine, who wore a turquoise blue dress and veil with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Rodney Clarkson attended his brother as best man and ushers were James and Elliott Valentine, brothers of the bride. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. P. W. Martin, pianist.

Mrs. Valentine, mother of the bride, wore a green printed silk dress with black accessories. Mrs. Clarkson was attired in a navy printed silk with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's table was covered with a white cutwork linen cloth over green. The tiered wedding cake was served by Miss Mary Anne Valentine and presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Charlotte Edwards.

The bride is a senior at Ouachita high school. Mr. Clarkson was graduated from Delhi high school and attended Northeast Louisiana State College. The couple is residing on College Avenue.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frank Little and great grandmother, Mrs. Annie J. Chambers of Laurel, Miss. Miss Charlotte Edwards and Byron Edwards of Delhi.

On Dit'

by Denise

Well, this was the week of reckoning. It seems that our own dear former Monroian JESSIE LEE TOUCHSTONE LAMB has been telling the good citizens of Cookeville, Tenn., for seven years that there is no place, but no place, like home — Monroe, that is.

So there has been restlessness among the natives and talk of "seeing for ourselves". This past Sunday, Jessie Lee and friends (two station wagons full) arrived from Tennessee for several days visit with family and friends here. We are happy to report that a number of most gracious hostesses have again vindicated Monroe's claim to hospitality par excellence. Those who were unable to entertain due to the visitors busy schedule showered them with candy, flowers, cookies. Our guests have departed singing praises of gardens, homes, recipes. Even the weather was glorious beyond belief. And may we add in passing that these visitors were a joy to have, with their enthusiastic delight and response to everything they found.

First sight to greet the girls as they arrived at HORTENSE TOUCHSTONE'S Sunday evening was the flowering crabapple in her garden, which bloom early. They arrived in time for a real Southern supper of stuffed breasts of chicken, congealed melon balls, hot biscuits, and fresh strawberries with angel food cake. (And speaking of strawberries, they were served for breakfast, alternately with fresh nectarines, each morning of the visit.)

At each guest's plate that evening was a manila envelope "survival kit" prepared by GEORGIE TOUCHSTONE. It contained a name tag, map of Monroe, cornplaster and Band-Aids, gilded key to the city, tiny umbrellas in case of rain, address books and pencils, and toy watches for synchronizing schedules.

The group, who left behind a total of nine husbands and 22 children were MARY JEAN DELOZIER, SARA JARED, IDA MAE MCRAWLEY, BETTY MORRISON, MARY LOU TUCKER, BILLIE SCHMIDT, SARA STEWART, and NELL TEEPLE. Mothers-in-law came from as far away as Michigan and Ohio to mind the house while the girls travelled. One entertained the "Louisiana Left-Outs" for dinner one evening.

Parties began with a morning coffee Monday at the home of Cissy Ryan, with TEEDIE DIXON co-hostess. Spring bouquets were used throughout the house, with a magnificent arrangement of flowering peach and white camellias in a tall candelabra - epergne on the piano. In the dining room, a crystal bowl on the table held a bouquet of tulips, daffodils, and daisies. The hostesses served a cup of fresh fruit and champagne with hot cheese-olive balls, shrimp sandwiches, and nuts. About twenty-five attended.

The visitors were invited for lunch at Elson's, home of EMY - LOU Bieden-HARN. Here the gardens are just reaching their height of blooming trees and bulbs. The fountains were playing, and music piped through hidden speakers.

An Easter theme was carried out in appointments for luncheon. Emy-Lou used her Sevres bisque garniture on the dining table, with each piece containing cake eggs iced with pastel icing and flowers to match: fresh violets with pale lavender eggs; pale pink camellias with pink eggs; and so on. The first the colors of the daffodils and white camellias in the centerpiece. Second course was Quiche Lorraine, followed by Bavarian macaroon creme. Coffee was served in the garden room, where the guests exclaimed over the English set of miniature thatched houses with Easter eggs covered with rabbit - shaped cosies of gay felt. The cake was a lavender Easter bonnet ornamented with lilies of the valley and pink roses. Under the tall cake stand were fresh violets and purple eggs. English crystallized violets filled the sugar bowl.

Later that afternoon, Hortense invited a group of her friends, mothers of Jessie Lee's friends, and the latter's aunts to meet her guests. Included with the 20 ladies was one man, brave M. S. DIXON, Hortense's brother. He and BLANCHE OLIVER regaled the visitors with their regional dialect stories. HELEN ABELL and LADY BIRD BREARD poured at the tea table, which was centered with a spring bouquet of Dutch iris, tulips, daisies, and stock.

Monday night GEORGIE and DICK TOUCHSTONE entertained at a family supper party. Dick charcoaled an eye of round roast, carefully marinated for 48 hours ahead. Georgie contributed a wild rice casserole, raw spinach salad, and a freezer of homemade strawberry ice cream and cake.

Hostesses for lunch on Tuesday were FRANCES McHENRY and ETHEL BOARDMAN, who invited the group to the McHenry home at noon. Fourteen were seated at a table decorated with red camellias, hyacinths, and yellow tulips. The Deep South menu comprised chicken with mushrooms, baked grits, fresh fruit salad, and hot rolls. For dessert, heavenly lemon pie with meringue shell.

Some fifty old friends of Jessie Lee's were invited on Tuesday afternoon when BENNIE ABELL, CLARICE JOHNS, and SUE WARD entertained with a sherry party at the Abell home. A tall arrangement of white pear blossoms graced the living room, while the dining table was centered with white flowering peach and white tulips. A choice of coffee or sherry was served with cheese straws, dip, pralines, and petit fours.

That evening, HUGH and KURT TOUCHSTONE were hosts for a family dinner. The arriving guests approached the door on a green crepe paper "carpet", suggesting St. Patrick's Day. On the entrance were large shamrock cut-outs with welcoming words. Each guest received as a favor an Irish pipe.

Kurt prepared the food himself, with emphasis on Louisiana's delicious seafood. First course, to be eaten finger-style, was marinated lump crab meat with crackers. Next, the Tennesseans were invited onto the glass porch, where Kurt served his subtly seasoned oysters Rockefeller. Charbroiled jumbo shrimp formed the main course, and the girls tapered off with crayfish bisque.

Prior to their departure Wednesday, the girls were guests at luncheon at Bayou Desiard country club. Hortense invited her visitors and those who had entertained them for a farewell party on the glazed porch. Here the table, covered with pale yellow, was centered with a bowl of filled tulips. Tiny Easter baskets filled with mints were favors at each place. The Club's famous shrimp salad was served, with slices of tomato and avocado, spiced peaches with cream cheese, hot garlic bread, and fresh strawberry pie.

From Monroe, the group proceeded to Natchez, which none had visited previously. (And by the time they got to Winnsboro, it was raining in Monroe.) They spent Wednesday night at Ilope Fram and attended the pageant, touring the ante-bellum homes Thursday morning. Then on to New Orleans for sightseeing before leaving for home. They are to arrive back in Cookeville today. Truly a trip to treasure in the heart forever.

Last Saturday was League Day in Monroe, with the annual Homecoming luncheon for Junior Charity League members at the Paragon club ballroom. At this meeting, new officers are installed, new provisional members introduced, and sustaining members are back to catch up on League doings. Highlight of this year's luncheon was the style show entitled "This Is Your Life, NANCY COBB DAVIS," honoring outgoing president. Some twenty models, chosen from various classifications of League membership, showed clothes from Field's as BESS COURTMAN related highlights in Nancy's adult life.

Preceding the luncheon, past presidents of the League were invited for the traditional sherry party, held this year at the home of HELEN WALLACE. Co-hostesses were EULA DAVENPORT and WANDA HINKLE. Spring bouquets utilizing Japanese quince, camellias, and violets decorated the entrance and living room.

Centering the dining table was a footed silver and crystal container filled with flowering branches of pear and crabapple. A choice of sherry or coffee was served by LOUISE THEUS and MERLE ADAMS. Trays of miniature sweet rolls, cheese straws, and salted nuts were set out. Later the past presidents went on to the luncheon, where they were accorded seats of honor before the speaker's table.

At the presidents' party we noted the outfit worn by JOAN SAGER: pink linen with matching short cape, worn with white turban, pink shoes and bag. Louise Theus chose a primavera green silk suit with white frilly blouse. FRANCES ADCOCK was stunning in black with shocking pink polka dots, with a scarf at the neck of pink dotted with black. She wore a black straw hat and carried a shocking pink umbrella.

ANNE BERNHARDT accentuated her emerald green silk suit with a blue and green print scarf, echoing the material of the jacket lining. A large beige rose ornamented Eula's tall crown beige straw. Her dress was of natural silk linen. AUDREY NEAL pinned a nosegay of fresh violets to her navy silk suit with luscious blue blouse. An antique Russian lavallier of uncut stones set in lapis lazuli was the perfect accent for Helen Wallace's turquoise linen blouse sheath. All in yellow with matching hat was VIRGINIA HARGROVE.

While MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS wore a reversible cape with her green silk sheath. Wanda's outfit was spring pink, a ribbon knit suit with pink linen blouse. At the luncheon, NANCY DAVIS passed the gavel to new president CAROL McDONALD. Nancy wore a yellow hat with a linen dress of vivid aquamarine. Carol's suit was a tweed mixture of pink and brown, with which she wore a coffee colored silk blouse, hat, and kid gloves.

Other outfits noted at the League luncheon included PAT FUNDERBURK's suit of palest celadon silk, worn with a hat in several shades of green overlaid with white lace. SANDY HOLT's white waffle pique with black jet buttons and white with a striking black patent hat. With a pink crepe dress pleated from neck to hem, JUDY WORTHEN wore a black straw with one large pink rose. JEAN DICKENHORST's linen suit and Garbo hat were of the exact shade of Quachita Parish Public Library sent four representatives to Shreveport this weekend for the Louisiana Library Association meeting at the Capt. in Shreve. BETTY BIEDENHARN and CARRIE DEE DREW are representing the Board of Control. FRANCES FLANDERS, librarian, and her assistant, JULIA AVANT, are also attending. Frances is chairman of the state association nominating committee, and is taking part in a panel discussion of student use of the library.

For our poem today, here are a few lines by the nineteenth century writer, James Thomson:

Once in a saintly passion
I cried with desperate grief,
"Oh Lord, my heart is black with guile,
Of sinners I am chief."
Then stopped my guardian angel
And whispered from behind,
"Vanity, my little man,
You're nothing of the kind."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Interesting Books Now At Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A few weeks ago, I mentioned the scarcity of new books of fiction. This week we have a large number of new books in this field and they are books to appeal to a variety of readers. A very fine piece of writing is "The Pilgrim Prince" by Gladys Barr. This is a biographical novel based on the life of John Bunyan. The author has given us an excellent picture of the Puritan period in England and an unforgettable portrait of a man. "The Winter People" by Gilbert Phelps follows the same theme as James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" but is not nearly as well done. It is escape literature and will find some eager readers. "The Raider" by John Jennings is a chronicle of a gallant ship of World War II and will interest many readers, especially men.

A most unusual book is "The Dark Dancer" by Frederic Prokosch. It is a novel based on the life of Shah Jehan, who built the Taj Mahal. It is also a mirror for the hopes and fears and soul searchings of the author. It will not appeal to every reader, but will be thoroughly enjoyed by some. "The Bells of Shore-ditch" takes its title from an old nursery rhyme, but this is a very adult contemporary novel, dealing with the power elite and corruption in high places. "Oh! To Be In England" is the title of H. E. Bates latest novel and if you enjoy him, as many do, you will be happy to read it. Mr. Bates is entertaining and has a large following. "A Sign Upon My Hand" by Marjorie Adler will be enjoyed by those who avidly read "Marjorie Morningstar" a few years ago. This is the story of a woman, who rejected her own heritage, but finally came back to it.

There are also many new titles of non-fiction available this week. "The Business Press In America" by David P. Forsyth is a most interesting study. "Venture Inward" by Hugh L. Cayce is another of this author's books in the field of psychological research. Samuel Kling is the author of "Complete Guide To Divorce" a book for which we have had numerous requests. "Renew Your Life Through Yoga" written by Indra Devi will interest readers in this field. "The Catholic Reformation" by Henri Daniel-Rop is an interesting study of the Catholic church during the period of the reformation. "The Meaning of Jewish History" by J. B. Agus is a very scholarly work.

"The Manmade Wilderness" by Clara W. Mayer is a penetrating study of life in America today. "Striving to Make it My Home" by Marion L. Starkey is a study of the African slave trade during the American colonial period. "Abundance for What" is a very splendid book of essays written by David Riesman. Conrad Joyner is the author of a most provocative book called "The Republican Dilemma: Conservatism or Progressivism." Another new book of interest to the real estate brokers is "Real Estate Appraisal And Investment" written by Sanders Kahn. Pauline Arnold is the author of "Money, Make It, Spend It, Save It." "America's new Policy Makers" by Donald W. Cox is an interesting view of big business and government today. "Systematic Organic Chemistry" by Hugh C. Muldoon is an interesting addition to the chemistry section.

There are a number of practical books such as "Audel's Television Repair Manual", Ernest A. Venk's "Automotive Fundamentals," Jack Kramer's "Growing Orchids At Your Windows," J. J. McCoy's "The Complete Book of Training and Care" and Elizabeth Watson's "Bride In The Kitchen." "Folklore of the Oil Industry" by Mody C. Boatwright is an interesting collection of tall tales.

We have noticed that there is an increased interest in World War I and we have two new books on this subject. One is called "Heroes and Legends of World War I" and was written by Arthur Whitehouse. Cyril Falls is the author of the second one, of which the title is "Armageddon, 1918." Several other books of history will find a ready audience. "The Saxon and Norman Kings" by Christopher Brooke is a very splendid history of England. "The Black Ship" by Dudley Pope deals with the mutiny on the Hermione in 1792, which is not nearly as well known as the mutiny on the Bounty

but which is a very exciting event. "The Day of the Lion" by Roy McGregor

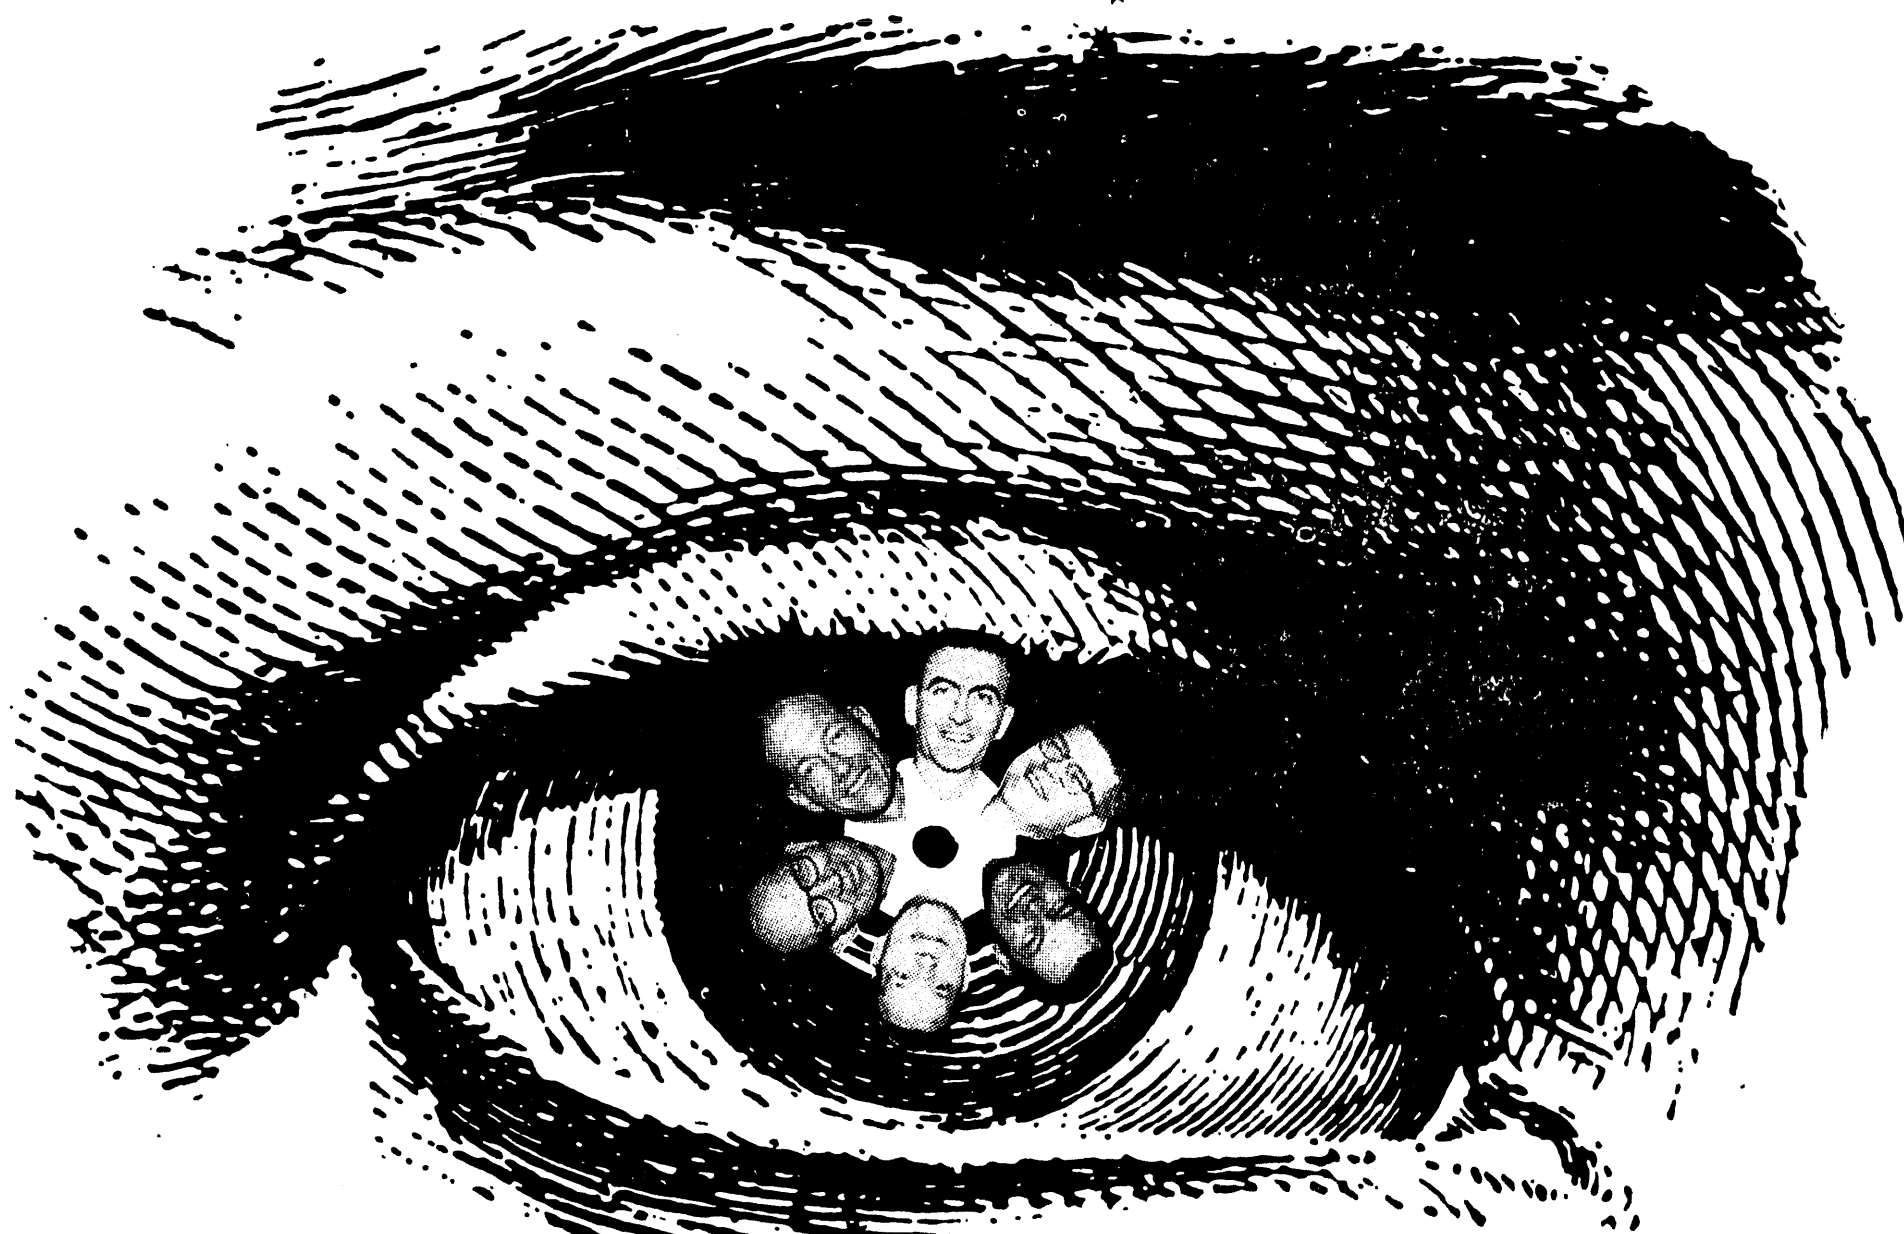

Hastie is a discussion of Italy during the reign of Mussolini.

There are also a number of additions to the Reference collections of the different libraries. Two of the Libraries have new editions of the World Book Encyclopedia, four of them have copies of the World Book Encyclopedia Dictionary which was a new publication this year. Moody's "Handbook of widely held common stocks" is to be found at the main Library. "The Fisherman's Encyclopedia" will interest all sportsmen. "Acadian Church Records" by Winston De-Ville is an addition to the genealogy section at the Main Library, while copies of the "Current Biography Yearbook for 1963 are to be found at the Main Library, the West Monroe Library and the Anna Meyer branch for reference work. Our Libraries are being used extensively. Are you using them? If not, we invite you to do so.

Shoplifters Use Many Unique Systems Here

By SARAH LITTLE
World Staff Writer

"The stealth of pilfering wolf", a line from a poem by English writer John Milton, could very well be used to describe the busy shoplifters who stealthily pilfered an estimated $1.1-million worth of merchandise from Twin City stores last year.

According to police terminology, a "shoplifter" is a person who steals from a shop, goods exposed for sale. This includes all persons of all ages, sexes and color. Whether the item be big, little or medium-sized doesn't matter, so long as it was taken from a store and kept without reimbursement to the shop.

Shoplifters fall into two or perhaps three categories — the professional, the amateur and the compulsive kleptomaniac. The professional usually steals merchandise from stores for resale on the black market, while the amateur may steal an item and resell it, but more often steals an item on impulse for his or her own keeping. The third category — the kleptomaniac, steals because he is sick and cannot help himself, but needs professional counseling for his illness.

INTERESTING FIGURES

Downtown store managers on DeSiard Street in Monroe revealed some surprising and interesting figures on shoplifting. With almost complete accord, the managers agreed that women were more often the culprit, and that the age range of most shoplifters would be 15 to 30. However, one store manager, said "grandmothers" have been caught scooping jewelry off the counters into big purses or walking out with items stuffed into umbrellas.

The favorite "modus operandi" for the younger set and for the professionals, according to both police and shopowners, is to enter the store in a group of three to five. While one of the group engages the clerk in showing some item, usually difficult to be gotten to, the rest of the gang spreads out through WORLD STAFFER Frances Phillips illustrates how overcoats, equipped with hooks on the lining offer perfect hiding places for stolen items of small clothing and jewelry for shoplifters.

Many times, pockets are also sewn into the lining of coats where additional items can be concealed. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford) pregnant, and hide merchandise underneath the blouse top of their two-piece outfits. Others will take dresses to dressing rooms, put them on underneath their own clothes and walk out, while still others will simply stuff dresses or other items of apparel in the front of their clothes while still in the store aisles.

One case involving dresses which puzzled a local department store was finally cleared when the woman suspected of stealing dresses from the store was caught. Store officials said she had long been suspected, but after a careful watch, personnel knew that when she left the dressing rooms, she wore only one dress. The mystery was solved when a sharp clerk realized that the woman wore a coat into the store, but did not wear any type of dress or other outer garment under the coat when she came in.

Other women will carry big purses which they may fill with whatever they may strike their fancy, while still others have hidden pockets sewn into skirts or coats where they hide articles.

Many men shoplifters will have hooks sewn into the lining of their overcoats where they will hang stolen articles out of sight. Some men stitch down the lining of their coats, then cut slits into the top of them where small items such as jewelry can be dropped out of sight.

Much jewelry is also stolen from display counters when a customer asks to be shown a ring or watch and tries it on. The clever professional then switches an imitation for the real "McCoy" and the clerk never knows until it is too late.

LATEST FORM

But one of the "brassiest" forms of shoplifting to hit the Twin Cities is the latest one of stealing merchandise from a store and then returning it to the store for refunds. Most stores will refund a customer's money if he is dissatisfied with the merchandise in any way, and shoplifters played havoc with this form of crime before store managers got wise to what

THE FALSE BOX and the big handbag both illustrated here by World Staffer Frances Phillips are two of the favorite gimmicks used by shoplifters in making off with small items from stores. The false box is tied with string, which is glued to the box and the string cut at the lid's edge so that it can be lifted and articles put inside. To all appearances, the box is tied with a string. Dropping stolen items into large purses is a common method used by women shoplifters. (Staff photo by Ben Bradford) mas or Easter, hire special policemen to help watch.

However, in the past in order to avoid being liable for false arrest suits, store owners had to be completely certain that a customer had shoplifted an item before he could be detained for police questioning.

Just recently, merchants got a helping hand by the courts when the law on shoplifting was changed. A merchant can now "use reasonable force to detain for questioning for a length of time not to exceed 60 minutes on the merchant's premises any person whom he has reasonable ground to believe has committed theft of goods displayed for sale by the merchant, regardless of the actual value of such goods, and such detention shall not constitute an arrest. Willful concealment of goods either inside or outside the store of the merchant is "prima facie" evidence of intent to steal and permanently deprive the owner of his goods."

The law reads on to state that "no peace officer, merchant or merchant's specifically authorized employee shall be criminally or civilly liable for false arrest or false imprisonment of any person detained as provided" in the aforementioned statute" where the said police officer, merchant or merchant's specifically authorized employee had reasonable ground at the time of the detention or arrest for believing that the person detained or arrested committed theft of goods displayed for sale, regardless of the actual value of such goods."

Thus, shopowners can now detain people they suspect of shoplifting without fear of being sued for false arrest.

But local merchants also pointed out that many offenders are juveniles, who they hesitate to prosecute. "It is up to the parents to see that their children don't steal," Beckett said.

Local merchants also called on the Ministerial Alliance to preach sermons on the "sin of stealing" and awaken parents to their duties of pointing out the follies of crime and of setting a better example for their children.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Looking back at the recent Chicago photo trade show, here are a few additional items of general interest which received more than passing attention and which will soon be available:

The device which resembles a TV set with a camera on top. This turned out to be a magic machine which instantaneously and electronically converts a negative into a positive picture for viewing. This unit is smaller, less intricate — and about $1,000 cheaper — than a device first seen at the 1958 Photokina in Germany. After years of research and perfection, Graphic Electronics of LaBelle, Ill., have produced this American version of looking at a negative and transforming it to the picture it will make. It will sell for about $350.

DRY PRINT

The Ilfordprint system from England, of producing a dry print in 10 seconds. This process, demonstrated by Ilford Inc., uses a special paper whose emulsion incorporates a developing agent. It is run through a compact processor using two chemicals: an activator and stabilizer. It eliminates the use of water, the washing and drying process.

The attractive "Madison Avenue" dispatch case which turns out to be a combination projector, viewer and screen for instant slide showing. This is one of the many ingenious visual aid products of Hudson Photographic Industries, Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y. The "10 Square Slide Theater" set up on a desk or table and plugged into an electric outlet, shows slides in a fully lighted room. It can be used by teachers in a classroom, salesmen visiting prospective clients, doctors, dentists or anyone who might have need for a fast, convenient visual reference method.

NEW MODEL

The new model Zeiss Contarex 35mm single lens reflex camera with two specialized features. They've added 3 additional interchangeable focusing screens and a data recording strip. The extra focusing screens are important aids in macrophotography, photomicrography, and in telephoto shooting. The data recording strip enables the photographer to add written data to the film at the time the frame is exposed.

The inexpensive slide show pointer. This handy gadget for slide fans who wish to point out specific items in their pictures is made by Edna Lite of Peekskill, N. Y., for under $10. The tiny, motorized, automatic 35mm camera which weighs 16 ounces and takes 15 full-frame shots in succession. The Ricoh Auto-Shot has an f2.8 lens, a spring winding system for automatic film advance and electric eye exposure automation.

The new black-and-white and color film announced by Dynacolor of Rochester, N. Y. The black-and-white film, Dynapan, is panchromatic film with an ASA 160 speed and will come in two-roll containers in 620, 120 and 127 roll film sizes.

ONE OF THE OUTDOOR scenes from "Mail Order Bride," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of the 1890 West, has Keir Dullea and Buddy Ebsen shooting it out with cattle thieves. Also starring in the comedy-drama are Lois Nettleton and Warren Oates. The picture is now showing at the Jim Theatre.

CURTAIN CALL

"Breath Of Spring," the next attraction at Strauss Playhouse, illustrates the varied aspects of the casting process. Jean Sayles, for example, has narrowly missed being picked for parts in several plays over the past few seasons. This time perseverance paid off when just the right part claimed her.

In contrast, Barbara Easterling made her initial bid for a Little Theatre role and it happened that she hit the jackpot the very first time. Our members have something to look forward to in the debuts of these two actresses who, along with Sue Brooks and Judy Evans, compose the rather eccentric group of downcast and spinsters who try their hand at organized crime.

THE retired brigadier who will be portrayed by Ron Robinson, fresh from his success as Prince Dauntless in "Once Upon A Matress," One individual seldom gets two leads in a single season, not only because executive director Richard M. Clark tries to rotate the available talent, but because there are seldom that many opportunities for one person's capabilities.

This time the accent and mannerisms of a rather stuffy British military pensioner are so vital to the fun of the show that Ron's clever impersonation won him the nod. Jennie Welch, the Nightingale of Samarkand, in "Once Upon A Matress," will appear as Lily, the cockney maid, while Bill Ray Moore rounds out the cast as the Scotland Yard man.

THE plot of "Breath Of Spring" revolves about furs, and we need as many as we can borrow. The script calls for several fur coats, but knowing their scarcity in our climate, we may have to write in parts for jackets, shrugs and stoles. Even though we have a locked wardrobe room or could arrange to take furs to somebody's home every night, we would hesitate to borrow brand new furs, but if you feel disposed to lend any that might have outworn their original glamor, please call Richard Clark at FA 2-1235 or Judy Evans at FA 5-3200. Needless to say, the coats that have been so generously donated to us in the past will be pressed into service, but they will have

STAMPS

Several new sets of stamps — ranging from a variety of birds to old sailing vessels — have been issued by Australia. The bird set features a magpie framed by eucalyptus, a galah perched on a dead tree and a blue wren on a background of broken fern. All three stamps are in natural color. The ship set consists of two stamps. One depicts a portrait of Mathew Flinders with his ship, the "Investigator," in the background. The other adhesive shows George Bass with the whale boat in which he entered Bass Strait. These two stamps are part of the Navigators series which began with the recent Tasman issue. The simultaneous issue of stamps honoring Flinders and Bass recalls their voyage together in 1796 in the "Tom Thumb" and their later separate explorations. It is also appropriate that the Flinders stamp will be released on the 150th anniversary of his death.

India has issued a new commemorative stamp honoring the 85th anniversary of the birth of Madam Sarojini Naidu, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Madam Naidu was known as a fiery orator and politician. She matriculated at Madras University at the age of 12 and later studied

In England at Kings College and Griton College. She began her political career by making speeches to promote the "feminist" movement in India. She was the first woman ever to preside at an annual session of the Indian Nationalist Party.

GREEN ROOM TILES

Several of Claude Fuller's professional associates at Northeast State College gave him an unusual and much appreciated birthday surprise last week. Gertrude Sandrock and Beryl Franklin, together with Sybil Fuller, honored Claude with Green Room tiles for his parts in "Teahouse Of The August Moon," "Come Blow Your Horn," and "The Desperate Hours."

Miss Lallage Feazel is due back from New York today and we are looking forward to her report on the current theatrical season. Within a few months, the play reading committee will be deliberating our schedule for 1964-65 and always welcomes comment from those who have seen the Broadway shows.

Visitors to Monroe last week were former residents Jack Madden and Bob Smith who now live in the vicinity of Asheville, North Carolina. Jack served Little Theatre as a director treasurer of the building committee and vice president for administration. Bob acted in "The Mousetrap," "Mister Roberts," "Inherit the Wind," and "The Solid Gold Cadillac." Both report the community theatre in their new bailiwick is not an adequate replacement for ours.

Activity Remains Slow In District Oil, Gas Drilling

Activity continued rather slow last week in the 15 northeast Louisiana parishes of the Monroe Oil & Gas District, though the arrival of spring and the promise of settled weather may hold the key to the future.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook reported five completions during the week — one in Ouachita Parish — but only 19 rigs were actively drilling or testing, scattered in eight parishes.

Recording completions, along with Ouachita, were Tensas Parish, also reporting one, and Caldwell Parish with three final.

LaSalle Parish had most of the active rigs, seven, followed by Catahoula and Tensas parishes with three each. Concordia had two and Avoyelles, Grant, Madison and Union all had one each.

Fifteen new locations staked during the week were divided among seven parishes, led by Concordia with five, Ouachita and LaSalle had three each; Union, Caldwell, Catahoula and Grant, one each.

Only recompletions during the week was in LaSalle Parish, section 25-10-2E of the Olla Field. Placid Oil Company's Louisiana Central No. 54 was recompleted at 3604 feet.

Five wells were plugged and abandoned and 71 sites listed as inactive.

Stocks Slip During Week For 1st Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market backed away slightly last week, taking its first loss in seven weeks.

By Wednesday Dow Jones industrial average had run up a string of nine straight daily advances to historic highs, reaching a closing peak of 820.25.

On Thursday the market drifted off hesitantly and irregularly. The profit-taking mood heightened on Friday when stocks sank to their worst loss since Jan. 29.

On balance, the list took only a small loss for the week.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.29 at 814.93.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .3 to 301.7, its first decline since the week ended Feb. 1.

The market was overdue for a correction, analysts agreed, and the reluctant nature of the decline — with volume lower on days when stocks fell — impressed them as bullish for the future.

The week's total volume was 27,275,000 shares compared with 28,204,421 the previous week on the New York Stock Exchange.

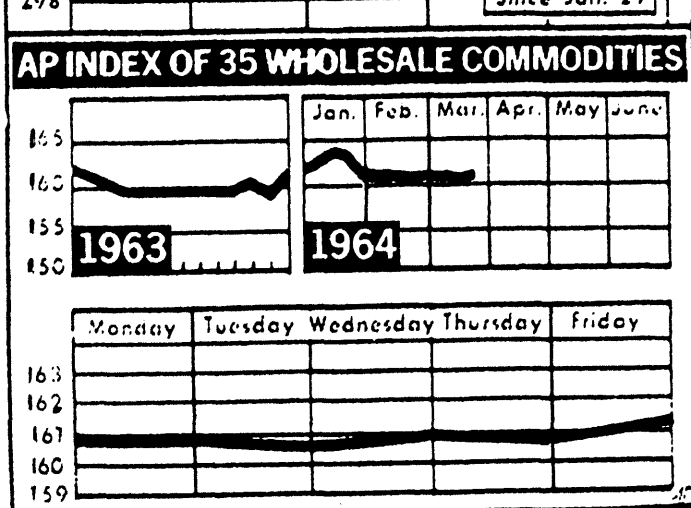

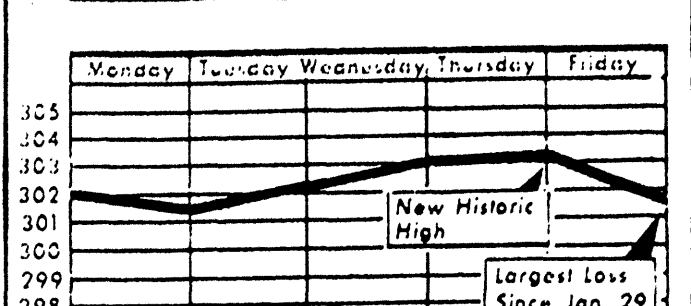

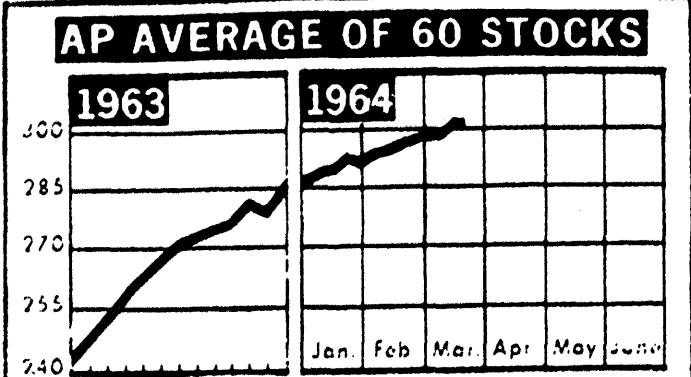

Although the popular market averages all declined, the margin of losers over gainers on the "Big Board" was only 689 to 680 among the 1,521 issues traded.

Most of the business and economic news was good. A railroad strike threat appeared early in the week but it faded by mid week. The nation's industrial production for February rose to a record for the fifth straight month and made the widest gain since last October.

Steel production for the week held about even but the industry was reported booming. Auto sales were up for the latest reporting period. More news came about copper price increases. Housing starts remained well above the year-earlier rate although down a bit from January.

Long term U.S. government bonds tumbled to two-year lows with their steepest one-week slide of the year. Corporates also dipped to around the lowest level in two years.

Volume dropped to $45,206,000 par value from $48,733,000 the previous week.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks registered its first decline in seven weeks when it closed this week at 301.7 from 302.0 a week earlier. The commodity index advanced this week from 160.9 to 161.3 in preceding period. Nonferrous metals scored largest gain. (AP Wirephoto)

Economic Shots Given To Nation

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The economy got some supercharged shots in the arm during the week.

The diagnosis was that business is fine and likely to get better.

General Motors Corp. injected new strength into the business bloodstream with the announcement that it will invest $2 billion in new plant and equipment in 1964 and 1965. In addition, it will spend $800 million on tooling for new models in each year.

The February increase in nonfarm jobs was the largest rise in nearly two years.

The steel industry reported production and shipments at a booming rate.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York had these observations: "The economy, which during much of its convalescence from a mild 1960 chill fretted and fussed like the most nervous hypochondriac, now is acting like a patient finally convinced that he is solidly on the mend. Confidence in the business outlook is stronger than at any time in the past four years."

"The medicine that has made the difference appears to be a compound of several ingredients — among them tax reductions; counter news from the retail counters, factory order desks and corporate board rooms; and the elixir of persistently rising stock prices."

Estimated its new facilities will provide 50,000 new jobs in the next two years.

The No. 1 automaker is aiming at an industry sales mark of 10 million passenger cars by 1970.

Lynn Townsend, president of Chrysler Corp., has predicted that sales this year will total a record 8 million, compared with 7.7 million in 1963.

The industry turned out its two-millionth car of the calendar year during the week. Passenger car production for the week totaled an estimated 165,500 units, compared with 164,448 the previous week and 155,688 a year ago.

The increase in jobs last month made a heartening dent in the persistent unemployment problem.

The nonfarm payroll rose 80,000 from January to 56.9 million, compared with the usual seasonal drop of 200,000. The increase was concentrated most heavily in construction and factory employment.
